

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THE many incorrect editions of this book, published of late years, have occasioned much trouble and vexation to instructors of youth, who have therefore long wished to see an edition accurately revised and corrected. To attain an object so important to master and scholar, the proprietor of the Scotch edition (from which this is carefully printed) obtained the assistance of the Rector of the Grammar School of Aberdeen: who has not only carefully compared this with the latest editions published in the Author's life time, and under his own inspection; but, by marking the quantity of the Penult Syllable, where it is most liable to be mistaken, has also, it is hoped, made it easier for beginners to acquire a just pronunciation of the language.

To the above the publishers of this edition would add that they have employed the Rev. WILLIAM MANN, A. M., classical teacher in the city of Philadelphia, to revise the work and correct the press. He has not altered Ruddiman's text in the slightest degree, but has considerably improved the work by marking the quantity of the vowels, in nearly two thousand instances; these emendations must give this edition a decided preference to any former one we have met with; besides, he has appended several valuable foot notes, printed in smaller type to distinguish them from the Author's notes.

NOTES.

GRAMMAR is the art of speaking any language rightly; as, Hebrew, Greek, Latin, English, &c.

Latin Grammar is the art of speaking rightly the Latin tongue.

The Rudiments of that grammar are plain and easy instructions, teaching beginners the first principles, or the most common and necessary rules of Latin.

The Rudiments may be reduced to these four heads; I. Treating of letters. II. Of syllables. III. Of words. IV. Of sentences.

These are naturally made up one of another; for one or more letters make a syllable, one or more syllables make a word, and two or more words make a sentence.

A letter is a mark or character representing an uncompound ed sound.

K, Y, Z, are only to be found in words originally Greek; and H, by some, is not accounted a letter, but a breathing.

We reckon the J, called Jod (or Je), and the V, called Vau, two letters distinct from I, and U; because not only their figures, but their powers or sounds, are quite different: J sounding like G before E, and V almost like F.

A vowel is a letter that makes a full and perfect sound by itself.

A consonant is a letter that cannot sound without a vowel.

A syllable is any one complete sound.

There can be no syllable without a vowel; and any of the six vowels alone, or any-vowel with one or more consonants before or after it, make a syllable.

There are, for the most part, as many syllables in a word as there are vowels in it; only there are two kinds of syllables in which it is otherwise, viz. 1. When U, with any other vowel, comes after G, Q, or S; as in Lingua, Qui, Suadeo, where the sound of U vanishes, or is little heard. 2. When two vowels join to make a diphthong or double vowel.

A diphthong is a sound compounded of the sounds of two vowels, so as both of them are heard.

Of diphthongs, three are proper, viz. ae, eu, ei, in which both vowels are heard; and two improper, viz. æ, œ, in which the a and o are not heard, but they are pronounced as e simple.

Some, not without reason, to these five diphthongs add other three; as ai in Maia, oi in Troia, yi or ui in Harpyia or Harpuia.

PARS SECUNDA.

De Dictionibus.

M. QUOT sunt partes Orationis?

D. Octo; Nomen, Pronomen, Verbum, Participium, Adverbium, Præpositio, Interjectio, Conjunctio.

M. Quomodo dividuntur?

D. In declinabiles et indeclinabiles.

M. Quot sunt declinabiles?

E. Quatuor; Nomen, Pronomen, Verbum, Participium.

M. Quot sunt indeclinabiles?

D. Item quatuor; Adverbium, Præpositio, Interjectio, Conjunctio.

PART SECOND.

Of Words.

M. How many parts of speech are there?

S. Eight; noun, pronoun, verb, participle, adverb, preposition, interjection, conjunction.

M. How are they divided?

S. Into declinable and indeclinable.

M. How many are declinable?

S. Four; noun, pronoun, verb, participle.

M. How many are indeclinable?

S. Likewise four; adverb, preposition, interjection, conjunction.

A Word (vox or dictio) is one or more syllables joined together, which men have agreed upon to signify something.

Words are commonly reduced to eight classes, called parts of speech; but some comprise them all under three classes, viz. noun, verb, and adverb. Under noun they comprehend also pronoun and participle; and under adverb also preposition, interjection and conjunction. Others, to these, add a fourth class, viz. adnoun, comprehending adjectives under it, and restricting nouns to substantives only. These, by some, are otherwise called names, qualities, affirmations, and particles.

The declinable parts of speech are so called, because there is some change made upon them, especially in the last syllables; and this is what we call declension, or declining of words. But the indeclinable parts continue unchangeably the same.

The last syllable on which these changes do fall, is called the ending or termination of words.

These changes are made by what grammarians call accidentia, i. e. the accident of words.

These accidents are commonly reckoned six, viz. gender, case, number, mood, tense, and person. Of these, gender and case are peculiar to three of the declinable parts of speech, viz. noun, pronoun, and participle: and mood, tense, and person are peculiar to one of them, viz. verb: and number is common to them all.

NOTE 1. That person may also be said to belong to noun or pronoun: but then it is not properly an accident, because no change is made by it in the word.

NOTE 2. That figure, species, and comparison, which some call accidents do not properly come under that name, because the words have a different signification from what they had before. See Chap. IX.

NOTE 3. That the changes which happen to a noun, pronoun, and participle are in a stricter sense called declension or declination of them; and the changes that happen to a verb are called conjugation.

CAP. I.

De Nomine.

● M. QUOMODO declinatur nomen?

D. Per genera, casus, et numeros.

M. Quot sunt genera?

D. Tria; masculinum, femininum et neutrum.

M. Quot sunt casus?

D. Sex; nominativus, genitivus, dativus, accusativus, vocativus, et oblativus.

M. Quot sunt numeri?

D. Duo; singularis et pluralis.

M. Quot sunt declinationes?

D. Quinque; prima secunda, tertia, quarta, et quinta.

CHAP. I.

Of Noun.

M. How is a noun declined?

S. By genders, cases, and numbers.

M. How many genders are there?

S. Three, masculine, feminine, and neuter.

M. How many cases are there?

S. Six, nominative, genitive, dative, accusative, vocative, and ablative.

M. How many numbers are there?

S. Two; singular and plural.

M. How many declensions are there?

S. Five, first, second, third, fourth, and fifth.

REGULÆ GENERALES.

-1. Nomina neutrius generis habent nominativum, accusativum, et vocativum, similes in utroque numero: et hi casus in plurali semper desinunt in a.

2. Vocativus in singulari plerumque, in plurali semper, est similis nominativo.

3. Dativus et ablativus pluralis sunt similes.

4. Nomina propria plerumque carent plurali.

GENERAL RULES.

1. Nouns of the neuter gender have the nominative, accusative, and vocative, alike in both numbers: and these cases in the plural end always in a.

2. The vocative, for the most part in the singular [and] always in the plural, is like the nominative.

3. The dative and ablative plural are alike.

4. Proper names for the most part want the plural.

A NOUN is that part of speech which signifies the name or quality of a thing; as Homo, a man; bonus, good.

A noun is either substantive or adjective.

A substantive noun is, that which signifies the name of a thing; as arbor, a tree; virtus, virtue; bonitas, goodness.

An adjective noun is, that which signifies an accident, quality, or property of a thing; as albus, white; felix, happy; gravis, heavy.

A substantive may be distinguished from an adjective these two ways: 1. A substantive can stand in a sentence without an adjective, but an adjective cannot without a substantive; as I can say, A stone falls; but I cannot say, heavy falls. 2. If the word thing, be joined with an adjective, it will make sense: but if it be joined with a substantive, it will make nonsense. Thus we say, A good thing, a white thing; but we do not say, A man thing, a beast thing.

A substantive noun is divided into proper and appellative.

A proper substantive is, that which agrees to one particular thing of a kind; as, Virgilius, a man's name; Penelope, a woman's name; Scotia, Scotland; Edinburgum, Edinburgh; Taus, the Tay.

An appellative substantive is, that which is common to a whole kind of things; as vir, a man; femina, a woman; regnum, a kingdom; urbs, a city; fluvius, a river.

NOTE. That when a proper name is applied to many, it becomes an appellative, as Duodēcem Cæsāres, The twelve Cæsars.

GENDER, in a natural sense, is the distinction of sex, or the difference between male and female : but in a grammatical sense, we commonly understand by it, the fitness that a substantive noun hath to be joined to an adjective of such a termination, and not of another. Therefore,

Of the names of animals, the hes are of the masculine, and the shes of the feminine gender ; but of things without life, and where the diversity of sex is not considered, even of things that have life, some are of the masculine, others of the feminine, and others of the neuter gender, according to the use of the best authors of the Latin tongue.

Besides these three principal genders, there are reckoned also other three less principal, which are nothing else but compounds of the three former, viz. The gender common to two, the gender common to three, and the doubtful gender.

I. The common gender, or gender common to two (Genus commune, or Commune dutm.) is masculine and feminine : and belongs to such nouns as agree to both sexes ; as Parēs, a father or mother ; Bos, an ox or cow.

II. The gender common to three, (Genus commune trium) is masculine, feminine, and neuter, and belongs only to adjectives : whereof some have three terminations, the first masculine, the second feminine, and the third neuter ; as, Bonus, bona, bonum, good. Some have two, the first masculine and feminine, and the second neuter ; as Mollis, molle, soft. And some have but one termination, which agrees indifferently to any of the three genders ; as, Prudens, wise.

III. The doubtful gender (Genus dubium.) belongs to such nouns as are found in good authors, sometimes in one gender and sometimes in another : as, Dies, a day, mas. or fem. Vulgus, the rabble, mas. or neut.

[We have excepted out of the number of genders the epicene or promiscuous gender; for, properly speaking, there is no such gender distinct from the three chief ones, or the doubtful. There are indeed epicene nouns, that is, some names of animals, in which the distinction of sex is either not at all, or very obscurely considered : And these are generally of the gender of their termination, as, Aquila, an eagle, fem, because it ends in a; Passer, a sparrow, mas. because it ends in er (See p. 12 and 15.) So, Homo, a man or woman, mas. Mancipium, a slave, neut. Anguis, a serpent, doubtful.]

To distinguish these genders, we make use of these three words, Hic, hæc, hoc; which are commonly, though improperly, called articles. Hic, is the sign of the masculine, hæc, of the feminine, hoc, of the neuter gender; Hic et hæc, of the common to two; hic, hæc, hoc, of the common to three; hic aut hæc, hic aut hoc, &c. of the doubtful.

By CASES we understand the different terminations that nouns receive in declining; so called from cado, to fall, because they naturally fall or flow from the nominative, which is therefore called Casus rectus, the straight case; as the other five are named Obliqui, crooked.

The singular number denotes one single thing; as Homo, a man; the plural denotes more things than one; as, Homines, men.

¶ Before the Learner proceeds to the Declension of Latin Nouns, it may not perhaps be improper to give him a general view of

THE DECLENSION OF ENGLISH NOUNS.

I. The English Language hath the two genders of nature, viz. Masculine and Feminine; for animals in it are called HE or SHE, according to the difference of their sex; and almost every thing without life is called IT. But because all the adjectives of this language are of one termination, it has no occasion for any other genders.

II. The English, properly speaking, has no cases, because there is no alteration made in the words themselves, as in the Latin: but instead thereof we use some little words called PARTICLES.

Thus the nominative case is the simple noun itself. The particle OF put before it, or 's after it, makes the genitive; TO or FOR before it, makes the dative; the accusative is the same with the nominative; the vocative hath O before it; and the ablative hath WITH, FROM, IN, BY, &c.

NOTE 1. That when a substantive comes before a verb, it is called the nominative; when it follows after a verb active, without a preposition intervening, it is called the accusative.

NOTE 2. The genitive of words ending in s or ss, or of plural nouns ending in s, is expressed by adding the apostrophe; as, the soldiers' valour; for righteousness' sake; the muses' aid.

NOTE 3. That TO, the sign of the dative, and O of the vocative, are frequently omitted or understood.

Besides these there are other two little words called ARTICLES, which are commonly put before substantive nouns, viz. A (or AN before a vowel or H) called the indefinite article, and THE, called the definite.

A or AN signifies as much as the adjective one, and is put before it; as, a man, that is one man. The is used pronominally and signifies almost the same with this or that, and these or those.

NOTE 1. That proper names of men, women, towns, kingdoms and appellatives, when used in a very general sense, have none of these articles: as, man is mortal, i. e. every man: God abhors sin, i. e. all sins: but proper names of rivers, ships, hills, &c. frequently have the: as, the Thames, the Britannia, the Alps.

NOTE 2. That the vocative has none of these articles, and the plural wants the indefinite.

NOTE 3. That when an adjective is joined with a substantive, the article is put before both; as, a good man, the good man: and the definite is put before the adjective when the substantive is understood; as, the just shall live by faith, i. e. the just man.

III. The English hath two numbers as the Latin, and the plural is commonly made by putting an s to the singular; as, book, books.

Exc. 1. Such as end in ch, sh, ss, and x, which have es added to their singular; church-es, brush-es, witness-es, box-es. Where it is to be noticed, that such words have a syllable more in the plural than in the singular number; which likewise happens to all words ending in ce, ge, se, ze; as, faces, ages, houses, mazes. The reason of this proceeds from the near approach these terminations have in their sound to an s, so that their plural could not be distinguished from the singular, without the addition of another syllable. And for the same reason, verbs of these terminations have a syllable added to them in their third person singular of the present tense.

Exc. 2. Words that end in f or fe, have their plural in ves; as, calf, calves; leaf, leaves; wife, wives; but not always; for hoof, roof, grief, mischief, dwarf, strife, muff, &c. retain f: staff has staves.

Exc. 3. Some have their plural in en; as, man, men; woman, women; child, children; chick, chicken; brother, brothers or brethren; (which last is seldom used except in sermons or in a burlesque sense.)

Exc. 4. Some are more irregular; as, die, dice; mouse, mice; louse, lice; goose, geese; foot, feet; tooth, teeth; penny, pence; sow, sows, and swine; cow, cows, and kine.

Exc. 5. Some are the same in both numbers; as, sheep, hose swine, chicken, pease, deer; fish and fishes, mile and miles, horse and horses.

NOTE. That nouns in y do often change y into ie, so these have rather ies than ys in the plural; as, cherry, cherries.

Rule for the Gender.

Most nouns of the first, are females in a.
 Hoc pascha, нѣе vel нѣс talpa, damo.

A is a Latin termination ; e, as, and es are Greek.

Nouns in a and e are feminine, in as and es masculine.

RULE. Filia, a daughter ; Nata, a daughter ; Dea, a goddess , •Anima, the Soul, with some others have more frequently abus than is in their Dat. and Abl. plural, to distinguish them from masculines in us of the second declination.

¶ In declining Greek Nouns, observe the following rules :

1. Greek nouns in as [and a] have sometimes their accusative [with the poets] in an; as Æneas, Æneam, vel Ænean; Ossa, Ossan, vel Ossam.

2. Those in es have their accusative in en, and their vocative and ablative in e: as,

Nom. Anchises,

Acc. Anchisen,

Voc. Anchise,

Abl. Anchise

3. Nouns in e, have their genitive in es, their accusative in en, their dative, vocative and ablative in e; as.

Nom. Penelope,

Gen. Penelopes,

Dat. Penelope,

Acc. Penelopen.

Voc. Penelope,

Abl. Penelope,

[As to the dative of words in e, I have followed Probus and Priscian, among the ancients ; Lilly, Alvarus, Vossius, Messieurs de Port Royal, Johnson, &c. among the moderns. And though none of them cite any example, yet I remember to have observed three such datives, viz. Cybele, in Virg. Æn. XI, 768 — Penelope in Martial, Epig. XI, 8, 9; and Epigone in Reinesii Syntag. Inscript. Class. 14. Num. 85. But Diomedes and Despauter seem to be of opinion, that these nouns have æ in their dative. The reason that moved the former is, because they thought it incongruous, that seeing nouns in e generally follow the Greek, in all their other cases, they should follow the Latin in their dative only, especially since their ablative, which answers to the Greek dative, ends in e. As, on the contrary, they maintain, that if such nouns have æ in their dative, it must come from a nominative in a; of which there are some examples yet extant; And then they may likewise have their accusative in am; as Penelopam, Circam, in Plautus; Lycambam in Terentianus Mauris. Thus Helenæ or Helenes, Helenam, or Helenen, are frequently to be met with in Poets, who also turn such words as commonly end in a into e in the nominative and vocative when the measure of their verse requires it. And here it may not be improper to remark, that even Greek words in es, have sometimes their nominative and vocative in a (whence comes their genitive and dative in æ.) And if Mr. Johnson's citations are right, both es and e have sometimes their accusative in em.]

Filius hath also fili, and deus hath deus in the vocative; and in the plural more frequently dii and diis than dei and deis.

The most common terminations of the second declension, are er and us of the masculine, and um of the neuter gender.

There is only one noun in ir of this declension, viz. vir, a man, with its compounds, levir, duumvir, triumvir, &c. and only one in ur, viz. satur, full, (of old satūrus,) an adjective. Os and on are Greek terminations, and generally changed into us and um in their nominative. These, with other Greek nouns in us have sometimes their accusative in on.

[We have concluded the termination eus from this declension, as belonging more properly to the third; as, Orpheus, Orpheos, Orphei, Orphea, Orpheu: For when it is of the second declension, it is e-us of two syllables, and so falls under the termination us; Orphe-us, Orphe-i, (contracted Orphei and Orphi,) Orphe-o, Orphe-um, (or Orphe-on, Orpheo.)]

Of the final letters of the third declension, six are peculiar to it, o, c, d, l, t, x—the other five are common to other declensions, viz. a, e, n, r, s.

The copious final letters are o, n, r, s, x.

The copious final syllables are, io, do, go, en, er, or, as, es, is, os, us, ns, rs, ex.

All nouns in a of this declension are originally Greek, and have always an m before it. There are only two words in c; lac, milk; and halec, a herring. Words in d are proper names of men, and very rare. There are only three words in t, viz caput, the head; sīncīput, the fore-head; occīput, the hind-head.

Rule for the Gender.

The third has males, in ēr, ōr, ōs, n, o;

Нѣс, ās, āus, ēs, ŷs, x and s, impure.

| 3. The terminations a, c, e, l, men, ar, ur, us, ut, | | Neuter. |

But from these there are many exceptions.

NOTE, 1. That for the most part the genitive hath a syllable more than the nominative; and where it is otherwise they generally end in e, es, or is.

NOTE 2. That whatever letter or syllable comes before is, in the gen. must run through the other cases [except the acc. and voc. sing. of neuters] as, thema, -ātis, -ati, -ate, a theme; sanguis, -guinis, blood; iter, -itineris, a journey; carmen, -mīnis, a verse; judex, -dīcis, a judge.

RECUŁÆ.

1. Nomina in e, et neutra in ul et ar, habet i in ablativo.

2. Quæ habent e tantum, in ablativo, faciunt genitivum pluralem in um.

3. Quæ habent i tantum, vel e et i simul, faciunt ium.

4. Neutra quæ habent e in ablativo singulari, habent a in nominativo, accusativo, et vocativo plurali.

5. At quæ habent i in ablativo, faciunt ia.

RULES.

1. Nouns in e, and neuters in al and ar, have i in the ablative.

2. Those which have e only in the ablative, make their genitive plural in um.

3. Those which have i only, or e and i together, make ium.

4. Neuters which have e in their ablative singular, have a in the nominative, accusative, and vocative plural.

5. But those which have i in the ablative, make ia.

1. EXCEPTIONS IN THE ACCUSATIVE SINGULAR.

1. Some nouns in is have im in the accusative; as, vis, vim, strength; tussis, the cough; sitis, thirst; buris, the beam of a plough; ravis, hoarseness; amussis, a mason's rule. To which add names of rivers in is; as, Tybris; Thamēsis, which the poets sometimes make in in.

2. Some in is have em or im; as, navis, a ship; puppis, the stern; secūris, an axe; clavis, a key; febris, a fever; pelvis, a basin; restis, a rope; turris, a tower; navem vel navim, &c.

EXCEPTIONS IN THE ABLATIVE SINGULAR.

1 Nouns which have im in the accusative, have i in the ablative; as vis, vim, vi, &c. Those that have em or im have e or i; as, navis, navem, vel navim, nave vel navi.

2. Canālis, vectis, bipennis, have i; avis, amnis, ignis, unguis, rus, and imber, with some others, have e or i, but most commonly e.

3. These neuters in ar, have e; far, jubar, nectar, and hepar, Sal, also has ale.

3. EXCEPTIONS IN THE GENITIVE PLURAL.

1. Nouns of one syllable in as, is, and s, with a consonant before it, have ium; as, as, assium; lis, litium; urbs, urbium.

2. Also nouns in es, and is, not increasing their genitive; as, vallis, vallium; rupes, rupium. Except panis, canis, vates, and vulcris.

3. To which add caro, cor, cos, dos, mus, nix, nox, linter, sal, os, ossis.

NOTE. That when the genitive plural ends in ium, the accusative frequently, instead of es, has eis, or is; as, omneis, parteis, or omnis, partis, for omnes, partes.

OF GREEK NOUNS.

I. Greek nouns have sometimes their genitive in os. And these are 1. Such as increase their genitive with d; as, Arcas, Arcadis vel Arcados, an Arcadian; Brisēis, -eidis vel -eidos, a woman's name. 2. Such as increase in os pure, i. e. with a vowel before it, as hærēsis, -eos vel -ios, a heresy. 3. To these add Sphingos, Strymōnos, and panos.

NOTE. That is is more frequent, except in the second kind, and patronymics of the first.

II. 1. Greek words which increase their genitive in is or os not pure (i. e. with a consonant before it) have frequently their accusative singular in a and plural in as; as, Lampas, lampadis, lampada, lampadas; also, Minos, Minōis, Minoa; Tros, Trōis, Troa, Troas; Heros, herōis, heroa, heroas.

2. Words in is or ys, whose genitive ends in o pure, have their accusative in im or in, and ym or yn; as hæresis, -eos, hæresim or -in; Chelys, -lyos, a lute; chelym or -lyn. Of words in is, which have their genitive in dis or dos, masculines have their accusative for the most part in im or in, seldom in dem, and never in da, that I know of; as, Paris, Parim, vel Parim, vel Paridem: Feminines have most commonly dem or da, and seldom im or in; as, Briseis, Briseidem vel Briseida.

III. Feminines in o have us in their genitive and o in their other cases; as, Dido, Didus, Dido, &c. or they may be declined after the Latin form, Didonis, Didoni, &c. which Juno (as being of a Latin original) always follows.

IV. Greek nouns in s frequently throw away s in their vocative; as, Chalcas, Achilles, Paris, Tiphys, Œrpeus; Calcha Achille, Pari, Tiphy, Orpheu.

V. Greek nouns have um, (and sometimes on in their genitive plural; as Epigrammatōn Hæresōn,) and very rarely ium.

VI. Greek nouns in ma, have most frequently is in their dative and ablative plural: as, Poëma, poematis, because of old they said poëmatum, -ti. Bos has boum, and bobus or bubus.

Rule for the Gender.

Nouns of the fourth in -ūs are masculine,
But those in -u, as neuter we decline.

Nouns in us of this declension are generally masculine, and those in u all neuter, and indeclinable in the singular number.

RULE. Some nouns have ûbus in their dative and ablative plural, viz. Arcus, a bow; artus, a joint; lacus, a lake; acus, a needle; portus, a port or harbour; partus, a birth; tribus, a tribe; veru, a spit.

NOTE. That of old, nouns of this declension belonged to the third, and were declined as, grus, gruis, a crane; thus, fructus, fructuis, fructui, fructuem, fructue: Fructues, fructuum, fructuibus, fructues, fructues, fructuibus. So that all the cases are contracted, except the dative sing. and genitive plur. There are some examples of the genitive in uis yet extant, as, on the contrary there are several of the dative in u.

Rule for the Gender.

The fifth has feminines which end in -ēs,
Except the masculine merities,
Hic vel nunc dies, the singular's declined,
But masculine, only the plural we find.

Nouns of the fifth declension are not above fifty ; and are all feminine except dies, a day, masc. or fem. and merities, the mid-day or noon, masc.

All nouns of this declension end in ies, except three ; Fides, faith ; spes, hope ; res, a thing.

And all nouns in ies, are of the fifth, except these four ; abies, a fir-tree ; aries, a ram ; paries, a wall ; and quies, rest ; which are of the third.

Most nouns of this declension want the genitive, dative, and ablative plural ; and many of them want the plural altogether.

GENERAL REMARKS ON ALL THE DECLENSIONS.

1. The genitive plural of the first four is sometimes contracted, especially by poets : as, Cœlicolũm, Deũm, Mensũm, Currũm ; for Cœlicolarum, Deorum, Mensium, Curruum.

2. When the genitive of the second ends in ii the last i is sometimes taken away by poets ; as, Tugũri, for Tugurii. We read also, Aulai for aulæ, in the first ; and fide for fidei in the fifth ; and so of other like words.

Declinatio Adjectivorum.

The Declension of Adjectives.

ADJECTIVES are either of the first and second declension, or of the third only.

All adjectives having three terminations (except* eleven) are of the first and second ; but those which have one or two terminations are of the third.

Adjectives of the first and second have their masculine in us† or er ; their feminine always in a ; and their neuter always in um ; as,

Bõnus, bona, bonum, good; Tenër, tenëra, tenerum, tender

* Viz. Acër, aläcer, celer, celëber, salüber, volücer, campester, equester, pedester, paluster, silvester, which are of the third, and have their masculine in er or is, their feminine in is, and neuter in e.

Adjectives are declined as three substantives of the same terminations, and declensions: as in the examples above, bonus like dominus; tener, like gener; bona and tenera, like penna; bonum and tenerum, like regnum. Therefore the ancients, as is clear from Varro, lib. 3. de Anal. declined every gender separately, and not all three jointly, as we now commonly do: And perhaps it may not be amiss to follow this method at first, especially if the boy is of a slow capacity.

Of adjectives in er, some retain the e, as tener. So miser, -era, -erum, wretched; liber, -era, -erum, free; and all compounds in ger and fer; others lose it, as pulcher, pulchra, pulchrum, fair; niger, nigra, nigrum, black.

These following adjectives, unus, one; totus, whole; solus, alone; ullus, any; nullus, none; alius, another of many; alter, another, or one of two; neuter, neither; uter, whether, with its compounds; uterque, both; uterlibet, utervis, which of the two you please; alteruter, the one or the other; have their genitive singular in ius, and dative in i.

REGULÆ.

RULES.

1. Adjectiva tertiæ declinationis habent e vel i in ablativo singulari.

2. At si neutrum sit in e ablativus habet i tantum.

1. Adjectives of the third declension have e or i in the ablative singular.

2. But if the neuter be in e the ablative has i only.

3. Genitivus pluralis desinit in ium ; et neutrum nominativi, accusativi, et vocativi in ia.

3. The genitive plural ends in ium ; and the neuter of the nominative, accusative, and vocative in ia.

4. Excipe comparativa, quæ um et a postulant.

4. Except comparatives which require um and a.

EXCEPTIONS.

1. Dives, hospes, sospes, superstes, juvenis, senex, and pauper, have e in the ablative singular, and consequently um in the genitive plural.

2. Compos, impos, consors, inops, vigil, supplex, uber, degener, and puber : also compounds ending in ceps, sex, pes, and corpor ; as princeps, artifex, bipes, tricorpor, have um not ium.

NOTE. That all these have seldom the neuter singular, and never almost the neuter plural in the nom. and acc. To which add memor, which has memōri and memorum, and locuples, which has locupletium ; also deses, reses, hebes, perpes, præpes, teres, concolor, versicolor ; which being hardly to be met with in the genitive plural, 'tis a doubt whether they should have um or ium, though I incline most to the former.

3. Par has pāri ; vetus, vetēra, and veterum ; plus (which hath only the neuter in the singular) has plure, and plures, plura, (or plūria) plurium.

NOTE. 1 That comparatives and adjectives in ns, have more frequently e than i, and participles in the ablatives called absolute have generally e ; as Carolo regnante, no regnanti.

NOTE 2. That adjectives joined with substantives neuter hardly ever have e, but i ; as victrici ferro, not victrice.

NOTE 3. That adjectives, when they are put substantively, have oft-times e ; as affinis, familiāris, rivalis, sodālis, &c. So par, a match ; as, Cum pare quæque suo coeunt. Ovid.

OF NUMERAL ADJECTIVES.

1. THE ordinal and multiplicative numbers (see Chap. IX.) are regularly declined. The distributive want the singular, as also do the cardinal, except unus, which is declined as in p. 16, and hath the plural, when joined with a substantive that wanteth the sing. as, unæ literæ, one letter ; una mœnia, one wall ; or when several particulars are considered complexly, as making one compound; as, Uni sex dies, i. e. One space of six days Una vestimenta, i. e. One suit of apparel. Plaut.

Duo and Tres are declined after this manner.

Plur.			Plur.
N. dūō	dūæ	dūō	N. trēs	trēs	triā
G. dūōrum	dūārūm	dūōrūm	G. triūm	triūm	triūm
D. dūōbūs	dūābūs	dūōbūs	D. tribūs	tribūs	tribūs
A. dūōs v. ō dūās	dūō		A. trēs	trēs	triā
V. dūō	dūæ	dūō	V. trēs	trēs	triā
A. dūōbus	dūābūs	dūōbūs	A. tribūs	tribūs	tribūs

Ambo, both, is declined as duo.

2. From quatuor to centum are all indeclinable.

3. From centum to mille they are declined thus; ducenti, ducentæ, ducenta; ducentorum, ducentarum, ducentorum, &c.

4. As to mille, Varro and all the grammarians after him, down to the last age, make it (when it is put before a gen. plur.) a substantive indeclinable in the sing. and in the plur. declined, millia, millium, millibus; but when it hath a substantive joined to it in any other case, they make it an adjective plural indeclinable. But Scioppius, and after him Gronovius, contend that mille is always an adjective plural; and under that termination of all cases and genders; but that it hath two neuters, hæc mille, and hæc millia; that the first is used when one thousand is signified, and the second when more than one. And that, where it seems to be a substantive governing a gen. multitudo, numeros, manus, pecunia, pondus, spatium, corpus, or the like are understood. I own that formerly I was of this sentiment; but now the weighty reasons adduced by the most accurate Perizonius incline me rather to follow the ancient grammarians.

After the declension of the substantives and adjectives separately, it may not be improper to exercise the learner with some examples of a substantive and adjective declined together; which will both make him more ready in the declensions, and render the dependence of the adjective upon the substantive more familiar to him.—Let the examples at first be of the same terminations and declensions; as Dominus justus, a just lord; Penna bona, a good pen; Ingenium eximium, an excellent wit; afterwards let them be different in one or both; as, Puer probus, a good boy; Lectio facilis, an easy lesson; Poeta optimus, an excellent poet; Fructus dulcis, sweet fruit; Dies faustus, a happy day, &c. And if the boy has as yet been taught writing, let him write them either in the school, or at home, to be revised by the master next day.

OF IRREGULAR NOUNS.

THESE (for we cannot here make a full enumeration of them) may be reduced to the following scheme:

IRREGULAR NOUNS are,		1. DEFECTIVE.
3. REDUNDANT.	2. VARIABLE.	1. Substantives.	1. Number , { Sing. as, Liberi , Mina , Arma . { Plur. as, Aër , Humus , Ævum , 2. Cases , { Nom. and Voc. { to Ditionis . { Gen. { ing Chaos . { Dat. { is Plus . { Voc. { is Ego . { Gen. 		In Declension,	{ only ; as, Fames , Famis , of the 3d { Abl. fame , of the 5th, because the { last syllable is always long with { the poets.

NOTE 1. That the defective nouns are not so numerous as is commonly believed.

NOTE 2. That those which vary too little may be ranked under the defective; and those which vary too much, under the redundant, e. g. cæli, cælorum, comes not from cælum, but from cælus; and vasa, vasorum, not from vas, vasis, but from vasum, vasi; but custom, which alone gives laws to all languages, has dropped the singular and retained the plural; and so of others.

DE COMPARATIONE.

M. QUOT sunt gradus comparationis?

D. Tres; positivus, comparativus, et superlativus.

M. Quotæ declinationis sunt hi gradus?

D. Positivus est adjectivum primæ et secundæ declinationis, vel tertiæ tantum; comparativus est semper tertiæ; superlativus semper primæ et secundæ.

M. Unde formatur comparativus gradus?

D. A proximo casu, positivi in i, addendo pro masculino et fœminino syllabam, or, et us pro neutro; ut, Doctus, learned; gen. docti, doctor, and doctius, more learned; mitis, meek; dat. miti; mitior and mitius, more meek.

M. Unde formatur superlativus?

D. 1. Si positivus desinat in er, superlativus formatur addendo rimus; ut,

OF COMPARISON.

M. HOW many degrees of comparison are there?

S. Three; the positive, comparative, and superlative.

M. Of what declension are these degrees?

S. The positive is an adjective of the first and second declension, or third only; the comparative is always of the third; the superlative always of the first and second.

M. Whence is the comparative degree formed?

S. From the next case of the positive in i, by adding for the masculine and feminine the syllable or, and us for the neuter; as

M. Whence is the superlative formed?

S. 1. If the positive ends in er, the superlative is formed by adding rimus; as,

Pulcher, fair, pulcherimus, most fair; pauper, poor; pauperissimus, most poor.

2. Si positivus non desinat in er, superlativus formatur a proximo casu in i, addendo ssimus, ut,
 2. If the positive ends not in er, the superlative is formed from the next case in i, by adding ssimus; as,

Gen. Docti, doctissimus, most learned : Dat. Miti, mitissimus, most meek.

By grammatical COMPARISON, we understand three adjective nouns, of which the two last are formed from the first, and import comparison with it; that is, heightening or lessening of its signification.

Consequently those adjectives only which are capable of having their signification increased or diminished, can be compared.

The POSITIVE signifies the quality of a thing simply and absolutely; as, duros, hard; parvus, little.

The COMPARATIVE heightens or lessens that quality; as, durior, harder; minor, less.

The SUPERLATIVE heightens or lessens it to a very high or very low degree; as, durissimus, hardest or most hard; minimus, very little or least.

The positive hath various terminations; the comparative ends always in or and us; the superlative always in mus, ma, mum.

[The positive, properly speaking, is no degree of comparison, for it does not compare things together; however, it is accounted one, because the other two are founded upon, and formed from it.]

The sign of the comparative in our language is the syllable er added to an adjective, or the word more put before it.

The sign of the superlative is the syllable est added to an adjective, or the word very or most put before it.

NOTE. That when the positive is a long word, or would otherwise sound harsh by having er or est added to it, we commonly make the comparative by the word more, and the superlative by most or very put before it.

And for the like reason, the Latin comparative is sometimes made by magis, and the superlative by valde or maxime, put before the positive. And these are particularly used, when the positive ends in us with a vowel before it; as, Pius, godly; arduus, high; idoneus, fit; though not always.

IRREGULAR COMPARISONS.

1. Bönüs	mēlior	ōptimūs :	Good	better	best.
Mälüs	pejör	pēssimūs :	Evil	worse	worst.
Māgnüs	mājör	māximūs :	Great	greater	greatest.
Parvüs	minör	minimūs :	Little	less	least.

Multus, plurimus; multa, plurima; multum, plus, plurimam: much, more, most.

2. Facilis, easy; humilis, low; similis, like; make their superlative by changing is into timus; thus, facillimus, humillimus, simillimus.

3. Exter, outward; citer, hither; sup̄erus, above; inferus, below; post̄erus, behind; have regular comparatives; but their superlatives are, extr̄emus (or ext̄imus,) uttermost; cit̄imus, hithermost; sup̄r̄emus (or summus, (uppermost, highest, last; inf̄mus (or imus,) lowest; postr̄emus (or post̄umus,) latest or last.

4. Compounds in dicus, loquus, ficus and volus, have entior and entissimus; as, maled̄icus, one that raileth; magnil̄oquus, one that boasteth; benefic̄us, beneficent; malev̄olus, malevolent.

But these seem rather to come from participles, or nouns in ens. Besides, the comparatives and superlatives of adjectives derived from loquor and facio are very rare; and Terence has mirificissimus, and Plautus has mendaciloquius.

5. Prior, former, has primus, first; ulterior, farther, ult̄imus, farthest or last; prop̄rior, nearer, proxim̄us, nearest or next: ocior, swifter, ocissimus, swiftest; their positives being out of use, or quite wanting. Proxim̄us hath also another comparative formed from it, viz. proximior.

6. There are also a great many other adjectives capable of having their signification increased, which yet want one or more of these degrees of comparison; as, albus, white, without comparative and superlative; ingens, great, ingentior, greater, without the superlative; sacer, holy, sacerrimus, most holy, without the comparative; anterior, former, without positive and superlative.

† These three degrees of comparison being nothing else but three distinct adjectives, may be declined either severally, each by itself, or jointly together; respect still being had to their declensions. But the first way is much easier, and will answer all the purposes of comparison as well as the other.

A PRONOUN is an irregular kind of noun; or it is a part of speech which has respect to, and supplies the place of a noun; as, instead of your name, I say, tu, thou or you; instead of Jacobus fecit, James did it, I say, Ille fecit, He did it, viz. James.

NOTE 1. That the dative mihi, is sometimes by the poets contracted into mi.

NOTE 2. That of old the genitive plural of ego was nostrorum and nostrarum; of tu, vestrorum and vestrarum, (of which there are several examples in Plautus and Terence) which were afterwards contracted into nostrum and vestrum.

NOTE 3. That we use Nostrum and Vestrum after numerals, participles, comparatives and superlatives; and Nostrī and Vestri after other nouns and verbs; though there want not some examples of these last with Nostrum and Vestrum, even in Cicero himself, as Vossius shows.

Mens my or mine; tuus, thy or thine; sus, his own, her own, its own, their own, are declined like bonus, -a, -um; and, noster, our or ours; vester, your or yours; like pulcher, -âra, -ârum, of the first and second declension. But tuus, sus, and vester, want the vocative; noster and mens have it, in which this last hath mi (and sometimes meus) in the masculine singular.

Nostras, of our country; vestras, of your country; cujas, of what or which country; are declined like felix, of the third declension; gen. nostratis, dat. nostrati, &c.

NOTE 1. That all nouns and pronouns which one cannot call upon, or address himself unto, want the vocative. In consequence of which rule, many nouns, as nullus, nemo, qualis, quantus, quot, &c. and several pronouns, as, ego, sui, quis, &c. want the vocative; but not so many, either of the one or the other, as is commonly taught. For which reason, we have given vocatives to ille, ipse, hic, and idem, therein following the judgment of the great Vossius, Messieurs de Port Royal, and Johnson, which they support by the following authorities:

Esto nunc, Sol, testis, et hæc mihi terra precanti. Virg. Æn. 12.

Tu mihi libertas illa paterna veni. Tibul. lib. 2. El. 4.

O nox illa, quæ, pene æternas huic urbi tenebras attulisti. Cic. pro. Flac.

Ipsæ meas æther accipe summe preces. Ovid in Ibin.

And the vocative of Idem seems to be confirmed by that of Ovid, Met. 15.

Quique fuisti
Hippolites, dixit, nunc idem Virbius esto.

Though all authors before them will only allow four pronouns, viz. Tu, meus, noster and nostras, to have the vocative.

NOTE 2. That qui is sometimes used for quis; as, Cic. qui tantus fuit lahor? Ter qui erit rumor populi, si id feceris?

NOTE 3. That quod, with its compounds, aliquod, quodvis, quoddam, &c. are used when they agree with a substantive of the same case; quid, with its compounds, aliquid, quidvis, quiddam, &c. either have no substantive expressed, or govern one in the genitive; whence it is, that these last are commonly reckoned substantives. But that quid, as well as quod, is originally an adjective, its signification plainly shows; otherwise, we shall make multum, plus, tantum, quantum, &c. also substantives, when they govern the genitive; which yet most grammarians agree to be adjectives, having the common word negotium understood.

NOTE 4. That qui, the relative, hath sometimes qui in the ablative, and that (which is remarkable) in all genders and numbers, as Mr. Johnson evinces by a great many examples out of Plautus and Terence; to which he might have added one out of C. Nepos, III. 3.

NOTE 5. That nostras, vestras, and cujas, are declined like Gentile or national nouns in as in the third declension, in imitation of which they are formed; as, Arpinas, Fidenas, Privernas, a man, woman, or thing, of or belonging to the town of Arpinum, Fidenæ, or Privernum, and may have the neuter as well as these; (for, as Cic. has Iter Arpinas; and Liv. Bellum Privernas, so Colum. has arbutum nostras; and Cic. nostratia verba) contrary to what Linacer teaches.

[I pass over taking notice, that in old authors, especially Plautus, we find quis and quisquis sometimes of the feminine gender; mis and tis for mei and tui; hisce for hi; hibus, ibus, for his, iis; illæ, ipsæ, istæ, quæ, in the genitive and dative singular feminine; em for eum; istes for istos; quoius, quoi, for cujus, cui; because they are extraordinary.]

OF COMPOUND PRONOUNS.

1. Some are compounded of quis and qui, with some other word or syllable. In these quis is sometimes the first, and sometimes the last part of the word compounded; but qui is always the first.

1. The compounds of quis, when it is put first, are quisnam, who; quispiam, quisquam, any one; quisque, every one; quisquis, whosoever; which are thus declined:

Nom.			Gen.			Dat.
Quisnam	quænam	quodnam	v.	quidnam.	cujusnam.	cuinam.
Quispiam	quæpiam	quodpiam	v.	quidpiam.	cujuspiam.	cuipiam.
Quisquam	quæquam	quodquam	v.	quidquam	cujusquam.	cuiquam.
Quisque	quæque	quodque	v.	quidque.	cujusque.	cuique.
Quisquis	———	quidquid	v.	quicquid.	cujuscujus.	cuicui.

And so forth in their other cases, according to the simple quis. But quisquis hath no feminine at all, and the neuter only in the nominative and accusative. Quisquam has also quicquam for quidquam, accusative, quengquam without the feminine. The plural is scarcely used.

2. The compounds of quis, when it is put last are, aliquis, some; ecquis, who? To which some add nequis, siquis, numquis; but these are more frequently read separately, ne quis, si quis, num quis. They are thus declined:

	Nom.				Gen.	Dat.
Aliquis	aliqua	aliquod v.	aliquid	allicujus	alicui
Ecquis	ecqua v. ecquæ	ecquod v.	ecquid	eccujus	eccui
Si quis	si qua	si quod v.	si quid	si cujus	si cui
Ne quis	ne qua	ne quod v.	ne quid	ne cujus	ne cui
Num quis	num qua	num quod v.	num quid	num cujus	num cui

NOTE. That these, and only these have qua in the nominative singular feminine, and nominative and accusative plural neuter.

3. The compounds of qui are quicunque, whosoever; quidam, some; quilibet, quivis, any one whom you please; and are thus declined:

		Nom.		Gen.	Dat.
Quicunque	quæcunque	quodcunque		cujuscunque	cuiocunque
Quidam	quædām	quoddām v. quiddām		cujusdam	cuidam
Quilibet	quælibet	quodlibet v. quidlibet		cujuslibet	cuilibet
Quivis	quævis	quodvis v. quidvis		cujusvis	cuivis

Some of these are twice compounded; as, ecquisnam, who? unusquisque, every one. The first is scarce declined beyond its nominative, and the second wants its plural.

NOTE 1. That all these compounds want the vocative, except quisque, aliquis, quilibet, unusquisque, and perhaps some others. Vid. Voss. p. 335.

NOTE 2. That all these compounds have seldom or never quis, but quibus, in their dative and ablative plural.

NOTE 3. That quidam hath quendam, quandam, quoddam vel quiddam, in the accusative singular; and quorundam, quarundam, quorundam, in the genitive plural; æ being put instead of æ for the better sound, as it is for the same reason in these cases of idem.

II. Some reckon amongst compound pronouns ego, tu, and ui, with ipse; but in the best books they are generally read separately; which seems necessary, because of te ipse, and se ipse, where the two words are of different cases.

III. Is is compounded with the syllable dem, and contracted into idem, the same; which is thus declined:

	Sing.			Plur.
N. idem	eïdem	Idēm	N. iidēm	eädēm	ëädēm
G. ejusdem	ejuſdem	ejuſdem	G. eörundēm	eärundēm	eörundēm
D. eidēm	eidēm	eidēm	D. ëisdem v.	iïdēm
A. eündēm	eändēm	Idēm	A. ëösdem	ëäsdēm	ëäsdēm
V. idēm	eädēm	Idēm	V. iidem	eädēm	ëädēm
A. eösdēm	eädēm	eösdēm	A. ëisdem v.	iïdem

IV. Most of the other compound pronouns are only to be found in certain cases and genders, as.

1. Of iste and hic is compounded, Nom. isthic, isthæc, isthoc vel isthuc. Acc. isthunc, isthanc, isthoc, vel isthuc. Abl. isthoc, isthac, isthoc. Nom. and Acc. plur. neut., isthæc.

2. Of ecce and is, is compounded, eccum, eccam; plur. eccos, eccas; and from ecce and ille, ellum, ellam; ellos, ellas, in the accusatives.

3. Of modus and is, hic iste and quis, are compounded these genitives, ejusmodi, hujusmodi, istiusmodi, ejusmodi; and sometimes with the syllable ce put in the middle, ejuscemodi, nujuscemodi, &c.

4. Of cum, and these ablatives, me, te, se, nobis, vobis, qui or quo, and quibus, are compounded mecum, tecum, secum, nobiscum, vobiscum, quicum; or quocum, and quibuscum.

5. To these add some pronouns compounded with these syllabical adjections, met, te, ce, pte, cine, to make their signification more pointed and emphatical; as, egomet, tute, hujesce, meapte, hiccine.

REMARKS ON ENGLISH PRONOUNS.

1. In the nominative or foregoing state (as the English grammarians call it) we use I, thou, he, she, we, ye, they, and who; but in the other cases (which they name the following state) we use me, thee, him, her, us, you, them, and whom.

2. When we speak of a person, we use who, and whom, whether we ask a question or not; as who did it? the man who did it. But if we speak of a thing, with a question; we use what; as, what book is that? Without a question, we use which; as, the book which you gave me; and then it is frequently understood; as, the book you gave me.

NOTE. That what is often used, even without a question, instead of the thing which or that which; as, I know what you design, i. e. the thing which, or that which, you design. As, on the contrary, when it refers to some particular thing mentioned before, we make use of which even with a question; as, give me the book, which book? which of the books?

3. This makes in the plural these, and that makes those.

NOTE. That that is frequently used instead of who, whom, or which; as, the man that told you, the man that we saw, the book that I lent you.

4. We use my, thy, her, our, your, their, when they are joined with substantives, or the word own; and mine, thine, hers, ours, yours, theirs, when the substantive is left out or understood. as, my book, this book is mine, &c.

NOTE. That with own, or a substantive beginning with a vowel, we sometimes use mine and thine; as, my eye or mine eye; thy own, or thine own.

5. We often use here, there, where, compounded with these particles, of, by, upon, about, in, with, instead of this, that, which, and what, with these same particles; as, hereof, hereby, hereupon, hereabouts, herein, herewith; for of this, by this, upon this, about this place, in this, with this, &c.

6. Whose and its are genitives, instead of, of whom, of it, and it is a fault to use it's for 'tis or it is, as some do.

CHAP. III.

Of Verb.

M. HOW is a verb declined?

S. By voices, moods, tenses, numbers, and persons.

M. How many voices are there?

S. Two; the active and passive.

M. How many moods are there?

S. Four; indicative, subjunctive, imperative, and infinitive.

M. How many numbers are there?

S. Two; singular and plural.

M. How many tenses are there?

S. Five; the present, the preter imperfect, the preter perfect, the preter pluperfect, and the future.

M. How many persons are there?

S. Three; first, second, third.

A VERB is a part of speech which signifies to be, to do, or to suffer. Or, a verb is that part of speech which expresses what is affirmed or said of things.

A verb may be distinguished from any other part of speech these two ways:—1. A verb being the most necessary, and essential part of a sentence, without which it cannot subsist, whatever word with a substantive noun makes full sense, or a sentence, is a verb; and that which does not make full sense with it is not a verb. 2. Whatever word, with he, or it shall, before t, makes sense, is a verb; otherwise not.

I. In most verbs there are two forms or voices; the active ending in o, and the passive in or. The former expresses what is done by the nominative or person before it; the latter what is suffered by or done to the nominative or person before it; as, amo, I love; amor, I am loved.

II. The moods are divided into finite and infinite. The first three, viz. The indicative, subjunctive, and imperative are called finite, because they have certain fixed terminations answering to certain persons both singular and plural. The last is called infinite or infinite, because it is not confined to one number or person more than another.

1. The indicative mood affirms or denies positively; as, amo, I love; non amo, I do not love; or else asks a question; as, an amas? dost thou love? annon amas? dost thou not love?

2. The subjunctive mood generally depends upon another verb in the same sentence, either going before or coming after; as, Si me ametis, praecepta mea servate, If you love me, keep my commandments.

[This mood is commonly branched out into three moods, viz. the Optative, the Subjunctive, more strictly taken, and the Potential. 1. It is called OPTATIVE, when a word importing a wish, as, utinam, would to God, O si, O if, goes before it. 2. It is named SUBJUNCTIVE, when it is subjoined to some other conjunction or adverb, or to interrogatives becoming indefinites. (See Chap. IX.) 3. it is called POTENTIAL when with the simple affirmation of the verb is also signified some modification or affection of it, such as, a power, possibility, liberty, duty, will, &c. The signs whereof in our language, are may, can, might, could, would, should, and had (for would have, or should have; as, They had repented, for would have.) But because the terminations of these moods are the same, we have comprehended them all under one, viz. the SUBJUNCTIVE, to which with small difficulty they may be reduced. Otherwise, if we will constitute as many moods as there are various modifications, wherewith a verb or affirmation can be affected, we multiply them to a far greater number, and so we shall have a promissive, hortative, precative, concessive, mandative, interrogative, mood; nay, a volitive and debitiv, which is commonly included in the potential. As for the optative, it is plain that the wish is not in the verb itself, which signifies only the matter of it, or what is wished) but in the verb opto, which is understood, with ut, ut, or utinam, which really signifies no more but that. And it is very probable that in like manner some verb or other word, may also be understood to what is called the potential mood, such as, ita, est, res ita est, feri potest ut, &c. as Vossius, Sanctius, Perizonius, and others do contend; though, Mr. Johnson is of another opinion.]

3. The imperative mood commands, exhorts, or entreats; as, ama, love thou.

4. The infinitive mood expresses the signification of the verb in general, and is Englished by to; as, amare, to love.

III. The tenses are either simple or compound. The simple tenses are the present, the preter-perfect, and the future.

- | | | |
|------------------------------|----------------------|---------------------------------|
| 1. The present | } Speaks of time now | { present.
past.
to come. |
| 2. The preter-perfect | | |
| 3. The future | | |

The compound tenses are the preter-imperfect, and the preter-pluperfect.

4. The preter-imperfect refers to some past time, and imports, that the thing was present and unfinished then; as, amabam, I did love (viz. then.)

5. The preter-pluperfect refers to some past time, and imports, that the thing was past at, or before that time; as, scripseram epistolam, I had written a letter, (i. e. before that time.)

There is also a compound future tense called the future perfect, or exact, which refers to some time yet to come, and imports that a thing as yet future shall be past and finished at, or before that time; as, cum cœnauero, tu leges, when I shall have supped, (i. e. after supper) you shall read. This future is only in the subjunctive mood, and the sign of it is shall have; as the other future, called the future imperfect, is only in the indicative. Which, when joined with another future, imports that two things yet future shall be contemporary, or exist at any one time; as, cum cœnabo, tu leges, when I shall sup, (i. e. in time of supper) you shall read.

[And not only the tenses, but even the Moods themselves may be divided into Simple and Compound. I call the indicative a simple mood, because it simply affirms something of its person or nominative. But the other three moods, I call compounds because they have some other ideas or modifications of our thoughts superadded to the simple signification of the verb; such as, a command, a desire, prohibition, possibility, liberty, will, duty, wish, concession, supposition, condition, purpose, &c. These modifications are either really included in the verb; as, a command, &c. in the imperative, and, according to Johnson, power, will, duty, &c. in the mood called potential; or closely interwoven with it by the help of a conjunction, adverb, or other verb expressed or understood; and because these also generally denote time, they very frequently make all the tenses of these moods to become compound tenses. For, with respect to their execution, they are generally future; but with respect to their model signification, they may fall under any of the other distinctions of time as well as the future. Thus, for instance, lege, read thou, with respect to its execution is future, but with respect to the command, it is present. Again, in legam, I may or can read, the action (if done at all) must be future, but the liberty or possibility is present; and so of others.—Now, as it seems evident that from these modifications of the verb more than from the bare execution of it, the tenses of these moods have at first been distinguished; so I am of opinion, that had grammarians taken their measures accordingly, they had not rendered this matter so intricate as they have done. For some of them, as Sanctius, &c. determining the times of these moods by the execution only, have made the whole imperative and subjunctive of the future time, and the infinitive and participles of all times, or rather of no time; others, viz. Vossius, Linacer, Alvarus, Verepæus, &c. though they will not go as far as Sanctius, yet upon the same grounds, make utinam legam the future of the optative; utinam legerem the present of it. By the same rule, they make a future of the potential in rim; as, citius crediderim, I should, or shall sooner believe; and another of the subjunctive in issem; as, juravit se illum statim interfectorum, nisi jusjurandum sibi dedisset, he swore he would presently kill him, if he would not swear to him. Cic. But with all imaginable deference to these great men, I humbly think that these tenses may be more easily accounted for, if we consider them as compound, i. e. respecting one time as to their execution, and another as to their various modifications, superadded to or involved in their signification. To instance in the two last examples, (because they seem to have the greatest difficulty) citius crediderim seems to import these two things, 1st. That I have and continue to have a reason why I should not believe it; which reason is of the imperfect or past time. And 2dly. That I shall sooner have believed it, than another thing, (with respect to which it shall be past. For there are a great many examples where the preterite in rim hath the same signification with the future-perfect in ro; as, si te inde eximerim. Terent. for eximero. See Voës. lib. v. cap. 15, and Aul. Gell. lib. xviii. cap. 2. As to the other example, the composition of two times is yet more evident: for though jusjurandum dedisset be posterior, and consequently future with respect to juravit, yet it is prior, not only to the time of the relation, but to interfecturum, to prevent which it behoved it necessarily to be past, and so of others. The same rule in my opinion, will likewise hold in the infinitive and participles, which, of themselves, have always one fixed time; and when they seem to be of another time, that is not in them, but in the verb that goes before them or comes after them. Thus, for instance, scribere is always present, or co-existent with the verb before it; and scripsisse is always prior to the same verb in all its tenses; as, dicit, dixit, or dicet; juvat, juvit, or juvalit me scribere and me scripsisse. So also the participles have a fixed time, past, present, or future; and when any part of the verb sum is joined with them, they retain their own times, and have these of that verb superadded to them. But because there are innumerable occasions of speaking, wherein the nice distinctions of times are not necessary, therefore it frequently happens that they are promiscuously used; as I could evince by a great many examples, not only in the passive, but active voice, both in the Latin and other languages if there were place for it. Which yet, in my judgment, does not hinder, but that every part of a word hath formally, and of its own nature, a certain time, simple, or compound, to which it is fixed and determined.]

IV. There are two numbers, the singular and the plural, answering to the same numbers of a noun or pronoun.

V. There are three persons in each number; the first speaks of itself, the second is spoken to, and the third is spoken of.—The first hath only ego and nos, the second only tu and vos, and the third any substantive noun, singular and plural, put before the respective terminations of the verb, answering to them through all voices, moods, and tenses.

[A verb hath the same respect to its nominative that an adjective hath to its substantive; and therefore as an adjective hath not properly either genders or numbers, but certain terminations fitted for those of its substantive, so a verb hath properly neither persons or numbers, but certain terminations answering to the persons and numbers of its nominative.]

NOTE 1. That ego and tu are seldom expressed, because the terminations of the verb immediately discover them, without any hazard of a mistake.

NOTE 2. That if a substantive noun be joined with ego or tu, the verb is of the person of these pronouns, not of the noun.

NOTE 3. That in the continuation of a discourse, the third person is also frequently understood, because easily known by what went before; and these pronouns, ille, ipse, iste, hic, is, idem, quis and qui, do often supply the place of it.

THE ENGLISH SIGNS OF THE TENSES ARE,

Pres.	{	Act. the theme of the verb, and est , eth , or s ; or, for the greater emphasis, do , dost , doth , or does , before it.

		Pass. shall be , will be , shalt be , wilt be , with a word in ed , en , &c.

The subjunctive mood active has frequently these signs

Pres. may or can.

Imper. might, could, would, should.

Per. might have, could have, would have, should have.

Pluper. may have or might have, could have, would have, should have. Future. shall have.

The passive has frequently the same signs with be or been.

De Conjugationibus.

M. QUOT sunt conjugationes ?

D. Quatuor; prima, secunda, tertia, et quarta.

M. Quæ sunt notæ harum conjugationum ?

Prima	} habet	{	A longum	} ante re infinitivi.
Secunda			E longum
Tertia			E breve
Quarta			I longum

Of Conjugations

M. HOW many conjugations are there ?

S. Four ; first, second, third, and fourth.

M. What are the marks of these conjugations ?

First	} hath	{	A long	} before re of the Infinitive.
Second			E long
Third			E short
Fourth			I long

The common characteristic or mark by which these conjugations are distinguished from one another, is one of these three vowels, a, e, i, before the re of the infinitive active, though they also may be known by the same vowels in several other parts of them ; for A long is most frequent in the first, E long in the second, E or I short in the third, and I long in the fourth ; only E before bam, bas, bat, &c. and before mus and tis, and mur, and mini, is always long in whatever conjugation it is found.

But it is to be observed, that the preterites and supines, and all the parts formed from them (because of the great irregularity of their middle syllables and constant agreement in their last vowel, and in their terminations arising from it, in all conjugations) cannot properly be said to be of any one conjugation more than another ; for there is nothing for example in fricui, docui elicui, amicui, or in frictum, doctum, elicium, amictum, or in the parts that come from them, whereby to distinguish their conjugations.

NOTE. That in the examples of the second, third, and fourth conjugations, we have omitted such parts of the passive voice as are supplied by the participle perfect with the verb sum, viz. the perfect and pluperfect of the indicative, and the perfect, pluperfect, and future, of the subjunctive, as being the same in all conjugations with the example of the first, the change of the participle only excepted. But it is carefully to be observed, that the participle being an adjective, must agree in gender, number, and case, with its substantive, or (which is the same thing) with the person before it.

1. REMARKS showing when a LATIN VERB is to be rendered otherwise in ENGLISH than in the foregoing examples.

1. When the continuation of a thing is signified, the English verb may be varied in all its tenses by the participle in ing with the verb am; as,

Pr. I am reading	} for {	I read.
Im. I was reading		I did read.
Pe. I have been reading		I have read.
Pl. I had been reading		I had read.
Fu. I shall be reading		I shall read.

So, also in the passive voice, the house is building, domus ædificatur; the lesson was prescribing, lectio præscribatur. Sometimes a is set before the participle; as, while the house is a-building; it is a-doing; he is a-dying.

2. When the question is asked, the nominative case or person is set after the verb, or the sign of the verb; as, love I? do I love? can I love? should he be loved?

3. We have made thou the second person singular, to distinguish it from the plural: But it is customary with us, (as also with the French and others) though we speak but to one particular person, to use the plural you, and never thou, but when we address ourselves to Almighty God, or otherwise when we signify familiarity, disdain, or contempt.

4. The perfect of the indicative is often Englished as the imperfect; as, Nunquam amavi hunc, hominem, I never loved (or did love) this man.—See a train of examples in Ovid, Metamorph. lib. I. from v. 21 to 39.

5. The perfect tense is frequently Englished by had after antequam, postquam, ubi or ut for postquam; as, postquam, superavimus isthmum, after we had (were) passed over the isthmus. Ov. Hæc ubi dicta debet, when he had spoken these words. Liv. Ut me salutavit, statim Roman profectus est, after he had saluted me, &c. Cic.

6. We have chosen, may, can, might, could, &c. for the English of the subjunctive mood, because these are the most frequent signs of it, and distinguish it best from other moods; but very often it is the same with the indicative, save only that it hath some conjunction or indefinite word before it; such as, if, seeing, lest, that, although, I wish, &c. as, si amem, if I love; ne amem, lest I love; causa est cur amem, it is the cause why I love. Ov. And frequently it hath both; as, oro ut ames, I entreat that you may love. Ov.

7. The present of the subjunctive after quasi, tanquam, and the like, is sometimes Englished as the imperfect; as, quasi intelligent quâlis sit, as if they understood what kind of person he is. Cic.

8. When a question is asked, the present of the subjunctive is frequently Englished by shall or should; as, eloquar an sileam? shall I speak or be silent? Virg. Singula quid referam? why should I mention every thing? Ov. Likewise after non est quod? Non est (supply causa) quod eas, there is no reason why you should go, or you need not go. Sometimes it is Englished by would; as, in facinis, jurâsse putes, you would think they had sworn to (commit) wickedness. Ov.

9. We have Englished the perfect of the subjunctive in rim by may have; as, ne frustra tales viri venerint, that such men as these may not have come in vain. Cic. Forſitan audiēris, you may perhaps have heard of it; to diſtinguiſh it from the preſent and pluperfect, by the ſigns of which it is alſo moſt frequently Engliſhed; as, ut ſic dixerim, that I may ſo ſpeak. Ubi ego audiverim? where ſhould I have heard it? Unus homo tantas ſtrages ediderit? could one man make ſo great a ſlaughter? Virg. Fortaſſe errārim, perhaps I might be in an error. Plin. Oratores quos viderim peritiſſimi, the ableſt orators I have ſeen (or could ſee.) Quintil.

10. This perfect in rim ſometimes inclines very much to a future ſignification, and then it is Engliſhed by ſhould, would, could, can, will ſhall; as, citiuſ crediderim, I ſhould ſooner believe. Juv. Libenter audiērim, I would gladly hear. Cic. Ciceronem cuiuſque eorum, facile oppoſuerim, I could eaſily match Cicero with any of them. Quintil. Non facile dixerim, I cannot well tell. Cic. Nec tamen excluſerim alios, and yet I will not exclude others. Plin. Si paululum modo quid te fugerit, ego periērim, if you but trip in the leaſt, I ſhall be undone. Ter. But all thoſe ways of ſpeaking, though indeed they reſpect the future as to the execution, yet they ſeem alſo to look a little beyond it to a time when their futurity ſhall be paſt; and ſo come near in ſignification to the future in ro.

11. The perfect of the ſubjunctive after quasi tanquam, and the like, may ſometimes be Engliſhed by had; as, quasi affuerim, as if I had been preſent. Plaut. Perinde ac ſi, jam vicerint, as if they had already overcome. Cic.

12. The pluperfect in iſſem is ſometimes Engliſhed by ſhould; as, imperaret quod vellet, quodcunque imperaviſſet, ſe eſſe facturos, he might command what he pleaſed, whatever he commanded (ſhould command,) they would do. Cic. Fœdus ictum eſt, hiſ, legibuſ, ut cujuſ populi civiſ eo certamine viciſſent iſ alteri imperaret, an agreement was made on theſe terms, that that people, whoſe countrymen ſhould be victorious in that combat, ſhould have the ſovereignty over the other. Liv. And this happens when a thing is ſignified as future at a certain paſt time. referred to; and commonly takes place, when what was formerly ſaid directly is afterwards recited indirectly; as, re dubita dabitur quodcunque optāriſ, doubt not, whatſoever thou ſhalt chooſe, ſhall be given thee. Ov. Sol Phaethonti facturum ſe eſſe dixit, quicquid optāſſet, the Sun told Phaethon that he would do whatſoever he ſhould chooſe. Cic. Where it is worth noticing, that, what was the future of the ſubjunctive in the direct ſpeech, becomes the pluperfect in the indirect recital of it. See Turner's exerciſes, p. 21, &c. But as we have ſaid, p. 30, the pluperfect, notwithstanding its coming in the place of a future, still retains its own proper compound time, that is, it was prior to a thing now passed at the time of the recital by Cicero, though it was future when first spoken by the Sun. And therefore there is no reason for making this termination issem a future tense, as Mr. Turner does.

13. Though the proper English of the future in ro be shall have, yet generally the have or the shall, and frequently both, are omitted; as, qui Antonium oppresserit, is bellum confecerit, he who shall cut off Anthony shall put an end to the war. Cic. Haud desinam donec perfecero hoc, I will not give over till I have effected this. Ter. Si negaverit, If he denies it. Cic. Sometimes it is Englished by will; as, Dixerit fortasse aliquis, somebody will perhaps say. Cic. Aut consolando, aut consilio, aut re, juvero, I will assist you either by comforting you, or with council, or with money. Cic. But though we thus render the future in ro in our language, and though (which is more material) very frequently it and the future of the indicative are used promiscuously yet I cannot be persuaded that in any instance the formal significations of these are the same, as Mr. Johnson contends, p. 339, but still think with the great Vossius, that the future in ro is always a future perfect, that is, that there is a time insinuated when a thing yet future shall be finished or past; and that even when a future of the indicative is joined with it, which in order of time should be done before it; as, pergratum mihi feceris, si disputabis, you shall have done (shall do) me a great favour, if you shall dispute. Cic. For what hinders that we may not faintly hint at the finishing of an action yet future, without formally considering the finishing of another action on which it depends; and on the contrary? But if the promiscuous usage of tenses, one for another, be sufficient to make them formally the same, then we shall confound all tenses, and overthrow the very arguments Mr. Johnson makes use of against Sanctius, with respect to the tenses of the infinitive.

14. The to of the infinitive is generally omitted after may, can, might, would, could, (which are sometimes verbs themselves, and not the bare signs of them;) also after must, bid, dare, let, help, and make.

15. But what is to be most regarded in the infinitive is, that when it hath an accusative before it, it is commonly Englished as the indicative mood, the participle that being sometimes put before it, but oftener understood. And it is carefully to be remarked that the same tenses of the infinitive are differently Englished, according as the verb varies in its tenses; as will appear in the following scheme:

Dicit me scribere,	He says (that) I write.
Dixit me scribere,	He said (that) I was writing.
Dicet me scribere,	He shall say (that) I am writing.
Dicit me scripsisse,	He says (that) I wrote or did write.
Dixit me scripsisse,	He said (that) I had written.
Dicet me scripsisse,	He shall say (that) I have written, or did write.
Dicit me scripturum (esse),	He says (that) I will write.
Dixit me scripturum (esse),	He said (that) I would write.
Dicet me scripturum (esse),	He shall say (that) I will write.
Dicit me scripturum (fuisse),	He says (that) I would have written.
Dixit me scripturum (fuisse),	He said (that) I would have written.
Dicet me scripturum (fuisse),	He shall say (that) I would have written.

It will be of great use to accustom the learner to render the infinitive after this manner, both in English and Latin, especially after he has been taught something of construction; and then to cause him to vary the accusative me, into te, se, illum, hominem, fœminam, &c. and these again into the plural, nos, vos, se, illos, homines, fœminas, &c. But he must be careful to make the participles agree with them in gender, number, and case.

NOTE 1. That when the preceding verb is of the present or future tense, the future of the infinitive with esse, it is rendered by shall or will, and when it is of the perfect tense, the future of the infinitive is rendered by would, as in the examples above; and sometimes by should; as, dixit te scitum esse, he said that you should know.

NOTE 2. That when the preceding verb is of the imperfect or pluperfect tenses, the English of the infinitive is the same as when it is of the perfect.

16. The perfect of the indicative and subjunctive passive, made up with sum or sim; are Englished by am, art, is, are, instead of have been, when the thing is signified to be just now past; as, vulneratus sum, I am wounded; opus finitum est, the work is finished; cum tempora mutata sint, since the times are changed.

17. When it is made up by fui, it is frequently Englished by was, wast, were, wert; as, Roma fuit capta, Rome was taken; as is also what is called the pluperfect, with eram, and essem; as, labor finitus erat, the labour was finished; si labor finitus esset, if the labour were finished.

II. REMARKS ON THE LATIN CONJUGATIONS.

1. A GREAT part of the passive voice, and some of the active is made up of two of its own participles, and the auxiliary verb sum, (of which you have the full conjugation, p. 62) after this manner :

The Participle Perfect with	{	Sum or fui	}	makes the	{	Perf.	} Indicat.	} Passive.
		eram or fueram.				Plu.
		sim or fuerim			{	Perf.	} Subjunct.
		essem or fuistem				Plu.
The Participle Fut. Act. with	{	fuero	}		Fut.	} Infinit.	Active.
		esse or fuisse			Perf.
		esse or fuisse					Fut.		Infinit.

2. Having, p. 40, laid it down as a probable opinion, that every part of a verb, with all its participles, have a certain fixed time simple or compound, which they formally and of their own nature signify, it will perhaps be here expected that I should account for that great variety that is found in the passive voice. To put this matter in the clearest light I am able, I must premise another division of the tenses, viz. into passing and past; or into such as import the continuance of an action or thing, without regard to the ending or finishing of it; and such as import that the thing is finished (or to be finished) and done. Of the first sort are the present, imperfect, and future-imperfect; of the second sort are the present, imperfect, and future-perfect. See page 29. From this division of the tenses, together with what we have formally said, we are furnished with an easy method of distinguishing all the parts of the passive. Thus, for instance, let the subject of discourse be the building of a house.

1. When I say domus ædificatur, I mean that it is just now a-building, but not finished. 2. When ædificabatur, that it was then, or at a certain past time, a-building, but not then finished. 3. Ædificabitur, that some time hence it shall be a-building, without any formal regard to the finishing of it. But when I make use of the participle-perfect, I always signify a thing completed and ended; but with these subdistinctions:—1. Ædificata est; I mean simply, that it is finished, without any regard to the time when. 2. Ædificata fuit; it is finished, and some time since has intervened. 3. Ædificata erat; it was finished at a certain past time referred to, with which it was contemporary. 4. Ædificata fuerat; it was finished before a certain past time referred to, to which it was prior. 5. Ædificata erit ; it shall be finished some time hereafter, either without regard to a particular time when, or with respect to a certain time yet future, with which its finishing shall be contemporary. 6. And lastly, ædificata fuerit ; it shall be finished and past before another thing yet future, to which its finishing shall be prior. And thus we have nine different times, or complications of times, without confounding them with one another. But then, how comes it to pass that these are so frequently used promiscuously ? I answer, that this proceeds from one or more of these four reasons : 1. Because it very frequently happens in discourse that we have no occasion particularly to consider these various relations and complications of times ; and it is the same thing to our purpose whether the thing is or was done, or a-doing ; or whether it was done just now, or some time ago ; or whether another thing was (or shall be) contemporary with, or prior to it ; and the matter being thus, we reckon ourselves at liberty to take several parts of the verb at random, as being secured not only of being understood, but also that in these circumstances, whatever we pitch on, even when examined by the rules above, shall be found literally true. 2. It is usual with us to state ourselves as present with, and as it were, eye-witnesses of the things we relate, though really they were transacted long before : whence it is that we frequently use the present instead of some time past. 3. It is to be remarked, that there are some verbs, the action whereof is in some sense finished when begun ; in which case it will sometimes be all one whether we use the passing or past tenses. And 4. 'The present tense (which, strictly speaking, is gone before we pronounce it) is generally taken in a larger acceptance, and sometimes used for the future, when we signify that the execution is very near, or (according to Perizonius) when, together with the action, we take in also the preparation to it. 'The brevity we are confined to will not allow us to illustrate these things with examples. But by them I think we may account for the promiscuous usage of the tenses, in both voices ; and what cannot be reduced to these, seems to be an abuse of the language, and being very rarely to be met with, and perhaps only among the poets, ought not to be made a common standard. I shall only add for a proof, that these tenses are not always to be used indifferently, that when we signify a thing to be just now finished, we cannot use fui or fuerim or fuisse, but sum, sim, and esse.

3. Whether the learner should be obliged to get by heart those parts of the passive that are supplied by sum, or if they should be referred to construction (to which they seem more naturally to belong) I refer to the discretion of the master.

4. Besides those parts which are thus made up, all the other parts may be resolved into its own participles and the verb sum though their significations are not precisely the same ; as,

Amō	āmābām	āmāvī	āmāvērām	āmābo.
Sūm āmāns	ērām āmāns	fūī āmāns	fūērām āmāns	ērō āmāns or sūm āmātūrus.
Amōr	āmābār	āmābōr	āmār	āmārēr.
Sūm āmātūs	ērām āmātūs	ērō āmātūs	āmātūs sīm	āmātūs ēssēm.

5. The participle in rus with the verb sum is frequently used instead of the future of the indicative, especially if purpose or intention is signified ; as, profecturus sum or proficiscar, I will go, or I am to go ; and with sīm and essem, instead of the future imperfect, or pluperfect of the subjunctive ; as, non dubito quin sit facturus, I doubt not but he will do it. Non dubitavi quin esset facturus, I doubted not but he would do it, and not quin fecerit, or faceret, or fecisset.

6. We have not joined ero with fuero for the future of the subjunctive, because we thought it incongruous to couple words of different moods ; though it must be owned that it comes nearer in signification to the future of the subjunctive, than that of the indicative ; as Ov. Qui cum victus erit, is much the same as victus fuerit ; and so those ancient lawyers, Scævola, Brutus, and Manilius, understand the words of the Atinian law, quod subreptum erit, ejus rei æterna auctoritas esto. But that a preterite time is there insinuated, is owing, not to the word erit, but to the preterite participle with which it is joined, as they learnedly argue. See Aulus Gellius, lib. xvij. cap. 7.

7. We have omitted the termination minor in the second person plural of the imperative, not thinking it fit to make that an ordinary standard, (as the common Rudiments do) which is to be found only once or twice in Plautus, Epid. 5. 2. Facto opere arbitraminor. And Pseud. 2. 2. Pariter progrediminor.

8. For the same reason we have excluded the ancient termination asso, in the future subjunctive of the first conjugation, as, excantasso, in the laws of the twelve tables, levasso in Ennius ; abjurasso, invitasso, cænasso, irritasso, servasso, &c. in Plautus, for excantavero, levavero, &c. to which may be added esso of the second conjugation ; as, licessit, Plaut. Prohibessit. Cic. for licuerit, prohibuerit. To these some add jusso for jussæo, in that of Virg. Æn. 11. v. 467.

Cætera, quæ jusso, mecum manus inferat arma

But though I was once of that opinion, yet now I incline with Vossius to think that it is only a syncope; but not for the reason brought for it by him, namely, that the other examples in seo change r into ss, as levaro, levasso; but because I believe these old futures were formed not from the common futures in ero, as he supposes, but from the second person singular of the present of the indic. by adding so; as, levas, levasso; prohibes, prohibesso: According to which rule jubeo must have formed jubesso, and jusso.

9. Upon the same account we have omitted the future of the infinitive in assere formed from asso: as, impetrassere, reconciliassere, expugnassere, in Plautus; for impetraturum, esse, &c

10. Though we frequently meet with amaturus and amatus esse, vel fuisse, &c. in the nominative, as, dicitur amaturus, esse, yet we have contented ourselves with the accusative amaturum and amatum, as most common, reserving the distinction between these to construction.* [See page 85.]

11. The future of the infinitive passive is made up of the first supine and iri the infinitive passive of eo: And therefore it is not varied in numbers and genders, as the parts made up of the participle with sum.

12. But the supine with ire is not the future of the infinitive active as some teach; for such phrases as these, amatum ire, doctum ire, are rather of the present than future tense.

13. The participle in dus with esse and fuisse, is not properly the future of the infinitive passive, as is commonly believed: For it does not so much import futurity, as necessity, duty, or merit. For there is a great difference between these two sentences, dicit literas a se scriptum iri, and dicit literas, a se scribendas esse; the first signifying, that a letter will be written by him, or that he will write a letter; and the second, that a letter must be written by him, or he is obliged to write a letter. For though Sanctius, and Messieurs de Port Royal contend that this participle is sometimes used for simple futurity, yet I think Perizonius and Johnson have clearly evinced the contrary.

† 14. It is to be noted, that the imperative mood wants the first person both singular and plural, because no man can or needs command or exhort himself: Or, if he does, he must jostle himself out of the first into the second person, as in the of Catullus, speaking to himself, at tu, Catulle, destinatus, obdura, but do you, Catullus, continue obstinate.

* The nominative has been adopted in this edition.

† The first person of the subjunctive singular and plural is substituted for the first person imperative.—Ross.

15. The present of the subjunctive is most frequently used instead of the imperative, especially in forbidding, after ne nemo, nullus, &c. as, valeas, farewell; for vale. Ne facias, do it not, rather than ne fac. And sometimes the future of the subjunctive; as, tu videris, see you to it. Ne dixeris, Don't say that. And sometimes also the future of the indicative; as, non occides, thou shalt not kill; for ne occide, or occidito. Sed valebis, meaque negotia videbis. Cic. i. e. sed vale meaque negotia vide. Referes ergo, hæc, et nuncius ibis Pelidæ genitori. Virg. i. e. refer, et ito. But it is to be remarked that none of these are proper imperatives; for to the first is understood, oro, rogo, peto, or the like with ut; as also to the second, with ut understood, or ne expressed; and the third is only a command by consequence, because of the authority, influence, or power of the speaker. For which reason, and to keep the moods from interfering with one another, we have excluded these from the imperative: Though the common rudiments take in the first, and Alvarus the second and third. However, it is observable that we show most civility and respect when we use the subjunctive, and most authority by the future of the indicative, and nto of the imperative; which last is the ordinary strain in which laws are delivered. But this rule is not always followed.

16. The ris of the second person passive is more usual than re; and erunt of the perfect of the indicative active than ere; especially in prose, in which, if a vowel follow, they are very rarely to be met with.

III. REMARKS UPON ENGLISH VERBS.

1. AN English verb hath only two tenses, distinguished by different terminations, and both in the active voice, viz. the present and preterite. The present is the verb itself, and the preterite is commonly made by adding ed, to it, or d when it ends in e; as, fill, filled; love, loved.

2. All the other parts of the active, and the whole passive is made up of the auxiliary verbs, do, have, shall, will, may, can, and am; as in page 41, and in the examples to love, page 42, &c.

3. An English verb hath different terminations for the persons of the singular number. The present hath three or four. The first person is the verb itself; the second ends in est, or st; the third in eth, es, or s. The preterite hath only two; the first commonly ending in ed, and the second in edst, or dst; But the third person singular of the preterite, and all the persons plural, both of it and the present, cannot otherwise be distinguished than by the nominative before them; which therefore can never be omitted as in the Latin.

4. We have two participles, the present ending always in ing, and the preterite ending regularly in ed, but very frequently in en, and t.

5. There are a great many irregular English verbs; but it is to be noted, 1. That that irregularity relates only to the termination of the preterite tense, and the passive participle. 2. That it reaches only such words as are native and originally English. 3. That it is to be found only in words of one syllable, or derived from words of one syllable. 4. That where the preterite is regular, the passive participle is the same with it. Except hewed, mowed, showed, snowed, sowed; which have hewn, mown, shown, sown, sown.

6. These irregularities may be reduced to the following heads:

(1.) The d is changed into t after c, ch, sh, f, k, p, x; and after s and th when pronounced hard; and sometimes after l, m, n, r, when a short vowel goes before it; as plac't, snatch't, fish't, walk'd, dwelt, smelt. But when a long vowel goes before p, it is either shortened, or changed into a short one; as, kept, slept, wept, crept, swept, leapt, from keep, sleep, weep, creep, sweep, leap; as also sometimes before l, m, n, r, and v turned into f; as, feel, felt; mean, meant; leave, left.

(2.) When the present ends in d or t, the preterite is sometimes the same with it; as, read, cast, hurt, burst, hit, quit; and when two vowels precede; the last is left out; as, lead, led; feed, fed; bleed, bled; meet, met. When a consonant comes before d, it is sometimes changed into t; as, bend, bent; lend, lent; send, sent; rend, rent; gird, girt.

(3.) Most of the other irregular verbs may be comprehended under the following lists:

1. Such as have their preterite and participle passive the same

Awake	awoke	Find	found	Pay	paid	Sting	stung
Abide	abode	Flee	fled	Say	said	Swing	swung
Beseech	besought	Fling	flung	Seek	sought	Swim	swum
Bind	bound	Grind	ground	Sell	sold	Teach	taught
Bring	brought	Gild	gilt	Sit	sat	Tell	told
Buy	bought	Hang	hung	Shine	shone	Think	thought
Catch	caught	Hear	heard	Spin	spun	Work	wrought
Dig	dug	Lay	laid	Spring	sprung	Win	won
Drink	drunk	Lose	lost	Stand	stood	Wind	wound
Fight	fought	Make	made	Stick	stuck	Wring	wrung.

II. Such as have the preterite and participle passive different.

Bear	bore	born	Freeze	froze	frozen	Shrink	shrank	shrunk
Begin	began	begun	Get	got	gotten	Sink	sank	sunk
Bid	bade	bidden	Give	gave	given	Slay	slew	slain
Beat	beat	beaten	Go	went	gone	Slide	slid	slidden
Bite	bit	bitten	Grow	grew	grown	Smite	smote	smitten
Blow	blew	blown	Hew	hewed	hewn	Strike	struck	stricken
Chide	chid	chidden	Hide	hid	hidden	Speak	spoke	spoken
Choose	chose	chosen	Hold	held	holden	Spit	spat	spitten
Cleave	cleve	cleft	Know	knew	known	Strive	strove	striven
Come	came	come	Lie	lay	lain	Swear	swore	sworn
Crow	crew	crowed	Ride	rode	ridden	Swell	swelled	swollen
Dare	durst	dared	Ring	rang	rung	Take	took	taken
Do	did	done	Rise	rose	risen	Tear	tore	torn
Draw	drew	drawn	Run	ran	run	Thrive	throve	thriven
Drive	drove	driven	See	saw	seen	Throw	threw	thrown
Eat	ate	eaten	Seethe	sod	sodden	Tread	trod	trodden
Fall	fell	fallen	Shake	shook	shaken	Wear	wore	worn
Fly	flew	flown	Shear	shorn	shorn	Weave	wove	woven
Forsake	forsook	forsaken	Shoot	shot	shotten	Write	wrote	written

These preterites, bare, share, sware, tare, ware, clave, gat, begat, forgat, brake, spake, slang, sprang, swang, wan, stank, sank, are seldom used. But beseech'd, catch'd, work'd, digg'd, gilded, girded, hang'd, swam, writ, for besought, caught, &c. are frequently to be met with.

NOTE 1. That when the verb ends in one consonant, that consonant is for the most part doubled before ing, ed, est, edst, and eth, as, worship, worshiping, worshipped, worshippest, worshippedst, worshippeth; As also before en; as, bid, bidden.

NOTE 2. That the apostrophi, (which has become too common in Eng. verb: as, lov'd, lov'ed, for loved, lovest.) begins now to be disused by the most polite writers in prose; but poets still use it, though not so much as formerly.

NOTE 3. That the preterite active and the participle passive (when one word serves for both) are thus distinguished: When it hath nothing before it but the nominative alone, or have or had with it, it is the preterite active; but when it hath any part of the helping verb am, it is the participle passive.

Except come, gone, run, set, risen, fallen, grown, withered, and such like intransitive verbs, which have frequently the passive signs, am, art, &c. instead of have in the perfect tense; and was, wast, &c. instead of had, in the pluperfect; as, veni, I am come; veneram, I was come.

NOTE 4. That though the Latin perfect frequently answers both to have and did, (or the preterite termination ed, &c.) yet they seem to be thus distinguished; did or ed, &c. respects a certain past time, in which the thing was finished, or a-finishing: as, I wrote; or did write yesterday; have either speaks of a thing as but just now past, or at least does not refer to any particular time that it happened at; as, I have written my letter, i. e. just now; I have read of Julius Cæsar, i. e. some time or other. The first of these is called the preterperfect definite, and the other the preterperfect in definite.

NOTE 5. That shall and will, by Mr. Brightland are thus distinguished:

In the first person simply shall foretells;
In will a threat, or else a promise dwells.
Shall in the second and the third does threat;
Will simply then foretells the future feat.

By Mr. Turner thus:

Will imports the will or purpose of the person it is joined with; shall implies the will of another, who promises or threatens to do the thing, or cause it to be done, permits it, or commands it, or the like.

De Formatione Verborum.

QUATUOR sunt terminationes verbi, a quibus reliquæ omnes formantur; viz. o præsentis, i præteriti, um supini, et re infinitivi, hoc modo:

1. Ab o formantur am et em.
2. Ab i formantur ram, rim, ro, sse, et ssem.
3. Ab um formantur u, us, et rus.
4. A re formantur reliquæ omnes; nempe, bam, bo, rem, a, e, i, ns, dus, dum, di, do.

Of the Formation of Verbs.

THERE are four terminations of a verb, from which all the rest are formed; namely, o of the present, i of the preterite, um of the supine, and re of the infinitive, after this manner:

1. From o are formed am and em.
2. From i, ram, rim, ro, sse, and ssem.
3. U, us, and rus are formed from um.
4. All other sorts from re do come; as, bam, bo, rem, a, e, and i, ns, and dus, dum, do, and di.

In every complete verb there are commonly four principal parts, viz. the present of the indicative in o, the preterite or perfect in i, the first supine in um, and the present of the infinitive tive in re. The first (which is therefore called the theme or root of the verb) gives origin to the whole verb, either mediately or immediately. The preterite, the first supine, and the present of the infinitive, come from it immediately, and all the rest from them; except the future of the indicative in am, and the present of the subjunctive in em or am, which by this scheme are also formed immediately from the present in o.

It is to be noted, that the preterites and supines of the first conjugation end commonly in avi, and atum, of the second in ui and itum, and of the fourth in ivi and itum. But the third conjugation cannot be reduced to any general rule, and there are a great many exceptions in the other three, which are therefore to be learned by daily practice, till the scholar is advanced to that part of grammar that treats particularly of them.

But the present of the infinitive, and all the other parts of the verb, are regularly formed after one fixed and uniform manner.

In the foregoing rules of formation, I have for the ease of the memory, put the terminations instead of the moods and tenses; but for the greater plainness they may be thus expressed:

I. From the present of the indicative are formed the future of the indicative of the third and fourth conjugations in am, and the present of the subjunctive of the first in em, and of the other three in am.

II. From the perfect of the indicative are formed the pluperfect of it, the perfect, pluperfect, and future of the subjunctive, and the perfect of the infinitive.

III. From the first supine are formed the last supine, the participle perfect, and the future active.

IV. From the present of the infinitive are formed the imperfect of the indicative, the future of the same when it ends in bo, (viz. in the first and second conjugations) the imperfect of the subjunctive, the imperative, the participles present and future passive, and the gerunds.

NOTE 1. That verbs in io of the third conjugation retain i before unt, unto, obam, am, ens, endus, endum; but lose it in the present of the infinitive, and imperfect of the subjunctive.

NOTE 2. That the last person plural of the imperative may be formed by adding o to the same person of the present of the indicative; as, amant, amanto; docent, docento.

NOTE 3. That the passive voice is formed from the same tenses of the active, (except when sum is used) by adding r to o, or changing m into r.

NOTE 4. That the present of the infinitive passive of the third conjugation may be formed by taking s from the second person of the present of the indicative active; as legis, legi; or, when the verb is deponent, by changing or or ior, into i; as, propiciat propiciat morat, morat.

NOTE 5. That the present of the infinitive active, and the second person of the indicative and imperative passive in re, are always the same.

NOTE 6. That the second person plural of the present of the indicative, and of the imperative, are the same in the passive voice.

NOTE 7. That where any of the principal parts are wanting, those parts are commonly wanting that come from them. For which reason grammarians give supines to a great many verbs, which yet are not to be found in any author, because the participles formed from them are found: And they suppose, likewise, all deponent words of old to have had the active voice, and consequently supines, though now lost.

NOTE 8. That all verbs of the second conjugation end in eo, and all verbs of the fourth in io, except eo and queo. There are eight verbs in eo, of the first conjugation, viz. beo, creo, scree, meo, calceo, laqueo, nauseo, nucleo. There are twenty-four in io of the first, viz. amplio, basio, brevio, concilio, crucio, furio, glacio, hio, lanio, luxurio, macio, nuncio, pio, propitio, radio, repudio, satio, saucio, socio, somnio, spolio, suavio, or rather suavior, vario, vitio; with some others less common; as, decurio, sucenturio, fascio, retalis, strio, tertio, &c. and twelve of the third, viz. capio, facio, jacio, lacio, specio, fodio, fugio, cupio, rapio, sepio, partio, quatio, with their compounds.

It is not, in my opinion, necessary to trouble the learner with a particular account how the respective changes in the moods, tenses, numbers, and persons are made; they being obvious from the examples above, in which I have distinguished them from the body, or essential part of the verb by a division or hyphen. And perhaps this alone, without any other particular rule, might be a sufficient direction. For to conjugate one verb by the example of another, we have no more to do, but instead of the essential part of the one (which is all that stands before e, eo, or io of the present of the indicative, to substitute the essential part of the other, and then to add to it the additional syllable it receives in conjugation as before. Only we are to advert, 1. That in the preterites and supines, and the parts that come from them, we are to reckon all before i and um for the body of the verb, adding the usual syllables to it, as in the active voice of lego. 2. In verbs in io we are to retain or omit the i, as in note 1.

There is yet another way of the formation of verbs, differing only from the first method in this, that what parts, according to it, are formed from the infinitive, are by this formed from the first or second person of the present of the indicative. But though this may be the more natural way, yet the other is more easy and uniform.

The compounds of sum are, ādsūm, ābsūm, dēsum, intērvūm, præsūm, ūbsūm, sūbsūm, sūpērūm, insūm, prōsūm, and pōssūm. The first eight are conjugated as the simple sum; insum wants the preterite and its descendants; for we do not use infui, infuisti, infueram, &c.

¶ PROSUM, to do good, has a d where sum begins with e; as,

IND.	{	Pr. Pro-sum prod-es prod-est; pro-sumus prod-estis pro-sunt.
		Im. Prod-eram prod-erās prod-erat; prod-erāmus, &c.

IMPER.		Prod-esto; prod-este.
INFIN.	Pr.	Prod-esse.

Possum should be pot-sum, (as being compounded of potis, able, and sum) but for the better sound t is changed into s before another s, and retained before any other letter; and for the same reason s is always taken away. Possem and posse are contracted for potessem, potesse, which are yet to be found in some old authors; thus,

¶ Possum, potui, posse, To be able.

NOTE 1. That in general ēō is a verb of the fourth conjugation.

NOTE 2. That of old, verbs of the fourth had their imperfect in ibam and future in ibo, of which there are many examples in Plautus and Terence, and some in Virgil and Horace.

After the same manner the compounds of eo are conjugated, viz. Adēō, abēō, exēō, obēō, rēdēō, sūbēō, pērēō, coēō, inēō, præēō, antēō, prōdēō, præterēō, transēō, circūēō: Adibam, adibo, adiens, adeuntis, adeundum, &c. But ambio is a regular verb of the fourth conjugation.

NOTE. That in the compounds, ivi, ivistī, &c. are seldom used, but they are contracted into ii, iistī, &c. as, adii, adiisti, and sometimes adisti:—So adieram, adierim, &c.

Queo, I can, and nequeo, I cannot, are conjugated the same way as eo; they only want the imperative and the gerunds; and the participles are scarcely in use.

NOTE 1. That fio is the passive of facio, to make, (which is regular) instead of facior, which is not in use; Yet the compounds of facio, which change a into i are regular; as, afficio, affectus, affici; perficio, perfectus, perfici.

NOTE 2. That the compounds of facio, with verbs, nouns, or adverbs, retain the a, and have their imperative active, fac, and their passive form, (when used) fio; as, calefacio, lucrifacio, benefacio; calefac, calefio, &c. But those compounded with a preposition change the a into i, and have fice and ficio. There are some compounded of facio and a noun, where facio is changed into ficio of the first conjugation; as, magnifico, significo.

IND. Pr. Quæso quæsumus.

II. These three verbs, odi, memini, cœpi, have only the preterite tense, and what is formed from it, and therefore are by some called preteritive verbs.

Odi	odērām	odērīm	odissēm	odēro	odissē.
Mēmīni	meminērām	meminērīm	meminissēm	mēmīnēro	meminissē.
Cœpi	cœpērām	cœpērīm	cœpissēm	cœpēro	cœpissē.

But under these they comprehend also the signification of the other tenses; as, memini, I remember, or I have remembered; memineram, I remembered, or I had remembered, &c. So odi, I hate, or I have hated; cœpi, I begin, or I have begun. Though I am not fully satisfied as to this last, for I do not know any example where cœpi doth clearly signify the present tense.

Menini hath also the imperative memento, remember thou; mementote, remember ye. Some add meminens, remembering, which is scarcely to be imitated.

To these some add novi, because it frequently hath the signification of the present, I know, as well as I have known; though it comes from nosco, which is complete.

NOTE 1. That odientes is to be found in Petronius; odiatur in Seneca, cœpio in Plautus and Terence. See Voss. Analog. Lib. iii. cap. 9.

NOTE 2. That the participles cœptus, and œsus, with its compounds perœsus, exœsus, are in use among the best authors; but perodi and exodi are not.

III. Faris, to speak, wants the first person of the present indicative, and perhaps the whole present of the subjunctive, for we do not say for or fer, and rarely feris, setur, &c. So likewise daris and deris, but not dor or der, to be given. The compounds of the first, as, effor, affor, are rare; but the compounds of the other, as, addor, reddor, are common.

IV. Most of the other defective verbs are but single words, and rarely to be found but among poets; as, infit, he begins; defit, it is wanting. Some are compounded of a verb with the conjunction si; as, sis for si vis, if thou wilt; sultis, for si vultis, if ye will; sodes, for si audes, if thou darest.

OF IMPERSONAL VERBS.

THESE are also a kind of defective verbs, which for the most part are used only in the third person singular. They have the sign it before them in English; as, pœnitēt, it repents; placet, it pleases; and are thus conjugated:

	Præs.	Imper.	Per.	Plusq.	Fut.
IND.	Pœnitēt	pœnitēbāt	pœnitūt	pœnituerāt	pœnitebit.
SUB.	Pœniteat	pœniteret	pœnituerit	pœnituisset	pœnituerit.
INF.	Pœnitere.		pœnituisse.

Most verbs may be used impersonally in the passive voice, especially such as otherwise have no passive; as,

	Præs.	Imp.	Perf.		Plusq.	Fut.
IND.	Pugnātūr	pugnābātūr	pugnatum	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{est} \\ \text{fuit} \end{array} \right.$	-atum	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{erat} \\ \text{fuerat} \end{array} \right.$	pugna bitur.
SUB.	Pugnētūr	pugnārētūr	pugnātūm		$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{esset} \\ \text{fuisset} \end{array} \right.$	-atum	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{esset} \\ \text{fuisset} \end{array} \right.$
INF.	Pugnārī		pugnātūm	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{esse} \\ \text{fuisse} \end{array} \right.$			pugnatum iri.

NOTE 1. That impersonals are applied to any person or number, by putting that which stands before other verbs, after the impersonals in the cases which they govern; as, *pœnit*et me, te, illum, I repent, thou repentest, he repenteth, instead of ego, pœniteo, &c. which is scarcely Latin. Placet mihi, tibi, illi, it pleases me, thee, him; or, I please, thou pleasest, &c. Pugnatur a me, a te, ab illo, I fight, thou fightest, he fighteth, &c.

NOTE 2. That impersonals are not used in the imperative, but instead of it we take the subjunctive.

NOTE 3. That impersonal verbs are very often used personally, especially in the plural number; as, accidit, contingit, evenit, pertinet, deceat, dolet, licet, nocet, patet, placet, præstat, &c. For we say, tu mihi sola places; nulli noceo; multa homini accidunt, contingunt eveniunt: parvum parva decent, &c. But it is to be remarked, that they are generally impersonal, when an infinitive or subjunctive mood follows: for though I can say, tu places mihi, yet I cannot say, si places audire, but si placet tibi audire.—Again, we cannot say, ego contigi esse domi, but, me contigit esse domi, or, mihi contigit esse domi. Likewise, evenit illum mori, or ut ille moreretur, but not ille evenit mori.

[I shall not here inquire what is the word understood to impersonal verbs, whether it is a noun of the like signification; as, pugna, pugnatur, or the word res or negotium, or the infinitive mood. Though I incline to think that any one of these will not answer to them all, but that there are some to which the first, to others the second, and to others the third, may be most fitly understood, as the nature of the verb and good sense shall direct us. This we are sure of, that the word understood can never be a person properly so called, but a thing; for which reason, and the want of two primary persons, viz. the first and second, they are called impersonal, though some are much offended with the name.]

in tus, sus, xus, plerumque sunt passiva, interdum vero activa, vel etiam communia.

III. Omnia participia sunt adjectiva: quæ desinunt in ns sunt tertiæ declinationis, reliqua autem omnia primæ et secundæ.

sive, or neuter, after the manner of the verbs from which they come.

Participes { in ns, and rus are generally active.
in dus always passive.
in tus, sus, xus, are generally passive, sometimes active, or also common.

III. All participles are adjectives: those which end in ns are of the third declension, but all the rest are of the first and second.

A participle is a kind of adjective formed from a verb, which in its signification always imports some time.

It is so called because it partakes of a noun and a verb, having genders and cases from the one, time and signification from the other, and numbers from both.

1. Active verbs [See chap. ix.] have two participles, one of the present time ending in ns; as, amans, loving; and another of the future ending in rus; as, amaturus, about to love.

2. Passive verbs have likewise two participles, one of the preterite ending in tus, sus, xus; as, amatus, loved; visus, seen; flexus, bowed; (to which some add one in rus, viz. mortuus, dead,) and another of the future ending in dus; as, amandus, to be loved.

3. Neuter verbs have two participles, as the active; as, sedens, sitting; sessurus, about to sit.

4. Active intransitive verbs have frequently three participles; as, carens, wanting; cariturus, about to want; carendus, to be wanted; dolens, grieving; doliturus, about to grieve; dolendus, to be grieved: And sometimes four, as, vigilans, watching; vigilaturus, about to watch; vigilatus, watched; vigilandus, to be watched.

5. Deponent and common verbs have generally four participles; as, loquens, speaking; locuturus, about to speak; locutus, having spoken; loquendus, to be spoken; dignans, vouchsafing; dignaturus, about to vouchsafe; dignatus, having vouchsafed, or being vouchsafed; dignandus, to be vouchsafed

NOTE 1. That in some deponent verbs the participle perfect hath both an active and passive signification, though that of the verb itself is only active; as, testatus, having testified, or being testified. So mentitus, meditatus, oblitus, &c.

NOTE 2. That it is essential to a participle, 1. That it come immediately from a verb. 2. That in its signification it also include time. Therefore, tunicatus, coated; larvatus, masked; and such like, are not participles, because they come from nouns, and not from verbs. And ignarus, ignorant; elegans, neat; circumspectus, circumspect; tacitus, silent; falsus, false; profusus, prodigal, &c. are not participles, because they do not signify time.

There is a kind of adjective-nouns ending in undus, which approaches very near to the nature of participles, such as erubundus, ludibundus, populabundus. They are formed from the imperfect of the indicative, and the signification is much the same with the participle of the present time; only they signify abundance (or a great deal) of the action, according to A. Gellius, Lib. 11. Cap. 15. or according to others, they signify the same with the participles of frequentative verbs, when these are not in use. See Gronovius on Gellius; as above cited.

APPENDIX OF GERUNDS AND SUPINES.

GERUNDS and supines (which because of their near relation to verbs, are by some not improperly called participial words) are a sort of substantive-nouns, expressing the action of the verb in general, or in the abstract. Gerunds are substantives of the second declension, and complete in all their cases, except the vocative. Supines are substantives of the fourth declension, having only two cases, the accusative in um, which makes the first supine, and the ablative in u, which makes the second.

[Vossius, Lib. 8. Cap. 54. thinks that the last supine may sometimes be a dative; as, durum tactu, i. e. tactui; for the datives of the fourth declension of old ended in u. Also Lib. 7. Cap. 8. he takes notice, that though these supines have sometimes other cases, (as irrisui esse) yet they are only reckoned supines by grammarians when the first come after verbs of motion, and the second after adjective-nouns; thus dignus irrisu is a supine (according to them), non sine irrisu, audientium is not.]

CAP. V.

CHAP V.

De Adverbio.Of Abverb.

IN adverbio potissimum spectanda est ejus significatio.

IN an adverb is chiefly to be considered its signification.

Adverbiorum significationes variæ sunt: earum vero præcipuæ ad sequentia capita revocari possunt.

The significations of adverbs are various: but the chief of them may be reduced to the following heads.

An adverb is an indeclinable part of speech, which being joined to a noun, verb, or another adverb, expresses some circumstance, quality, or manner of their signification.

I. Adverbs denoting circumstance are chiefly those of place, time, and order.

1. Adverbs of PLACE are five-fold,
viz. Adverbs signifying motion,

(1) in a place.	UBI ?	Where ?
	Hic	Here.
	Illic	} There.
	Isthic
	Ibi
	Intus	Within.
	Foris	Without.
	Ubique	Every where.
	Nusquam	No where.
	Alicubi	Some where.
(2) to a place.	Alibi	Else where.
	Ubiuis	Any where.
	Ibidem	In the same place.
	quo ?	Whither ?
	Huc	Hither.
	Illuc	} Thither.
	Isthuc
	Intro
	Foras	To within.
	Eo	To without.
(3) towards a place.	Alio	To that place.
	Aliquo	To another place.
	Eodem	To some place.
	QUORSUM ?	To the same place.
	Versus	Whitherward ?
	Horsum	Towards.
	Ilorsum	Hitherward.
	Sorsum	Thitherward.
	Deorsum	Upward.
	Antrorsum	Downward.
(4) from a place.	Retrorsum	Forward.
	Dextrorsum	Backward.
	Sinistrorsum	To the right hand.
	UNDE ?	To the left hand.
	Hinc	From whence ?
	Illinc	From hence.
	Isthinc	} From thence.
	Inde
	Aliunde
	Alicunde	From else where.
(5) through or by a place.	Sicunde	From some place.
	Utrinque	If from any place.
	Superne	On both sides.
	Inferne	From above.
	Cœlitus	From below.
	Funditus	From heaven.
	QUA ?	From the ground.
	Hac	Which way ?
	Illac	This way.
	Isthac	} That way.
	Alia
		Another way.

2. Adverbs of TIME are three-fold,
viz. such as signify,

1 pre-sent.	(1) Being in time either
	NUNC	Now.
	Hodie	To-day.
2 past.	TUNC	} Then.
	Tum
	Heri	} Yesterday.
	Dudum
	Pridem	} Heretofore.
	Pridie
	Nudius tertius	} The day before.
Nuper
3 future, remote; very near.	JAMJAM	Presently.
	Mox	Immediately.
	Statim	By and by.
	Protinus	Instantly.
	Illico	Straightway.
	Cras	To-morrow.
	Postridie	The day after
	Perendie	Two days hence.
	Nondum	Not yet.
		When ?
4 indefinite.	QUANDO ?	} Sometimes.
	Aliquando
	Nonnunquam	} Ever.
	Interdum
	Semper	} Never.
	Nunquam
Interim	In the mean time.
Quotidie	Daily.
(2) Continuance of time.
	QUAMDIU ?	How long ?
	Diu	Long.
	Tamdiu	So long.
	Jamdiu	} Long ago.
	Jamdadum
	Jampridem
(3) Vicissitude or repetition of time.
1 indefinite.	QUOTIES ?	How often ?
	Sæpe	Often.
	Raro	Seldom.
	Toties	So often.
	Aliquoties	For several times.
	Vicissim	} By turns.
	Alternatim
	Rursus	} Again.
	Iterum
	Subinde	} Ever and anon.
	Identidem
	2 definite or in number.	SEMEL
Bis		Twice.
Ter		Thrice.
Quater		Four times &c.

3. Adverbs of ORDER ; as,

Inde	Then.	Deinceps	So forth.	Primo	-um	First.
Deinde	Thereafter.	Denuo	Of-new.	Secundo	-um	Secondly
Dehinc	Henceforth.	Denique	Finally.	Tertio	-um	Thirdly.
Porro	Moreover.	Postremo	Lastly.	Quarto	-um	Fourthly

II. The other adverbs expressing QUALITY, MANNER, &c. are either absolute or comparative.

- ABSOLUTE, denoting,
1. Quality simply ; as, bene, well ; male, ill ; fortiter, bravely ; and innumerable others that come from adjective-nouns, or participles.
 2. Certainty ; as, profecto, certe, sane, plane, næ, utique, ita, etiam, truly, verily, yes ; quidni, why not ? omnino, certainly.
 3. Contingence ; as, forte, forsan, fortassis, fors, happily, perhaps, by chance, peradventure.
 4. Negation ; as, non, haud, not ; nequaquam, not at all ; neutiquam, by no means ; minime, nothing less.
 5. Prohibition ; as, ne, not.
 6. Swearing ; as, hercle, pol, edepol, mecastor, by Hercules, by Pol-lux, &c.
 7. Explaining ; as, utpote, videlicet, scilicet, nimirum, nempe, to wit, namely.
 8. Separation ; as, seorsum, apart ; separatim, separately ; sigillatim, one by one ; virilitim, man by man ; oppidatim, town by town, &c.
 9. Joining together ; as, simul, una, pariter, together ; generaliter, general-ly ; universaliter, universally ; plerumque, for the most part.
 10. Indication or pointing out ; as, en, écce, lo, behold.
 11. Interrogation ; as, cui, quare, quamobrem, why, wherefore ? num, an, whether ? quomodo, qui, how ? to which add, ubi, quo, quorsum, unde, qua, quando, quamdiu, quoties ?

- COMPARATIVE, denoting,
1. Excess ; as, valde, maxime, magnopere, summo-pere, admodum, oppido, perquam, longe, very much, exceedingly ; nimis, nimum, too much ; prorsus, penitus, omnino, altogether, wholly ; magis, more ; melius, better ; pejus, worse ; fortius, more bravely ; and optime, best ; pesime, worst ; fortissime, most bravely ; and innumerable others of the comparative and superlative degrees.
 2. Defect ; as, serme, fere, prope, propemodum, pene, almost ; parum, little ; paulo, paululum, very little.
 3. Preference ; as, potius, satius, rather ; potissimum, præcipue, præsertim, chiefly, especially ; imo, yes, nay, nay rather.
 4. Likeness or equality ; as, ita, sic, adeo, so ; ut, uti, sicut, sicuti, velut, veluti, ceu, tanquam, quasi, as if ; quemadmodum, even as ; satis, enough ; itidem, in like manner.
 5. Unlikeness or inequality ; as, aliter, secus, otherwise ; alioqui, or alioquin, else ; nedum, much more or much less.
 6. Abatement ; as, sensim, paulatim, pedetentim, by degrees, piecemeal ; vix, scarcely ; ægre, hardly, with difficulty.
 7. Exclusion ; as, tantum, solum, modo, tantummodo, duntaxat, demum, only.

NOTE 1. That adverbs seem originally to have been contrived to express compendiously in one word what must otherwise have required two or more; as, sapienter, wisely; for cum sapientia; hic, for in hoc loco; semper, for in omni tempore; semel, for una vice; bis, for duabus vicibus; Hercule, for Hercules me juvet, &c. Therefore many of them are nothing else but adjective-nouns or pronouns, having the preposition and substantive understood; as, quo, eo, eodem: for ad quæ, ea, eadem [loca] or cui, ei, eidem [loco]; for of old these datives ended in e. Thus, qua, hac, illac, &c. are plainly adjectives in the ablative singular, fem. the word via, a way, being understood. Many of them are compounds; as, quomodo, i. e. quo modo; quemadmodum, i. e. ad quem modum; quomobrem, i. e. ob quam rem; quare, i. e. [pro] qua re; quorsum, i. e. versus quem [locum]; scilicet, i. e. scire licet; videlicet, i. e. videre licet; ilicet, i. e. ire licet; illico, i. e. in loco; magnopere, i. e. magno opere; nimirum, i. e. ni [est] mirum, &c.

NOTE 2. That of adverbs of place, those of the first kind answer to the question ubi? the second to quo? the third to quorsum? the fourth to unde? and the fifth to qua? to which might be added a sixth, quousque? how far? answered by-usque, until; hucusque, hitherto; eousque, so far; hactenus, hitherto, thus far; atenus, so far as; quodatenus, in some measure. But these are equally applied to time and place.

NOTE 3. That adverbs of time of the first kind answer to quando? of the second to quamdiu, and quamdudum or quampridem? of the third to quoties?

NOTE 4. That adverbs of quality generally answer to the question quomodo?

NOTE 5. That some adverbs of time, place, and order are frequently used the one for the other; as, ubi, where, and when; inde, from that place, from that time, thereafter, next; hactenus, thus far, with respect to place, time, or order, &c. Other adverbs also may be classed under different heads.

NOTE 6. That some adverbs of time are either past, present, or future: as, jam, already, now, by and by; olim, long ago, sometime hereafter.

NOTE 7. That interrogative adverbs of time and place doubled, or with the adjection cunque answer to the English adjection soever; as, ubiubi or ubicunque, wheresoever; quoquo or quocunque, whithersoever, &c. And the same holds also in other interrogative words; as, quisquis, or quicunque, whosoever; quotquot or quotcunque, how many soever; quantusquantus or quantuscunque, how great soever; qualisqualis, or qualiscunque, of what kind or quality soever; utut or utcunque, however, howsoever, &c.

CAP. VI.

De Præpositione.

I. PRÆPOSITIONES quæ regunt accusativum sunt viginti-octo, viz.

CHAP. VI.

Of Preposition.

I. THE prepositions which govern the accusative are twenty-eight, viz.

Ad,	To.	Infra,	Beneath.
Apud,	At.	Juxta,	Nigh to.
Ante,	Before.	Ob,	For.
Adversus,	} Against.	Propter.	For, hard by
Adversum,		Per,	By, through.
Contra,	} On this side.	Præter,	Besides, except
Cis,		Penes,	In the power of
Citra,		Post,	After.
Circa,	} About.	Pone,	Behind.
Circum,		Secus,	By, along.
Erga,	Towards.	Secundum,	According to.
Extra,	Without.	Supra,	Above. [side
Inter,	Between, among.	Trans,	On the farther
Intra,	Within.	Ultra,	Beyond.

II. Præpositiones quæ regunt ablativum sunt quindecim; nempe,

II. The prepositions which govern the ablative are fifteen; namely,

A,	} From.	De,	Of, concerning.
Ab,		E,	} Of, out of.
Abs,	} Without.	Ex,
Absque,		Pro,	For.
Cum,	With.	Præ,	Before.
Clam,	Without the knowledge of.	Palam,	With the knowledge of.
Coram,	Before.	Sine,	Without.
		Tenus,	Up to

III. Hæ quatuor interdum accusativum, interdum ablativum, regunt;

III. These four govern sometimes the accusative, and sometimes the ablative;

In,	In, into.	Super,	Above.
Sub,	Under.	Subter,	Beneath.

A preposition is an indeclinable word, showing the relation of one substantive-noun to another.

NOTE. That pone and secus rarely occur; and prope, nigh; usque, unto; circiter, about; versus, towards; which are commonly reckoned among the prepositions governing the accusative; and procul, far, among those governing the ablative, are adverbs; and do not govern a case of themselves, but by the preposition ad, which is understood to the first four, and a or ab to the last. To which perhaps may be added clam, which is joined very frequently with the accusative; as, clam, patre or patrem; a being understood to the one, and quod ad to the other.

Besides the separate use of these prepositions, there is another use arising from them, viz. their being put before a vast number of nouns and verbs in composition, which creates a great variety, and gives a peculiar elegance and beauty to the Latin tongue.

There are five or six syllables, viz. am, di, or dis, re, se, con, which are commonly called inseparable prepositions, because they are only to be found in compound words: nowever they generally add something to the signification of the words with which they are compounded; thus,

Am	} signifies	{ roundabout	} as,	ambio	to surround.
Di				divello	to pull asunder.
Dis				distrabo	to draw asunder.
Re				relego	to read again.
Se				sepono	to lay aside.
Con	} signifies	{ asunder	} as,	concreasco	to grow together.
	} signifies	{ again	} as,
	} signifies	{ aside or apart	} as,
	} signifies	{ together	} as,

CHAP. VII.

OF INTERJECTION.

An interjection is an indeclinable word thrown into discourse to signify some passion or emotion of the mind.

- Some of them express.
1. Joy; as, evax, hey, brave, io.
 2. Grief; as, ah, hei, heu, eheu, ah, alas, woe's me.
 3. Wonder; as, papæ, O strange; Vah, hah.
 4. Praise; as, euge, well done.
 5. Aversion; as, apæge, away, begone, fy, tush.
 6. Exclaiming; as, oh, proh, O.
 7. Surprise or fear; as, atat, ha, aha.
 8. Imprecation; as, væ, wo, pox on it.
 9. Laughter; as, ha, ha, he.
 10. Silencing; as, au, 'st, pax, silence, hush, 'st.
 11. Calling; as, eho, io, ho, soho, ho, O.
 12. Derision; as, hui, away with.
 13. Attention; as, hem, hah.

NOTE 1. That the same interjection denotes sometimes one passion, and sometimes another; as, vah, which is used to express joy, and sorrow, and wonder, &c.

NOTE 2. That some of them are natural sounds, common to all languages.

NOTE 3. That nouns are used sometimes for interjections; as, malum! with a pox! with a mischief! Infandum! O shame! fy' fy! Miserum! O wretched! Nefas! O the villany!

Interjection is a compendious way of expressing a whole sentence in one word; and used only to represent the passions and emotions of the soul, that the shortness of the one might the sooner express the suddenness and quickness of the other.

CHAP. VIII.

OF CONJUNCTION.

A conjunction is an indeclinable word that joins sentences together; and thereby shows their dependence upon one another.

Of these, some are called,

1. Copulative; as, et, ac, atque, que, and; etiam, quoque, item, also; cum, tum, both, and. Also their contraries, nec, neque, neu, neve, neither, nor.
2. Disjunctive; as, aut, ve, vel, seu, sive, either, or.
3. Concessive; as, etsi, etiamsi, tametsi, licet, quamquam, quamvis, tho', altho', albeit.
4. Adversative; as, sed, verum, tamen, at, ast, atqui, but; tamen, attāmen, veruntāmen, verumēnimvēro, yet, notwithstanding, nevertheless.
5. Causal; as, nam, namque, enim, for; quia, quippe, quoniam, because; quod, that, because.
6. Illative or rational; as, ergo, ideo, igitur, idcirco, itāque, therefore; quapropter, quocirca, wherefore; proinde, therefore; cum, quum, seeing, since; quandoquidem, forasmuch as.
7. Final or perfective; as, ut, uti, that, to the end that.
8. Conditional; as, si, sin, if; dum, modo, dummodo, provided, upon condition that; siquidem, if indeed.
9. Exceptive or restrictive; as, ni, nisi, unless, except.
10. Diminutive; as, saltem, certe, at least.
11. Suspensive or dubitative; as, an, anne, num, whether; ne, annon, whether, not; necne, or not.
12. Expletive; as, autem, vero, now, truly; quidem, equidem, indeed.
13. Ordinate; as, deinde, thereafter; denique, finally; in-super, moreover; cæterum, moreover, but, however.
14. Declarative; as, videlicet, scilicet, nempe, nimirum, &c. to wit, namely.

NOTE 1. That the same words, as they are taken in different views, are both adverbs and conjunctions: as, an, anne, &c. are suspensive conjunctions and interrogative adverbs. The same may be said of the ordinative and declarative conjunctions, which under another view may be ranked under adverbs of order and explaining. So likewise utinam, which is commonly called an adverb of wishing, when more narrowly considered is nothing else but the conjunction uti, [that] with the syllable nam added to it; and volo, [I wish] understood; as, utinam, adfuisse; ut te dux me le perdat; supple opto. But since both of them are indeclinable, there is no great need of being very nice in distinguishing them.

NOTE 2. That other parts of speech compounded together, supply the place of conjunctions; as, postea, afterwards; præterea, moreover; propterea, because, &c. which are made up of the prepositions, post, præter, and propter, with ea, the pronoun.

NOTE 3. That some conjunctions, according to their natural order stand first in a sentence; as, et, aut, neq., si, &c. Some contrary to their natural order, stand in the second place, viz. autem, vero, quoque, quidem, etiam; and some may indifferently be put either first or second, viz. namque, etenim, siquidem, ergo, igitur, itaque, &c. Hence arose the division of them into prepositive, subjunctive, and common.

¶ CHAP. IX.

APPENDIX, containing some observations concerning the various divisions and significations of words, especially noun and verb.

1. All words whatsoever are either simple or compound. A simple word (simplex) is that which was never more than one; as, justus, lego. A compound (compositum) is that which is made up of two or more words, or of a word and some syllabical adjection; as, injustus, perlëgo, derelinquo, egömet.

2. All words whatsoever are either primitive or derivative. A primitive word (primitivum) is that which comes from no other word; as, justus, lego. A derivative (derivativum) is that which comes from another word; as, justitia, lectio.

I. Besides the more general divisions of nouns and pronouns, mentioned p. 5, and p. 26, there are other particular divisions of them, taken from their various significations and derivations: The most remarkable whereof are these:

I. With respect to Signification.

1. A collective (collectivum) is a substantive-noun which signifies many in the singular number; as, populus, a people; exercitus, an army.

2. An interrogative noun or pronoun (interrogativum) is that by which we ask a question; as, quis? who? uter? which of the two? qualis? of what kind? quantus? how great? quot? how many? And these, when they are used without a question are called indefinites.

3. A relative noun or pronoun (relativum) is an adjective that has respect to something spoken before ; as, qui, ille, ipse, &c. Alius, alter, reliquus, cætera, -um, qualis, quantus, &c.

4. A partitive noun or pronoun (partitivum) is an adjective which signifies many severally, and as it were, one by one ; as, omnis, nullus, quisque, &c. or a part of many ; as, quidam, aliquis, neuter, nemo, &c.

5. A numeral noun (numerale) is an adjective which signifies number, of which there are four principal kinds.

- (1.) Cardinal (numerus cardinalis) ; as, unus, duo, tres, &c.
- (2.) Ordinal (ordinalis) ; as, primus, secundus, tertius, &c.
- (3.) Distributive (distributivus) ; as, singuli, bini, terni, &c.
- (4.) Multiplicative (multiplicativus) ; as, simplex, duplex, triplex, &c.

II. With respect to the Signification and Derivation.

1. A patronymic noun (patronymicum) is a substantive-noun derived from another substantive proper, signifying one's pedigree or extraction ; as, Priamides, the son of Priamus ; Priðmis, the daughter of Priamus ; Æetias, the daughter of Æetes ; Nertine, the daughter of Nereus. Patronymics are generally derived from the name of the father, but the poets (for others seldom use them) derive them also from the grandfather, or some other remarkable person of the family ; nay, sometimes from the founder of a nation or people, and also from countries and cities ; as, Æacides, the son, grandson, great grandson, or one of the posterity of Æacus ; Romulidæa, the Romans, from their first king Romulus ; Sicelis, Troas, a woman of Sicily, of Troy, &c. Patronymics of men end in des ; of women in is, as, and ne. Those in des and ne, are of the first, and those in is, and as of the third declension.

2. An abstract noun (abstractum) is a substantive derived from an adjective expressing the quality of the adjective in general, without regard to the thing in which the quality is ; as, bonitas, goodness ; dulcedo, sweetness ; from bonus, good, dulcis, sweet. With respect to these abstracts, the adjectives from which they come are called concretes, because, besides the quality, they also confusedly signify something as the subject of it, without which they cannot make sense.

3. A gentile or patril noun (gentile or patrium) is an adjective derived from a substantive proper, signifying one's country ; as, Scotus, Macædo, Arpinas, Edinburgensis, Taodunanus ; a man born in Scotland, Macedonia, Arpinum, Edinburgh, Dundee ; from Scotia, Macedonia, Arpinum, Edinburgum, Taodunum.

4. A possessive noun (possessivum) is an adjective derived from a substantive, whether proper or appellative, signifying possession or property ; as, Scoticus, Herculeus, paternus, herilis, fæmineus, of or belonging to Scotland, Hercules, a father, a master, a woman ; from Scotia, Hercules, pater, herus, Fœmina

5. A diminutive noun (deminutivum) is a substantive or adjective derived from another substantive or adjective respectively, importing a diminution or lessening of its signification ; as, libellus, a little book ; chartula, a little paper ; opusculum, a little work ; from liber, charta, opus ; parvulus, very little ; candidulus, pretty white ; from parvus, candidus. These for the most part end in lus, la, or lum, and are generally of the same gender with their primitives.

6. A denominative noun (denominativum) is a substantive or adjective derived from another noun ; as, gratia, favour ; vinea, a vineyard ; senātor, a senator ; from gratus, vinum, senex ; cælestis, heavenly ; humānus, humane ; aureus, golden ; from cælum, homo, aurum.

7 A verbal noun (verbale) is a substantive or adjective derived from a verb ; as, amor, love ; doctrina, learning ; lectio, a lesson ; auditus, hearing ; from amo, doceo, lego, audio ; amabilis, lovely ; capax, capable ; volūcer, swift ; from amo, capio, volō.

8. Lastly. There are some nouns derived from participles, adverbs, and prepositions ; as, fictitiū, counterfeit ; crastīnus, belonging to the morrow ; contrariū, contrary ; from fictus, cras, contra.

NOTE. That the same nouns, according to the different respects in which they are considered, may sometimes be ranked under one, and sometimes under another of the above mentioned classes ; as, quis is an interrogative, relative, or participle ; pītas, an abstract, or denominative.

II. Pronouns are divided into four classes, viz.

1. Demonstratives ; Ego, tu, sui.
2. Relatives : ille, ipse, iste, hic, is, quis, qui.
3. Possessives ; meus, tuus, suus, noster, vester.
4. Patrials or gentiles : nostras, vestras, cujas.

Of them also two are interrogatives ; quis, cujas.

III. 1. Verbs, with respect to their figure or frame, are either simple, as, amo, I love; or compound, as, redāmo, I love again.

2. With respect to their species or origin, are either primitive, as, lego, I read; or derivative as, lectīto, I read frequently.

3. With respect to their conjugation, are either regular, as, amo; or irregular, as, volo, vis, &c.

4. With respect to their constituent parts, are either complete, as, amo; or defective, as, inquam; or redundant, as, edo edis, et es, &c.

5. With respect to their persons, are either personal, as amo; or impersonal, as, pœnitēt.

6. With respect to their terminations, they either end in o, as, amo; or in r, as, amor; or in m, as, sum.

7. With respect to their signification, verbs are either substantive or adjective.

(1.) A substantive-verb (substantivum) is that which signifies simply the affirmation of being or existence; as, sum, fio, existo, I am.

(2.) An adjective-verb (adjectivum) is that which together with the signification of being, has a particular signification of its own; as, amo; i. e. sum amans, I am loving.

An adjective-verb is divided into active, passive, and neuter.

(1.) An active verb (active) is that which affirms action of its person or nominative before it: as, amo, loquor, curro.

(2.) A passive verb (passivum) is that which affirms passion of its person or nominative before it; as, amor.

(3.) A neuter verb (neutrum) is that which affirms neither action nor passion of its nominative; but simply signifies the state, posture, or quality of things; as, sto, sedeo, maneo, duro, vireo, flavio, sapio, quiesco, &c. to stand, sit, stay, endure, to be green, to be yellow, to be wise, to rest.

An active verb is again divided into transitive and intransitive.

(1.) An active transitive verb (transitivum) is that whose action passeth from the agent to some other thing; as, amo patrem.

(2.) An active intransitive verb (intransitivum) is that whose action passeth not from the agent to any other; as, curro, I run; ambulo, I walk.

When to any verb you put the question whom? or what? if a rational answer can be returned, the verb is transitive; as, whom, or what do you teach? Answer, a boy, the grammar. If not, it is intransitive; as, what do you run, go, come, live, sleep. &c. to which no rational answer can be given, unless it be by a word of like signification, which sometimes indeed these verbs have after them ; as, vive vitam jecunaam, I live a pleasant life ; eo, iter longum, I go a long journey.

NOTE 1. That the same verb is sometimes transitive, and sometimes intransitive ; as, ver incipit, the spring begins. Cjc. Incipere facinus, to begin an action. Plaut.

NOTE 2. That neuter and intransitive verbs are often Englished with the sign of the passive verb ; as, caleo, I am hot ; palleo, I am pale ; Jacobus abiit, James is gone.

NOTE 3. That neuter and intransitive verbs want the passive voice, unless impersonally used, as the intransitive verbs most frequently and elegantly are ; as, pugnatur, iter ventum est.

Though all verbs whatsoever, with respect to their signification, belong to some one or other of the foregoing classes, yet because grammarians, together with the signification of verbs, are obliged also to consider their terminations, and finding that all active verbs did not end in o, neither all passives in or, it was judged convenient to add to the former two or three other classes or kinds of them, viz. deponent, common, and neuter-passive.

(1) A deponent verb [deponens] is that which has a passive termination, but an active or neuter signification ; as, loquor, I speak ; morior, I die.

(2) A common verb [commune] is that which under a passive termination has a signification either active or passive ; as, crimino, I accuse, or I am accused ; dignor, I think, or I am thought worthy.

(3) A neuter-passive, [neutro-passivum] is that which is half active and half passive in its termination, but in its signification is either wholly passive, as, fo, factus sum, to be made ; or wholly active neuter, as, audeo, ausus sum, to dare ; gaudeo, gavisus sum, to rejoice.

8 To omit the other kinds of derivative verbs, which are not very material, there are three kinds of them derived from verbs which deserve to be remarked, viz. frequentatives, inceptives, and desideratives.

(1.) Frequentatives (verba frequentativa) signify frequency of action. They are formed from the last supine, by changing atu into ito from verbs of the first, and u into o from verbs of the other three conjugations. They are all of the first ; as, clamito, to cry frequently, from clamo ; dormito, to sleep often, from dormio. From them also are formed other frequentatives ; as, curro, curso, cursito ; jacio, jacto, jactito ; pello, pulso, pulsito, and pulto.

(2.) Inceptives (verba inceptiva) signify that a thing is begun and tending to perfection. They are formed from the second person sing. pres. indic. by adding eo. They are all of the third conjugation, and want both preterite and supine ; as, caleo, caleo, calesco, I grow or wax warm.

(8.) Desideratives (verba desiderativa) signify a desire of action. They are formed from the last supine by adding rio. They are all of the fourth conjugation, and generally want both preterite and supine; as, cenaturio, I desire to sup; esurio, I am hungry, or I desire to eat.

9. Lastly, In construction, verbs receive names from their more particular signification; as, vocative verbs, or verbs of naming, verbs of remembering, of want, of teaching, of accusing, &c.

In the preceding division of verbs, with respect to their signification, I have receded a little from the common method; and in particular I have given a different account of neuter verbs from that commonly received by grammarians, who comprise under them all intransitive verbs, though their significations be ever so much active. But this I did partly from the reason of the name, which imports a negation both of action and passion, and partly to give a distinct view of the signification of verbs, without regard to their terminations, which in that respect are purely accidental and arbitrary.

I have also excluded from the divisions of verbs those called neutral passives [Lat. neutra passiva] because originally they are active verbs; for the primary signification of vapulo is perco or ploro; of exulo, extra solum eo; of venio, venum eo; of nubo, velo. Liceo indeed is a very singular verb, for in the active voice it signifies passively, and in the passive, actively.

PARS TERTIA.

De Sententiis sive Oratione.

SENTENTIA est quævis animi cogitatio, duabus aut pluribus vocibus simul junctis enunciata; ut, tu legis; tu legis libros; tu legis libros bonos; tu legis libros bonos domi (a).

PART THIRD.

Of Sentences or Speech.

A SENTENCE is any thought of the mind expressed by two or more words put together; as, you read; you read books; you read good books; you read good books at home

(a) We have now arrived at the principal part of grammar; for the great end of speech being to convey our thoughts unto others, it will be of little use to us to have a stock of words, and to know what changes can be made upon them, unless we can also apply them to practice, and

CAP. I.

CHAP. I.

De Syntaxi vel Constructione.

SYNTAXIS est recta vocum in oratione compositio.

Ejus partes sunt duæ, con- cordantia et regimen (b).

Concordantia est quando una dictio concordat cum altera in quibusdam accidentibus.

Regimen est quando dictio regit certum casum.

Of Syntax or Construction.

SYNTAX is the right ordering of words in speech.

Its parts are two, concord and government.

Concord is when one word agrees with another in some accidents.

Government is when a word governs a certain case.

I. DE CONCORDANTIA.

CONCORDANTIA est qua-druplex.

1. Adjectivi cum substan-
tivo.

2. Verbi cum nominativo.

3. Relativi cum antecedente.

4. Substantivi cum substantivo.

I. OF CONCORD.

CONCORD is fourfold.

1. Of an adjective with a substantive.

2. Of a verb with a nominative.

3. Of a relative with an antecedent.

4. Of a substantive with a substantive.

make them answer the great purposes for which they are intended. To the attainment of this end there are two things absolutely necessary, viz. 1. That in speech we dispose and frame our words, according to the laws and rules established among those whose language we speak. 2. That in like manner we know what is spoken or written, and be able to explain it in due order, and resolve it into the several parts of which it is made up. The first of these is called syntax or construction, and the second is named exposition or resolution. The first shows us how to speak the language ourselves, and the second how to understand it when spoken by others.—But it must be owned, that there is such a necessary connection between them, that he who is master of the first cannot be ignorant of the second.

(b) Note 1. That the difference between concord and government consists chiefly in this,—that in concord there can no change be made in the accidents, that is, gender, case, number, or person of the one, but the like change must also be made in the other: But in government, the first word (if declinable) may be changed, without any change in the second. In concord, the first word may be called the word directing, and the second the word directed: In government the first is called the word governing, and the second the word governed.

REGULA I.

- 1 ADJECTIVUM concordat cum substantivo in genere, numero, et casu; ut,
 * Vir † bonus.
 * Fœmina † casta.
 † Dulce * pomum.

REG. II.

- 1 VERBUM concordat cum nominativo ante se in numero et persona; ut,
 * Ego † lego.
 * Tu † scribis.
 * Præceptor † docet.

RULE I.

An adjective agrees with a substantive in gender, number, and case; as,
 A good man.
 A chaste woman.
 A sweet apple

RULE II.

A VERB agrees with the nominative before it in number and person; as,
 I read.
 You write.
 The master teacheth.

ANNOTATIONES.

- 3 1. VERBA substantiva, vocandi et gestus habent utrinque nominativum ad eandem rem pertinentem; ut,

1. SUBSTANTIVE verbs, verbs of naming and gesture have a nominative both before and after them, belonging to the same thing; as,

NOTE 2. That for the greater ease both of master and scholar, we have noted those words wherein the force of each example lieth, with the marks () and (†); the word directing or governing with (), and the word directed or governed with (†); or where there are two words directing or governing, the first with (*), and the second with (); and where two words directed or governed, the first with (†), and the second with (††).

Number 1. NOTE 1. That the way to find out the substantive is to ask the question who or what? to the adjective; for that which answers to it is the substantive. And the same question put to the verb or relative, discovers the nominative or antecedent.

NOTE 2. That another adjective sometimes supplies the place of a substantive; as, amicus certus, a sure friend: bona ferina, good venison. Homo being understood to amicus, and caro to ferina.

NOTE 3. That the substantive thing (negotium) is most frequently understood; and then the adjective is always put in the neuter gender, as if it were a substantive; as, triste, (supple negotium) i. e. res tristis, a sad thing, bona, (supple negotia) i. e. res bonæ, good things.

Num. 2. NOTE. That the infinitive mood frequently supplies the place of the nominative; as, mentiri non est meum, to lie is not mine (or my property).

Num. 3. (1.) Substantive-verbs are sum, fo, forem, and existo.

(2.) Verbs of naming are these passives, appellor, dicor, vocor, nominor, † Ego * sum † discipulus.

 † Tu * vocaris † Joannes.
 † Illa * incedit † regina.

I am a scholar.
 You are named John.
 She walks [as] a queen.

2. ¶ EXCEP. Infinitivus modus accusativum ante se ha-et; ut,
 Gaudeo * te † valere.

2. ¶ EXCEP. The infinitive mood has an accusative before it; as,
 I am glad that you are well.

3. ¶ Esse habet eundem casum post se quem ante se; ut,

3. ¶ Esse hath the same case after it that it hath before it; as,

† Petrus cupit * esse † vir doctus.

Peter desires to be a learned man.

Scio † Petrum * esse † virum doctum.

I know that Peter is a learned man.

† Mihi † negligenti * esse non licet.

I am not allowed to be negligent.

uncupor; to which add, videor, existimor, creor, constituor, salutor, designor, &c.

(3.) Verbs of gesture are, eo, incedo, venio, cubo, sto, sedeo, evado, fugio, dormio, somnio, maneo, &c.

NOTE. That any verb may have after it the nominative, when it belongs to the same thing with the nominative before it; as, audivi hoc puer, I heard being (or when I was) a boy; defendi rempublicam adolescens, non deservim senex, I defended the commonwealth (when I was) a young man, I will not desert it (now that I am) old. Cic.

Num. 4. NOTE. That when the particle that (in Lat. quod or ut) comes between two verbs, it is elegantly left out, by turning the nominative case into the accusative, and the verb into the infinitive mood; as, aiunt regem inventare, they say (that) the king is coming; rather than aiunt quod rex inventat; turpe est eos, qui bene nati sunt, turpiter vivere, it is a shameful thing, that they who are well born, should live basely; rather than, ut is turpiter vivat. See p. 53.

Num. 5. NOTE 1. That we frequently say, licet nobis esse bonos, we may be good; tibi expedit esse sedulum, it is expedient for you to be diligent; mihi unquam nocuit fuisse pium, it never hurted any man that he hath been pious: But then the accusative, nos, te, illum, &c. is understood; thus, licet nobis (nos) esse bonos, &c.

NOTE 2. That if esse, and the other infinitives of substantive-verbs, verbs of naming, &c. have no accusative or dative before them, the word that follows (whether substantive or adjective) is to be put in the nominative; as, videtur esse vir, he is said to be a man; non videtur esse facturus, he seems not about to do it; nemo debet dici beatus ante suum obitum, no man should be called happy before his death.

REG. III.

RULE III.

- 6 *RELATIVUM qui, quæ, quod, concordat cum antecedente in genere et numero; ut,
 *Vir sapit †qui pauca loquitur.

THE relative, qui, quæ, quod, agrees with the antecedent in gender and number; as,

He is a wise man who speaks little.

- 7 1. Si nullus interveniat nominativus inter relativum et verbum, relativum erit verbo nominativus; ut, Præceptor *qui †docet.

1. If no nominative come between the relative and the verb, the relative shall be the nominative to the verb; as,
 The master who teacheth.

- 8 2. At si interveniat nominativus inter relativum et verbum, relativum erit ejus casus quem verbum aut nomen sequens, vel præpositio præcedens regere solent; ut,
 Deus †quem *colimus.
 †Cujus *munere vivimus.
 †Cui nullus est *similis.
 *A †quo facta sunt omnia.

2. But if a nominative come between the relative and the verb, the relative shall be of that case, which the verb or noun following, or the preposition going before use to govern; as,
 God whom we worship.
 By whose gift we live.
 To whom there is none like.
 By whom all things were made

ANNOTATIO.

- 9 ¶ Duo vel plura substantiva singularia, conjunctione (et), ¶ Two or more substantives singular coupled together with

Num. 6. Note 1. That the antecedent is a substantive-noun that goes before the relative, and is again understood to the relative—Wherefore it will not be amiss to teach the scholar to supply it every where; thus, Beware of idleness, which (idleness) is an enemy to virtue, cave segnitiam quæ (segnities) est inimica virtuti. Nay Cicero himself, but especially Cæsar, frequently repeats the substantive; as, in oppidum perfugisti, quo in oppido, &c. you fled to a town, in which town, &c. Cic. Diem dicunt, quod die ad ripam Rhodani convenient, they appoint a day, on which day they should meet upon the bank of the river Rhone. Cæs.

NOTE 2. That when the relative respects a whole sentence, it is put in the neuter gender; as, Joannes mortuus est, quod mihi summo dolori est John is dead, which is a great grief to me.

NOTE 3. That the person of the relative is always the same with that of its antecedent; as, ego qui doceo, I who teach. Tu qui discis, you who learn. Lectio quæ docetur, the lesson which is taught.

Num. 9. NOTE 1. That when the substantives are of different genders and signify persons, the adjective or relative plural must agree with the masculine rather than the feminine; as, pater et mater qui sunt mortui, The father and mother who are dead.

, atque, &c.) copulata, hant adjectivum, verbum, vel ativum plurale; ut,
* Petrus et  Joannes † qui

REG. IV.

UNUM substantivum con-dat cum alio, eandem rem nificante, in casu; ut,
* Cicero † orator.
* Urbs † Edinburgum.
* Filius † deliciæ matris suæ (a).

a conjunction (et, ac, atque) &c.) have a verb, adjective, or relative plural; as,
Peter and John who are learned.

RULE IV.

ONE substantive agrees 10 with another, signifying the same thing, in case; as,
- Cicero the orator.
The city of Edinburgh.
A son the darling of his mother.

II. DE REGIMINE.

REGIMEN est triplex.

1. Nominum.
2. Verborum.
3. Vocum indeclinabilium.

II. OF GOVERNMENT.

GOVERNMENT is threefold.

1. Of nouns.
2. Of verbs.
3. Of words indeclinable.

EXCEP. But if the substantives, or any of them, signify things without , the adjective or relative plural, must be put in the neuter gender; as, vitæ, decus, gloria in oculis sita sunt, riches, honour, and glory are set fore your eyes.

NOTE 2. That when two or more nominatives are of different persons, the rb plural must agree with the first person rather than the second, and the cond rather than the third: as, si tu et Tullia valetis, ego et Cicero vale- as, if you and Tullia are well, I and Cicero are well.

NOTE 3. That the adjective or verb frequently agree with the substantive nominative that is nearest them, and are understood to the rest; as, et o in culpa sum et tu, both I and you are in the fault; or, et ego et tu es in lpa. Nihil hic deest nisi carmina, there is nothing here wanting but arms; or, nihil hic nisi carmina desunt. This manner of construction is ost usual, when the different words signify one and the same thing, or uch to the same purpose; as, mens, ratio, et consilium in senibus est, undernding, reason, and prudence is in old men.

NOTE 4. That collective nouns, because they are equivalent to a plural umber, have sometimes the adjective or verb in the plural number; as, us virgis cæsi, a part of them were scourged. Turba ruunt, the crowd sh.

(a.) To these four concords some add a fifth, viz. That of the responre, agreeing with its interrogative in case; as, quis dedit tibi pecuniam?
ater, who gave you money? My father. Quo cares? Libro, what do u want? A book But this ought not to be made a principal rule; for the

ANNOTATIONES

- 12 † 1. Si posterius substantivum adjunctum habeat adjectivum laudis vel vituperii, in genitivo vel ablativo poni potest; ut,

* Vir † summæ † prudentiæ,
v. † summa † prudentia.

* Puer † probæ † indolis,
v. † proba † indole.

1. If the last substantive have an adjective of praise or dispraise joined with it, it may be put in the genitive or ablative; as,

A man of great wisdom

A boy of a good disposition

- 13 † 2. Adjectivum in neutro genere, absque substantivo, regit genitivum; ut,

* Multum † pecuniæ.

* Quid † rei?

2. An adjective in the neuter gender, without a substantive governs the genitive; as,

Much money.

What is the matter?

responsive, or the word that answers the question, does not depend upon the interrogative, but upon the verb or some other word joined with it, which, because spoken immediately before, is generally understood in the answer; thus, quis dedit tibi pecuniam? Pater (dedit mihi pecuniam) Quo cares? (Carec' Iūro.

Num. 11. NOTE 1. That of or 's is the ordinary sign of this genitive.

NOTE 2. That the relative pronouns, ejus, illius, cujus, &c. Englished his, here, its, their, thereof, whereof, whose, have their substantives, generally understood; as, liber ejus, (supple hominis faminae, &c.) his book or her book. Libri eorum (supple hominum, faminarum, &c. their books.

Num. 13. This is more elegant than multa pecunia; quæ res?

NOTE 1. That those adjectives which thus govern the genitive, as if they were substantives, are generally such as signify quantity; as, multum, tantum, quantum, plus, plurimum.

NOTE 2. That plus and quid always govern the genitive, and upon the account are by many thought real substantives.

§ 2. Of adjectives.

RULE I.

VERBAL adjectives or 14 such as signify an affection of the mind, require the genitive; as,

- Desirous of glory.
- Ignorant of fraud
- Mindful of favours.

RULE II.

PARTITIVES and words 15 placed partitively, comparatives, superlatives, interrogatives, and some numerals govern the genitive plural; as,
Some one of the philosophers
The elder of the brothers.
Which of us?
The most learned of the Romans.
One of the Muses.
The eighth of the wise men.

NUM. 14. To this rule belong,

1. Adjectives of desire; as, cupidus, ambitiosus, avarus, studiosus) curiosus.
2. Of knowledge; as, peritus, gnarus, prudens, callidus, providus, doctus, docilis, præcius, præsagus, certus, memor, eruditus, expertus, consultus, &c.
3. Of ignorance; as, ignarus, rudis, imperitus, nescius, inscius, incertus, dubius, anxius, sollicitus, immemor.
4. Of guilt; as, conscius, convictus, manifestus, suspectus, reus.
5. Verbals in ex and as; as, edax, capax, ferax, fugax, tenax, pervicax; And amans, cupiens, appetens, patiens, fugiens, sitiens, negligens, &c.
6. To which may be referred, æmulus, munificus, parcus, prodigus, profusus, securus.

NUM. 15. NOTE 1. That it is easy to know when this rule takes place, by resolving the genitive into inter with the accusative; or de, e, s, with the ablative; as, optimus regum, the best of kings, i. e. optimus inter reges; or de, e, s, regibus.

NOTE 2. That when there are two substantives of different genders, the partitive, &c. rather agrees with the first than the last; as, Indus fluminum, maximus. Cic. Leo animalium fortissimus. Plin. Otherwise it is of the same gender, with the substantive it governs; as, paucas animalium. Unaquæque faminarum.

Profitable for war.

Pernicious to the commonwealth.

Like his father.

Verbals in bilis and dus govern the dative; as,

To be loved of all men.

RULE IV

ADJECTIVES signifying dimension govern the accusative of measure; as,

A pillar sixty feet high.

NOTE 3. That partitives, &c. take the genitive singular of collective nouns, and do not necessarily agree with them in gender; as, præstantissimæ nostræ civitatis. Cic. Nympharum sanguinis una. Virg.

NUM. 16. NOTE 1. That some of these adjectives govern also the genitive; as, amicus, inimicus, socius, vicinus, par, æqualis, similis, dissimilis, proprius, communis, &c.

NOTE 2. That adjectives signifying motion or tendency to a thing, choose rather the accusative with ad, than the dative; such as, proclivis, pronus, propensus, velox, celer, tardus, piger, &c. as,

Est piger ad pœnas princeps, ad præmia velox. Ovid.

NOTE 3. That adjectives signifying fitness or the contrary may have either of them; as, aptus, ineptus bello or ad bellum.

NUM. 17. Of or by is the ordinary sign of this dative.

NOTE. That participles of the preter tense, and passive verbs also, especially among the poets, have frequently the dative instead of the ablative with a or ab; as, nullus eorum mihi visus est, no one of them was seen by me. Non audior ulli, I am not heard by any.

NUM. 18. The adjectives of dimension are—altus, high or deep; crassus or densus, thick; latus, broad; longus, long; profundus, deep. The names of measure are, digitus, an inch; palmus, a hand-breadth; pes, a foot; cubitus, a cubit; ulna, an ell; passus, a pace, &c.

NOTE 1. That verbs signifying dimension likewise have the accusative of measure; as, patet tres ulnas, it is three ells large. Virg.

NOTE 2. That sometimes the word of measure is put in the ablative; as, Cassa sex cubitis alta, duodecim lata. Liv. Venter quæ stat sex stipede.

REG. V.

* COMPARATIVUS regit ablativum, qui resolvitur per quam; ut,

- * Dulcior † melle.
- * Præstantior † auro.

REG. VI.

† HÆC adjectiva, dignus, indignus, contentus, præditus, captus, et fretus: item natus, satus, ortus, editus, et similia,
ablativum petunt; ut,

- * Dignus † honore.
- * Præditus † virtute.
- * Contentus † parvo.
- * Captus † oculis.
- * Fretus † viribus.
- * Ortus † regibus.

REG. VII.

ADJECTIVUM copiæ aut inopiæ regit genitivum vel ablativum; ut,

- * Plenus † iræ vel † ira.
- * Inops † rationis.

RULE V.

THE comparative degree 19 governs the ablative, which is resolved by quam; as,
Sweeter than honey.
Better than gold.

RULE VI.

THESE adjectives, dig- 20
nus, indignus, contentus, præditus, captivus, and fre-
tus: also natus, satus, ortus, editus, and the like, require the ablative; as,
Worthy of honour.
Endued with virtue.
Content with little.
Blind.
Trusting to his strength.
Descended of kings

RULE VII.

AN adjective of plenty or 21 want governs the genitive or ablative; as,
Full of anger.
Void of reason.

Pers. And sometimes, but rarely, in the Genitive; as, nec longiores duode-num pedum. Plin.

Num. 19. Let the following examples be observed and imitated: Multo melior, much better. Nihilo peior, nothing worse. Major solito, greater than usual. Quo diligentior es, eo doctior evades, the more diligent you are, the more learned you will become. Quanto superbior, tanto vilior, the prouder, the less worth. Nihil Virgilio doctius, there is none more learned than Virgil.

Num. 21. NOTE 1. That distentus, gravidus, refertus; and orbis, va-nus, vitius, choose rather the ablative; indigus, compos, impos, the geni-five.

NOTE 2. That some comprehend opus and usus, when they signify necessity, under this rule; as, quid opus est verbis? what need is there of words? Ovid. Nunc viribus usus, now there is need of strength. Virg.
But it is to be remarked that these are substantive-nouns, the very same with opus, operis, a work; usus, usus, use; and have the ablative after them, because of the preposition in, which is understood. Sometimes opus is an adjective indeclinable; as, dux nobis opus est, we stand in need of a leader. It is elegantly joined with the participle perfect; as, consulto.

II. REGIMEN VERBORUM.

§ 1. Personalium.

REG. I.

22 †SUM quoties possessio-nem, proprietatem, aut officii-um significat, regit geniti-vum; ut,

* Est tregis punire re-
belles.

† Insipientis * est dicere,
"non putaram."

† Militum * est suo duci parere.

23 ¶ Excipiuntur hi nominativi, meum, tuum, suum, nostrum, vestrum; ut,

† Tuum * est id procurare.

REG. II.

24 * MISEREOR, miseresco, et satāgo, regunt genitivum;
ut,

* Miserere civium tuorum.

* Satagit fratrum suarum.

REG. III.

25 Est pro habeo regit dativum personæ; ut,

* Est tibi liber.

* Sunt tibi libri.

II. GOVERNMENT OF VERBS

§ 1. Of Personal Verbs.

RULE I.

SUM, when it signifies possession, property, or duty governs the genitive; as,

It belongs to the king to punish rebels.

It is the property of a fool to say, "I had not thought."

It is the duty of soldiers to obey their general.

¶ These nominatives, meum, tuum, suum, nostrum, vestrum,
are excepted; as,

It is your duty to manage that.

RULE II.

MISEREOR, miseresco, and satāgo, govern the genitive; as,

Take pity on your countrymen.

He hath his hands full at home.

RULE III.

EST, taken for habeo, (to have) governs the dative of a person; as,

I have a book.

I have books.

maturato, invento, facto, &c. opus est, we must advise, make haste, find out, do, &c.

Num. 23. To these last may be added possessive nouns; such as, regium, humanum, belluinum, and the like: as, humanum est errare, it is incident to man to err.

NOTE. That to all these is understood, officium, opus, negotium, or some other word to be gathered from the sentence; as, me Pompei totum esse scis, you know that I am wholly Pompey's, or in Pompey's interest.—Cic.
i. e. amicum, fructorem, or the like.

Num. 25. This is more elegant than habeo librum, or habeo libros.

REG. IV.

SUM pro affero regit duos dativos, unum personæ, alterum rei; ut,

* Est † mihi †† voluptati.

REG. V.

VERBUM significans commodum vel incommodum regit dativum; ut,

Fortuna * favet † fortibus.

† Nemini * noceas

RULE IV.

SUM taken for affero (to 26 bring) governs two datives, the one of a person, and the other of a thing; as,

It is (brings) a pleasure to me.

RULE V.

A VERB signifying advantage or disadvantage governs the dative; as,

Fortune favours the brave.

Do hurt to no man.

So desum is used elegantly for careo; as, desunt mihi libri, for careo libris, I want books.

Num. 26. NOTE. That other verbs, such as, do, duco, verto, tribuo, habeo, relinquo, &c. may have two datives; as, hec tibi laudi datur, you are praised for this. Ne mihi vitio vertas, do not blame me.

To this may be referred such expressions as these: est mihi nomen Joannis, my name is John; which is more elegant than, est mihi nomen Joannes or Joannis.

Num. 27. This is a very general rule, and (when we signify a thing to be required to any person or thing) almost common to all verbs. But in a more particular manner are comprehended under it.

- Verbs signifying
1. To profit or hurt; as, commodo, proficio, placeo, consulo, noceo, officio. But lædo, and offendo govern the accusative.
 2. To favour, to help, and their contraries; as, saveo, annuo, arrideo, assentior, adstipulor, gratulor, ignosco, indulgeo, parco, adulor, plaudo, blandior, lenocinor, palpor, studeo, supplico, &c. Also, auxilior, adminiculator, subvenio, succurro, patrocinor, medeor: Also, derogo, detraho, invidéo, &c. But juvo has the accusative.
 3. To command, obey, or resist; as, impero, præcipio, mando; pareo, servio, obedio, obsequor, obtempero, moremgero, morigeror, famulor; pugno, repugno, certo, obsto, reluctor, renitor, resisto, adversor, refragor, &c. But jubeo governs the accusative.
 4. To threaten, or be angry with; as, minor, indignor, irascor, succenseo.
 5. To trust; as, fido, confido, credo.
 6. Verbs compounded with SATIS, BENE, and MALE; as, satisfacio, beneficio, benedico, malefacio, maledico.
 7. SUM, with its compounds; except possum.
 8. Verbs compounded with these TEN PREPOSITIONS; ad, ante, con, in, inter, ob, post, præ, sub, and super; as, 1. Adsto, accumbo, acquiesco, assideo, adhareo, admoveo. 2. Antecello, anteeo, anteverto. 3. Consono, commisceo, condono, commorior. 4. Illudo, immorior, inheréo, insideo, inhiio, innotor, invigilio, incumbo. 5. Interpono, intervenio, intersero. 6. Obrepro, obtrecto, occumbo. 7. Postpono, posthabeo. 8. Præseu, oris

REG. VI.

28 VERBUM active significans regit accusativum; ut,

* Ama † Deum.

* Reverere † parentes.

29 † Recordor, memini, reminiscor, et obliviscor regunt accusativum vel genitivum; ut,

* Recordor † lectionis vel † lectionem.

* Obliviscor † injuriæ vel † injuriam.

VERBA activa alium una cum accusativo casum regentia.

30 § 1. VERBA accusandi, damnandi, et absolvendi, cum accusativo personæ, regunt etiam genitivum criminis; ut,

* Arguit † me †† furti.

† Meipsum †† inertie

* condemno.

† Illum †† homicidii * absolvunt.

RULE VI.

A VERB signifying actively governs the accusative; as,

Love God.

Reverence your parents.

Recordor, memini, reminiscor, and obliviscor govern the accusative or genitive; as,

I remember my lesson

I forget an injury

ACTIVE verbs governing another case together with the accusative.

1. VERBS of accusing, condemning, and acquitting, with the accusative of the person, govern also the genitive of the crime; as,

He accuses me of theft.

I condemn myself of laziness.

They acquit him of manslaughter.

stat for excellit, præluceo. 9. Succedo, submitto, subjicio. 10. Supersto, supervenio.

NOTE 1. That to, the sign of the dative, is frequently understood.

NOTE 2. That to is not always a sign of the dative; for, 1. Verbs of local motion; as, eo, venio, proficiscor: and, 2. These verbs, provoco, voco, invito, hortor, specto, fertineo, attineo, and such like, have the accusative with the preposition ad.

Num. 28. NOTE. That neuter and intransitive verbs have sometimes an accusative after them. 1. Of their own or the like signification; as, vivere vitam, gaudere gaudium, sentire sanguinem, olere hircum. 2. When taken in a metaphorical sense; as, ardebat Alesia, i. e. vehementer amabat.

Num. 30. 1. Verbs of ACCUSING are, accuso, ago, appello, arcesso, arguo, alligo, astringo, defero, incuso, insimulo, postulo, &c.

2. Verbs of CONDEMNING are, damno, condemno, convinco, &c.

3. Verbs of ABSOLVING are, solvo, absolvo, libero, purgo, &c.

NOTE 1. That the genitive may be changed into the ablative, either with or without a preposition; as, purgo te hac culpa, or de hac culpa, I clear you of this fault. Eum de vi condemnavit, he found him guilty of a riot. Cic.

§ 2. Verba comparandi, dandi, narrandi, et auferendi, regunt accusativum cum dativo; ut,

* Compāro † Virgilium †† Homēro.

† Suum †† cuique* tribuito.

* Narras † fabulam †† surdo.

* Eripuit † me †† morti.

§ 3. Verba rogandi et docendi duos admittunt accusativos, priorem personæ, posteriorem rei; ut,

* Posce † Deum †† veniam.

* Docuit † me †† grammaticam.

2. Verbs of comparing, giving, declaring, and taking away, govern the accusative with the dative; as,

I compare Virgil to Homer.

Give every man his due.

You tell a story to a deaf man.

He rescued me from death.

3. Verbs of asking and teaching admit of two accusatives, the first of a person, and the second of a thing; as, Beg pardon of God.

He taught me grammar.

ANNOTATIO.

§ Quorum activa duos casus regunt, eorum passiva posteriorem retinet; ut,

The passives of such active verbs as govern two cases, do still retain the last of them; as,

NOTE 2. That the genitive, properly speaking, is governed by some ablative understood, such as, crimine, pœna, actione, causa; as, accusare furti, i. e. crimine furti. Condemnare capitis, i. e. pœna capitis.

NOTE 3. That crimine, pœna, actione, capite, morte, scarcely admit of a preposition.

Num. 31. 1. To verbs of comparing belong also verbs of preferring or postponing.

2. To verbs of giving belong verbs of receiving, promising, paying, sending, bringing.

3. To verbs of declaring belong verbs of explaining, showing, denying &c.

4. Verbs of taking away are, aufero, adimo, eripio, eximo, demo, surripio, detraho, tollo, excutio, extorqueo, arceo, defendo, &c.

NOTE 1. That many of these verbs govern the dative by Num. 27.

NOTE 2. That innumerable other verbs may have the accusative with the dative, when together with the thing done is also signified the person or thing, to or for, whom it is done; as, doce mihi filium, teach me my son. Cura mihi hanc rem, take care of this affair for me.

NOTE 3. That comparo, conféro, compono, have frequently the ablative with cum.

Num. 32. NOTE 1. That among the verbs that govern two accusatives, are also reckoned the following:

1. Celo; as, cela hanc rem uxorem, conceal this from your wife. Plant. But we can say also, celo te de hac re and, celo tibi hanc rem.

- * Accusor † furti.
 Virgilius * comparatur † Homēro.
 * Doceor † grammaticam.

I am accused of theft.
 Virgil is compared to Homer
 I am taught grammar.

REG. VII.

RULE VII.

34 § PRETIUM rei a quovis verbo in ablativo regitur; ut,

THE price of a thing is governed in the ablativē by any verb; as,

* Emi librum † duobus assibus.

I bought a book for two shillings.

* Vendidit hic † auro patriam.

This man sold his country for gold.

Demoathenes * docuit † talento.

Demosthenes taught for a talent.

35 † Excipiuntur hi genitivi, tanti, quanti, pluris, minōris; ut,

These genitives, TANTI, QUANTI, PLURIS, MINŌRIS, are excepted; as, † Quanti * constitit?

 Asse et † pluris.

How much cost it?
 A shilling and more.

36 * Verba æstimandi regunt hujusmodi genitivos, magni, parvi, nihili, &c. ut,
 * Æstimo te † magni.

Verbs of valuing govern such genitives as these, magni, parvi, nihili, &c. ut,
 I value you much.

2. Verbs of clothing; as, induit se calceos, he puts on his shoes. But these have more commonly the ablative of the thing without a preposition; as, vestit se purpura, he clothes himself with purple. Induo and exuo have frequently the person in the dative, and the thing in the accusative; as, thoracem sibi induit, he put on his breast-plate.

3. Moneo; as, id unum te moneo, I put you in mind of this one thing. But unless it is some general word, (as, hoc, illud, id, &c.) moneo, admoneo, commonefacio, have either the genitive, as, admoneo te officii, I put you in mind of your duty: Or the ablative with de; as, de hac re te sapius admonui, I have frequently warned you of this.

NOTE 2. That verbs of asking often change the accusative of the person into an ablative with the preposition; as, oro, exoro, pelo, postulo hoc a te, I entreat this of you: Some always; as, contendo, quæro, scitor, sciscitor hæc a te. Finally, some have the accusative of the person and the ablative of the thing with de; as, interrogo, consulo, percontor, te de hac re.

Num. 35. NOTE. That if the substantive be expressed they are put in the ablative; as, quanto pretio? minore mercede.

Num. 36. 1. Verbs of valuing are, ÆSTIMO, PENDO, FACIO, HABEO, DUCO, PUTO, TAXO.

2. The rest of the genitives are, minoris, minimi, tanti, quanti, pluris, majoris, plurimi, maximi, nauci, floci, pili, assis, teruncii, hujus: Also æqui and boni after facio and consulo.

REG. VIII.

† VERBA copiae et inopiae plenaeque ablativum regunt; ut,

* Abundat † divitiis.

* Caret omni † culpa.

† Utor, abutor, fruor, fungor, potior, vescor, regunt ablativum; ut,

* Utitur † fraude.

Abutitur † libris.

§ 2. Regimen Verborum Impersonalium.

REG. IX.

VERBUM impersonale regit dativum; ut,

* Expedit † reipublicae.

* Licet † nemini peccare.

† EXCEP. 1. Refert et interest genitivum postulant; ut,

* Refert † patris.

* Interest † omnium.

RULE VIII.

VERBS of plenty and scarceness for the most part govern the ablative; as,

He abounds in riches.

He has no fault.

Utor, abutor, fruor, fungor, potior, vescor, govern the ablative; as,

He uses deceit.

He abuses books.

§ 2. The government of Impersonal Verbs.

RULE IX.

AN impersonal verb governs the dative; as,

It is profitable for the state.

No man is allowed to sin.

EXCEP. 1. Refert and interest require the genitive; as,

It concerns my father.

It is the interest of all.

NOTE. 1. That we say also, estimo magno, parvo, supple pretio.

NOTE 2. That Alvarus excludes majoris as wanting authority. But there is an example of it to be found in Phaedrus, II. 5. 35.

Multo majoris alape mecum veneunt.

NUM. 37. Sometimes they have the genitive; as, eget aris, he wants money. Hor. Implentur veteris Bacchi, they are filled with old wine. Virg.

NOTE. That verbs of loading and unloading, and the like, belong to this rule; as, navis oneratur mercibus, the ship is loaded with goods. Levabo te hoc onere. I will ease you of this burden. Liberavit nos metu, he delivered us from fear.

NUM. 38. To these verbs add, nitor, gaudeo, muto, dono, munero, communico, victito, beo, fido, impertior, dignor, nascor, creor, afficio, consto, prosequor, &c.

NOTE. That potior sometimes governs the genitive; as, potiri hostium, to get his enemies into his power. Potiri rerum, to have the chief rule.

NUM. 39. Such as these, accidit, contingit, evenit, conducit, expedit, lubet, libet, licet, placet, displicet, vacat, restat, praestat, liquet, nocet, dolet, sufficit, &c. Together with the dative, they have commonly an infinitive after them, which is supposed to supply the place of a nominative before them.

- 41 † At mea, tua, sua, nostra, vestra, ponuntur in accusativo plurali; ut, Non † mea *refert.

But mea, tua, sua, nos a vestra, are put in the accusative plural; as,
I am not concerned.

- 42 † EXCEP. 2. Hæc quinque, MISERET, PŒNITET PUDET, TÆDET, et PIGET, regunt accusativum personæ, cum genitivo rei; ut,
* Misēret † me † tui.
* Pœnitēt † me † peccati.
* Tædet † me † vitæ.

EXCEP. 2. These five, miseret, pœnitet, pudet, tædet, and piget, govern the accusative of a person with the genitive of a thing; as,
I pity you.
I repent of my sin.
I am weary of my life.

- 43 † EXCEP. 3. Hæc quatuor, DECEt, DELECTAT, JUVAT, OPORTET, regunt accusativum personæ cum infinitivo; ut,
* Delectat † me † studēre.
Non *deceat † te † rixari.

EXCEP. 3. These four, de- cet, delectat, juvat, oportet, govern the accusative of the person with the infinitive; as,
I delight to study.
It does not become you to scold.

§ 3. Regimen Infinitivi, Participiorum, Gerundiorum, et Supinorum.

§ 3. The Government of the Infinitive, Participles, Gerunds, and Supines.

REG. X.

RULE X.

- 44 UNAM verbum regit aliud in infinitivo; ut,
* Cupio † discēre.

ONE verb governs another in the infinitive; as,
I desire to learn.

REG. XI.

RULE XI.

- 45 PARTICIPIA, gerundia, et supina, regunt casum suorum verborum; ut,
* Amans † virtūtem.
* Carens † fraude.

PARTICIPLES, gerunds, and supines, govern the case of their own verbs; as,
Loving virtue.
Wanting guile.

Num. 42. NOTE. That this genitive is frequently turned into the infinitive; as, pœnitēt me peccasse; tædet me vivere; and so they fall in with the following rule.

Num. 43. NOTE. That oportet is elegantly joined with the subjunctive mood, ut being understood; as, oportet facias, (you must do it) for oportet te facere.

Attinet, pertinet, and spectat, when used impersonally (which rarely happens) have the accusative with ad, as was observed above, p. 103.

Num. 44. Sometimes it is governed by adj. as, cupidus et cupiens discere

Gerundia.

1. Gerundium in -dum nominativi casus cum verbo est regit dativum ; ut,

* Vivendum est † mihi recte.

* Moriendum est † omnibus.

2. Gerundium in -di regitur a substantivis vel adjectivis ; ut,

* Tempus † legendi.

* Cupidus † discendi.

3. Gerundium in -do dativi casus regitur ab adjectivis utilitatem vel aptitudinem, significantibus ; ut, Charta *utilis † scribendo.

4. Gerundium in -dum accusativi casus regitur a prepositionibus ad vel inter ; ut, Promptus *ad † audiendum.

Attentus *inter † docendum.

5. Gerundium in -do ablativi casus regitur a prepositionibus, a, ab, de, e, ex, vel in ; ut, Pœna *a † peccando absterret.

Gerunds

1. The gerund in -dum of 46 the nominative case, with the verb est governs the dative ;

as, I must live well.

All must die.

2. The gerund in -di is governed by substantives or adjectives ; as,

Time of reading.

Desirous to learn.

3. The gerund in -do of 48 the dative case is governed by adjectives signifying usefulness or fitness ; as,

Paper useful for writing

4. The gerund in -dum of 49 the accusative case is governed by the prepositions ad or inter ; as,

Ready to hear.

Attentive in time of teaching

5. The gerund in -do of 50 the ablative case is governed by the prepositions, a, ab, de, e, ex, or in ; as,

Punishment frightens from sinning.

NOTE. That the verb cœpit or cœperunt is sometimes understood ; as omnes mihi invidere, (supple cœperunt.) they all began to envy me.

NUM. 46. This dative is frequently understood ; as, cundum est, (supple nobis.) we must go.

NOTE. That this gerund always imports necessity, and the dative after it is the person on whom the necessity lies.

NUM. 47. 1. The substantives are such as these ; amor, causa, gratia, studium, tempus, occasio, ars, otium, voluntas, cupido, &c.

2. The adjectives are generally verbals, mentioned NUM. 14.

NUM. 48. The adjective of fitness is often understood ; as, non est solvendo, he is not able to pay (supple aptus or par.)

NOTE. That sometimes this gerund is governed by a verb ; as, Epidicum quærendo operam dabo, I'll endeavour to find out Epidicus. Plaut.

NUM. 49. NOTE 1. That it hath sometimes, but very rarely, the prepositions ob and ante ; as, ob absolvendum munus, for finishing your task. Cic. Ante domandum, before they are tamed or broken, Virg. speaking of horses.

- 51 † Vel sine præpositione, ut, ablativus modi vel causæ; ut,

Memoria † excolendo * augetur.

* Defessus sum † ambulando.

- 52 6. Gerundia accusativum regentia vertuntur eleganter in participia in dus, quæ cum suis substantivis in genere, numero, et casu concordant; ut,

Petendum est pacem.

Tempus petendi pacem.

Ad petendum pacem.

A petendo pacem.

Supina.

- 53 † 1. Supinum in um ponitur post verbum motus; ut, Abiit † deambulatum.

Or without a preposition as the ablative of manner or cause; as,

The memory is improved by exercising it.

I am wearied with walking.

6. Gerunds governing the accusative are elegantly turned into the participles in dus, which agree with their substantives in gender, number, and case; as,

Petenda est pax.

Tempus petendæ pacis

Ad petendam pacem

A petenda pace.

Supines.

1. The supine in um is put after a verb of motion; as,
He hath gone to walk.

NOTE 2. That what was the gerund in dum of the nominative with the verb est, fuit, &c. becomes the accusative with esse; as, omnibus moriendum esse novimus, we know that all must die.

Num. 52. Add to these the gerunds of fungor, fruo, and potior.

These participles in dus are commonly called gerundives.

NOTE 1. That the substantive must always be of the same case that the gerund was of.

NOTE 2. That because of its noisy sound, the gerund in di is seldom changed into the genitive plural; but either the accusative is retained; as, studio patres vestros videndi, rather than patrum vestrorum videndorum; or it is turned into the genitive plural without changing the gerund; as, patrum vestrorum videndi studio. Thus Valla and Farnabius; but see my Gram. Maj. vol. 2. p. 276.

Num. 53. The supine in um is elegantly used with the verb eo when we signify that one sets himself about the doing of a thing; as, in mea vita tu laudem quasitum † are you going to advance your reputation at the hazard of my life? Ter. And this is the reason why this supine with iri taken impersonally supplies the place of the future of the infinitive passive.

SOME GENERAL REMARKS ON THE CONSTRUCTION OF PARTICIPLES, GERUNDS, AND SUPINES.

NOTE 1. That participles, gerunds, and supines have a two-fold construction; one, as they partake of the nature of verbs, by which they govern a certain case after them; another as they partake of the nature of nouns, and consequently are subject to the same rules with them; thus

1. A participle is always an adjective agreeing with its substantive by Num.

†2. Supinum in u ponitur post nomen-adjectivum; ut,
* Facile † dictu.

§ 4. Constructio Circumstantiarum.

1. Causa, Modus, et Instrumentum.

REG. XII.

† CAUSA, modus, et instrumentum ponuntur in ablativo; ut,

* Palleo † metu.

* Fecit † suo more.

* Scribo † calamo.

2. The supine in u is put 54 after an adjective-noun; as,
Easy to tell or to be told.

§ 4. The Construction of Circumstances. (a).

1. The Cause, Manner, and Instrument.

RULE XII.

THE cause, manner, and 55 instrument are put in the ablativo; as,

I am pale for fear.

He did it after his own way

I write with a pen.

2. A gerund is a substantive, and construed as follows. (1.) That in dum of the nominative, by Num. 2. Of the accusative by Num. 68. (2.) That in di, by Num. 11 or 14. (3.) That in de of the dative, by Num. 16. Of the ablativo, by Num. 69, 71, or 55.

3. A supine is also a substantive. (1.) That in um governed by ad understood, by Num. 68. (2.) That in u governed by in understood, by Num. 71.

NOTE 2. That the present of the infinitive active, the first supine, and the gerund in dum, with the preposition ad, are thus distinguished:—The supine is used after verbs of motion; the infinitive after any other verbs; the gerund in dum with ad after adjective-nouns. But these last are frequently to be met with after verbs of motion; and poets use also the infinitive after adjectives.

NOTE 3. That the present of the infinitive passive, and the last supine are thus distinguished: The supine hath always an adjective before it; while the infinitive hath not, unless (as I said) among poets.

Num. 55. NOTE 1. That the cause is known by the question cur? or quare? why? wherefore? &c. The manner by the question quomodo? how? And the instrument by the question quocum? wherewith?

(a) Adjective-nouns, but especially verbs, have frequently some circumstances going along with them in discourse; the most considerable whereof, with respect to construction, are these five: 1. The cause or reason why any thing is done. 2. The way or manner how it is done. 3. The instrument or thing wherewith it is done. 4. The place where. 5. The time when it is done.

NOTE 2. That the preposition is frequently expressed with the cause and manner; as, pro gaudio, for joy. Propter amorem, for love. Ob culpam, for a fault. Cum summo labore, with great labour. Per dedecus, with disgrace. But the preposition (cum) is never added to the instrument; for we cannot say, scribo cum calamo; cum oculis vidi.

NOTE 3. That here we must carefully distinguish between the instrument and what is called ablativus comitatus, or ablativo of concomitancy; i. e. signifying that something was in company with another; for then

2. Locus.

REG. XIII.

56 † 1. NOMEN oppidi ponitur in genitivo, cum questio fit per ubi; ut,

* Vixit † Romæ.

* Mortuus est † Londīni.

57 † EXCEP. Si vero sit tertiæ declinationis, aut plurælis numeri, in ablativo effertur; ut,

* Habitat † Carthaginæ.

* Studuit † Parisiis.

58 § 2. Cum questio fit per quo, nomen oppidi in accusativo regitur; ut,

* Venit † Edinburgum.

* Profectus est † Athēnas.

59 † 3. Si queratur per unde vel qua, nomen oppidi ponitur in ablativo; ut,

* Discessit † Aberdonia.

* Laodicæa iter † faciebat.

2. Place

RULE XIII.

THE name of a town is put in the genitive, when the question is made by ubi (where); as,

He lived at Rome.

He died at London.

EXCEP. But if it be of the third declension, or of the plural number, it is expressed in the ablative; as,

He dwells at Carthage.

He studied at Paris.

2. When the question is made by quo (whither), the name of a town is governed in the accusative; as,

He came to Edinburgh.

He went to Athens.

3. If the question be made by unde (whence), or qua (by or through what place), the name of a town is put in the ablative; as,

He went from Aberdeen.

He went through Laodicea.

the preposition (cum) is generally expressed; as, ingressus est cum gladio, he entered with a sword; i. e. having a sword with him or about him.

NOTE 4. That to cause some refer the matter of which any thing is made; as, clypeus ære fabricatus, a shield made of brass. But (except with the poets) the preposition is for the most part expressed.

NOTE 5. That to manner some refer the adjunct, i. e. something joined to another thing; as, terra amœna floribus, a land pleasant with flowers. Mons nive candidus, a hill white with snow.

NOTE 6. That to instrument some refer, conficior, dolore, inedia, &c. Prosequor odio, amore, &c. Afficio te honore, cantumelia, &c. Laccio verbis asperis, &c.

Num. 56, &c. NOTE 1. That the preposition is frequently added to names of towns (especially when the question is quo? unde? or qua?) and sometimes omitted to names of countries, provinces, &c.

† These rules concerning names of towns, may be thus expressed:

The name of a town after { ^{IN or AT} TO or UNTO } is put { ^{Genitive or Ablative.} Accusative. ^{Ablative.} }
 { ^{FROM or THROUGH} } in the

† i. e. When it is of the third declension, or the plural number. But

† 4. Domus et rus eodem modo quo oppidorum nomina construuntur; ut, 4. Domus and rus are 60 construed the same way as names of towns; as,

Manet domi, he stays at home. Domum revertitur, he returns home. Domo accersitus sum, I am called from home. Vivit rure or ruri, he lives in the country. Abiit rus, he is gone to the country. Rediit rure, he is returned from the country.

5. Nominibus regionum, provinciarum et aliorum locorum, non dictis, præpositio fere additur; ut, 5. To names of countries, 61 provinces, and other places, not mentioned, the preposition is generally added; as,

UBI? Natus in Scotia, in Fisa, in urbe, &c.

QUO? Abiit in Scotiam, in Fisam, in (vel ad) urbem, &c.

UNDE? Rediit e Scotia, e Fisa, ex urbe, &c.

QUA? Transit per Scotiam, per Fisam, per urbem, &c.

ANNOTATIO.

† Distantia unius loci ab alio ponitur in accusativo, interdum et in ablativo; ut, Glasgva *distat Edinburgo triginta † millia passuum.

† Iter v. itinere unius diei.

The distance of one place 62 from another is put in the accusative, and sometimes in the ablative; as,

Glasgow is thirty miles distant from Edinburgh.

One day's journey

3. *Tempus.*3. Time.

REG. XIV.

RULE XIV.

† 1. TEMPUS ponitur in ablativo, cum quæstio fit per quando; ut,

* Venit † hora tertia.

1. TIME is put in the ab- 63 lative, when the question is made by quando (when); as, He came at three o'clock.

when at signifies about or near a place, we make use of the preposition ad, as, bellum quod ad Trojam gesserat. Virg.

NOTE 2. That humi, militia, and belli are also used in the genitive, when the question is made by ubi? as, procumbit humi, he lies down on the ground Domi militiaque una fuimus, we were together both at home and abroad, or, in peace and war. Ter. Belli domique agitabatur, was managed both in peace and war. Sal.

NOTE 3. That when the name of a town is put in the genitive in urbe is understood, and therefore we cannot say, natus est Romæ urbis nobilis, but urbe nobili.

NUM. 63 and 64. These two rules may be thus expressed 64 ‡ 2. Cum questio fit per quamdiu, tempus ponitur in accusativo vel ablativo, sed sæpius in accusativo; ut,

* Mansit paucos † dies.
Sex † mensibus * absuit.

De Ablativo Absoluto.

REG. XV.

65 ‡ SUBSTANTIVUM cum participio, quorum casus a nulla alia dictione pendet, ponuntur in ablativo absoluto; ut,

* Sole † oriente fugiunt tenebræ.
* Opere † peracto, ludemus.

III. CONSTRUCTIO VOCUM INDECLINABILIIUM.

1. Adverbiorum.

66 ‡ 1. ADVERBIA junguntur verbis, participiis, nominibus, et aliis adverbis; ut, Bene scribit.

2. When the question is made by quamdiu (how long), time is put in the accusative or ablative, but oftener in the accusative; as,

He staid a few days.
He was away six months.

Of the Ablative Absolute.

RULE XV.

A SUBSTANTIVE with a participle, whose case depends upon no other word, are put in the ablative absolute; as,

The sun rising (or whilst the sun rises) darkness flies away.
Our work being finished (or when our work is finished) we will play.

III. THE CONSTRUCTION OF WORDS INDECLINABLE

1. Of Adverbs.

1. ADVERBS are joined to verbs, participles, nouns, and other adverbs; as,
He writes well.

1. Nouns that denote a precise term of time are put in the ablative.

2. Nouns that denote continuance of time are put in the accus. or abla.

Num. 65. NOTE 1. This ablative is called absolute or independent, because it is not directed or determined by any other word; for if the substantive (which is principally to be regarded) have a word before that should govern it, or a verb following after, to which it should be a nominative then the rule does not take place.

NOTE 2. That having, being, or a word ending in ing, are the ordinary signs of this ablative.

NOTE 3. That (to prevent our mistaking the true substantive) when a participle perfect is Englished by having, we are carefully to advert whether it be passive or deponent. If it be passive, we are to change it into being, its true English. If it be deponent, there needs no change, for having is the proper English of it. The use of this note will appear by the following example.

Fortiter pugnans.

Servus egregie fidelis.

Satis bene.

† 2. Adverbia quædam temporis, loci, et quantitatis, regunt genitivum; ut,

* Pridie illius † diei.

* Ubique † gentium.

* Satis est † verborum.

‡ 3. Quædam adverbia derivata regunt casum primitivum; ut,

† Omnium * elegantissime loquitur.

Vivere * convenienter † naturæ.

2. Præpositionum.

1. PRÆPOSITIONES ad, apud, ante, &c. accusativum regunt; ut,

* Ad † patrem.

2. Præpositiones a, ab, abs, &c. regunt ablativum; ut,

* A † patre.

3. Præpositiones in, sub, super, et subter, regunt accusativum, cum motus ad locum significatur; ut,

Eo * in † scholam

* Sub † mœnia tendit. Virg.

Incidit * super † agmina. Id.

Ducit * subter † fastigia tecti. Id.

Fighting bravely.

A servant remarkably faithful.

Well enough.

2. Some adverbs of time, place and quantity, govern the genitive; as,

The day before that day.

Every where.

There is enough of words.

3. Some derivative adverbs govern the case of their primitives; as,

He speaks the most elegantly of all.

To live agreeably to nature.

2. Of Prepositions.

1. THE prepositions ad, 69 apud, ante, &c. govern the accusative; as,

To the father.

2. The preposit, a, ab, abs, 70 &c. govern the accusative; as,

From the father.

3. The prepositions in, 71 sub, super, and subter, govern the accusative when motion, to a place is signified; as,

I go into the school.

He goes under the walls.

It fell upon the troops.

He brings (him) under the roof of the house.

ames, having said these things, departed, } Jacobus hæc locutus abiit. Dep.
ames, these things being said, departed, } Jacobus his dictis abiit. Pass.

Having promised a great reward, } pollicitus magnam mercedem. Dep.
A great reward being promised, } magna mercede promissa. Pass.

NOTE 4. That when there is no participle expressed in Latin, existens (being) is understood; as, me puero, I being a boy. Saturno rege, Saturn being king. Civitate nondum libera, the state not being yet free.

72 ¶ At si motus vel quies in loco significetur, in et sub regunt ablativum; super et subter vel accusativum vel ablativum; ut,
Sedeo vel discorro * in † schola.
Recūbo vel ambūlo * sub † umbra.
Sedens * super † arma. Vir.
† Fronde * super virīdi. Id.
Venæ * subter † cutem dispersæ. Plin.
* Subter † littore. Catul.

¶ But if motion or rest in a place be signified, in and sub govern the ablative; super and subter either the accusative or ablative; as,

I sit or run up and down in the school.

I lie or walk under the shadow.

Sitting above the arms.

Upon the green grass.

The veins dispersed under the skin.

Beneath the shore.

NOTE 5. That the participle may be resolved into dum, cum, quando, si, postquam, &c. (while, seeing, when, if, after,) with the verb, either in English or Latin.

¶ The prepositions, with the cases they govern, are contained in the following verses.

1. Hæ quantum adsciscunt casum sibi præposituræ.
Ad, penes, adversum, cis, citra, adversus, et extra,
Ultra, post, præter, juxta, per, pone, secundum,
Ergo, apud, ante, secus, trans, supra, propter, et intra,
Quæ addas contra, circum, circa, inter, ob, infra.
2. Hæ sextum poscunt; a, cum, tenus, abs, ab, et absque,
Atque palam, pro, præ, clam, de, e, ex, sine, coram.
3. Sub, super, in, subter, quantum sextumque requirunt.

NOTE 1. That versus and usque are put after their cases; as, Italiam versus, towards Italy. Oceanum usque, as far as the ocean. But (as we have already observed, page 80) these are properly adverbs, the preposition ad being understood.

NOTE 2. That tenus is also put after its case; as, mento tenus, up to the chin.

NOTE 3. That tenus governs the genitive plural: 1. When the word wants the singular; as, Cumarum tenus, as far as (the town) Cumæ.—2. When we speak of things of which we have naturally but two; as, crurum tenus, up to the legs.

NOTE 4. That a and e are put before consonants, ab and ex before vowels and consonants, abs before t and g.

NOTE 5. That subter hath very rarely the ablative, and only among poets.

NOTE 6. That in English in is commonly the sign of the ablative; into of the accusative.

NOTE 7. In for erga, contra, per, supra, ad, &c. governs the accusative, as, amor in patriam. Quid ego in te commisi? Crescit in dies singulos imperium regum in proprios greges. Hor. Pisces in cœnam empti. But in or inter governs the ablative; as, in amicis habere. Sall.

Sub for circa governs the accusative; as, sub cœnam.

Super for ultra, præter, and inter governs the accusative; as, super Gæamantis. Virg. Super gratiam suam. Sall. In sermone super cœnam nato. Suet. For de, it governs the ablative; as, super hac re nimis. Cic.

4. ¶ Præpositio in compositione eundem sæpe casum regit quem extra; ut,

* Adeamus † scholam.

* Exeamus † schola.

3. Interjectionum.

§ 1. INTERJECTIONES

O, heu, et proh, regunt vocativum, interdum accusativum; ut,

* O formōse † puer!

* Heu † me miserum!

§ 2. Hei et vae regunt dativum; ut,

* Hei † mihi!

* Vae † vobis!

4. Conjunctionum.

† 1. CONIUNCTIONES

et, ac, atque, nec, neque, aut, vel, et quædam aliæ, connectunt similes casus et modos; ut, Honōra † patrem * et † matrem.

Nec † scribit, * nec † legit.

2. Ut, quo, licet, ne, utinam, et dummōdo subjunctivo modo fere semper adhærent; ut,

Lego * ut † discam.

* Utinam † sapēres.

4. ¶ A preposition often-73 times governs the same case in composition that it does without it; as,

Let us go to the school.

Let us go out of the school.

3. Of Interjections.

1. THE interjections O, 74 heu, and proh, govern the vocative, and sometimes the accusative; as,

O fair boy!

Ah wretch that I am!

2. Hei and vae govern the dative; as,

Ah me!

Wo to you!

4. Of Conjunctions.

THE conjunctions et, ac, 76 atque, nec, neque, aut, vel, and some others, couple like cases and moods; as,

Honour your father and mother,

He neither writes nor reads.

2. Ut, quo, licet, ne, utinam, and dummōdo are for the most part joined with the subjunctive mood; as,

I read that I may learn.

I wish you were wise.

Num. 73. NOTE. That this rule only takes place when the preposition may be dissolved from the verb, and put before the case by itself; as, alloquor patrem, i. e. loquor ad patrem. And even then the preposition is frequently repeated; as, exire e finibus suis. Cæs.

Num. 76. To these add quam, nisi, præterquam, an, and adverbs of like ness. The reason of this construction is because the words so coupled depend all upon the same word, which is expressed to one of them, and understood to the other.

Num. 77. To these add all indefinite words, that is, interrogatives, whether nouns, pronouns, adverbs, or conjunctions, when taken in a doubtful

The true and most necessary rules of construction to which all the rest are reduced.

FIRST PRINCIPLES.

I. EVERY speech (or sentence) consists of a noun and a verb.

II. Every nominative hath its own verb expressed or understood.

III. Every finite verb hath its own nominative expressed or understood.

IV. Every adjective hath its own substantive expressed or understood.

The Construction of the Six Cases.

I. EVERY verb of the finite mood, expressed or understood, agrees with its nominative, expressed or understood, in number and person; as, or indefinite sense: such as, quis, uter, quantus, &c. Ubi, quo, unde, &c. Cur, quare, quamobrem, num, an, anne, &c. (See p. 80 and 84.) They generally become indefinites, when another word comes before them in the sentence, such as, scio, nescio, video, intelligo, dubito, and the like; as, ubi est frater tuus? Nescio ubi sit. An venturus est? Dubito an venturus sit.

Ne the adverb of forbidding requires the imperative or subjunctive; as, ne time or ne timeas. See p. 56.

Dum, quam, quod, si, sin, ni, nisi, etsi, etiamsi, priusquam, simulac, siquidem, quandoquidem, &c. are joined sometimes with the indicative and some times with the subjunctive.

Puer legit.
(Homines) aiunt.
Romani (cœperunt) festinare.

II. Omnis genitivus regitur a substantivo expresso vel suppresso; ut, Liber fratris.

Est (officium) patris.

III. Dativus acquisitionis (i. e.) cui aliquid acquiritur vel admittitur) cuius nomini aut verbo expresso vel suppresso jungitur; ut,

Dedi Petro.
Cui dedisti?
(Dedi) Petro.
Utilis bello.
Non est (aptus) solvendo.

IV. Omnis accusativus regitur a verbo activo, vel *præpositione expressis vel suppressis; ut, Amo Deum et (amo) parentes.

Ad patrem.
Abiit (ad) Londinum.

¶ Aut infinitivo præponitur expressus vel suppressus; ut,

Dicit se scribere.
Licet mihi (me) esse bonum.

V. Omnis vocativus absolute ponitur, addita nonnunquam interiectione O; ut,

O Dave.
Heus Syre.

VI. Omnis ablativus regitur a * præpositione expressa vel suppressa; ut,

A puero.
Exultat (præ) gaudio.

The boy reads.
They say.
The Romans made haste.

II. Every genitive is governed by a substantive expressed or understood; as,

The book of my brother.
It is the duty of a father.

III. The dative of acquisition (i. e. to which any thing is acquired, or from which it is taken) is joined to any noun or verb expressed or understood; as,

I gave it to Peter.
To whom did you give it?
To Peter.
Profitable for war.
He is not able to pay.

IV. Every accusative is governed by an active verb, or a *preposition expressed or understood; as,

I love God, and my parents.

To the father.
He hath gone to London.

¶ Or is put before the infinitive expressed or understood; as,

He says that he is writing.
I may be good.

V. Every vocative is placed absolutely, the interjection O being added; as,

O Davus.
Come hither, Syrus.

VI. Every ablative is governed by a *preposition expressed or understood; as,

From a child.
He leaps for joy.

APPENDIX.

I. OMNE adjectivum concordat cum substantiyo expresso vel suppresso, in genere, numero et casu; ut, Bonus vir.

Triste (negotium).

II. Substantiva significantia eandem rem conveniunt in casu; ut,

Dominus Deus.

III. Omnis infinitivus regitur a verbo vel nomine expressis vel suppressis; ut, Cupio discere.

Dignus amari.

Populus (cœpit) mirari.

I. EVERY adjective agrees with a substantive expressed or understood in gender, number and case; as,

A good man.

A sad thing.

II. Substantives signifying the same thing agree in case as,

The Lord God.

III. Every infinitive is governed by a verb or noun, expressed or understood; as,

I desire to learn.

Worthy to be loved.

The people wondered.

EXPLANATION.

ALL construction is either TRUE or APPARENT, or (as grammarians express it) JUST or FIGURATIVE. TRUE construction is founded upon the essential properties of words, and is almost the same in all languages. APPARENT construction entirely depends upon custom; which either for elegance or despatch, leaves out a great many words otherwise necessary to make a sentence perfectly full and grammatical. The first is comprised in these few fundamental rules, and more fully branched out in the larger syntax. The other is also interspersed through the larger syntax, but distinguished from that which is true by a (†).

The cases mentioned in the rules of the larger syntax immediately discover the rules of this summary to which they respectively belong; those that are true without any ellipsis; those that are figurative by having their ellipsis supplied as follows, as they are numbered in the margin.

To RULE II, are reduced Num. 13, supple negotium. Num. 14 and 47, sup. de causa, gratia, or in re, negotio. Num. 15, sup. e numero. Num. 21, sup. de negotio. Num. 22 and 23, sup. officium, negotium, &c. Num. 24, sup. (1) sal, taken from the verb; (2) de causa, &c. Num. 29, sup. memoriam, notitiam, verba, &c. Num. 30, sup. de crimine, pœna, &c. Num. 35 and 36, sup. pro re, or pretio aris. Num. 40, sup. inter negotia, and res [fert] se ad negotia. Num. 42, sup. res negotium, &c. Num. 56, sup. in urbe. Num. 60, [domi] sup. in ædibus. Num. 66, these adverbs seem to be taken for substantive-nouns.

To RULE III, is reduced Num. 73, sup. malum est; or these interjections are used as substantives.

To RULE IV, belong Num. 18, 53, and 62, sup. ad. Num. 33, sup. quod ad. Num. 41, i. e. est inter mea negotia; refert [or res fert] se ad mea negotia, &c. Num. 58, sup. ad or in. Num. 64, sup. per. Num. 73, sup. sentia, lugo, &c.

To RULE VI, belong Num. 12, sup. e, ex, or cum. Num. 19, sup. pro. Num. 20, sup. de, e, ex, cum, &c. Num. 21, sup. a, ab, &c.

Num. 34, sup. pro. Num. 37, 38, sup. a, ab, de, e, ex. Num. 51, and 55, sup. pro, cum, a, ab, e, ex, &c. Num. 54, sup. in, or de. Num. 57, sup. in. Num. 59, sup. a, ab, e, ex. Num. 62, sup. in. Num. 64, sup. in, or pro. Num. 65, sup. sub, cum, a, ab.

NOTE 1. That under verbs must also be comprehended participles, gerunds, and supines; because the general signification of the verb is included in them.

NOTE 2. That as a consequence of this, a learned grammarian ingeniously supposes that the dative and infinitive are always governed by a verb, and, that when they seem to be governed by a noun, the participle existens is understood; as, utilis (existens) bello. Pollio præsidium (existens) reis. Dignus (existens) amari.

NOTE 3. That the vocative is properly no part of a sentence, but the case by which we excite one to hear or execute what we say. Therefore when the vocative is put before the imperative, as frequently happens, the nominative tu, or vos is understood; and that even though these words be already expressed in the vocative; as, tu, Jacobe lege, i. e. O tu Jacobe, tu lege.

NOTE 4. That the vocative is sufficient of itself, and does not necessarily require the interjection O. See Vossius, lib. 7, cap. 69, and Sanctius, lib. 4, de Ellipsi Verb. Audio, et Narro.

CHAP. II.

OF EXPOSITION OR RESOLUTION.

EXPOSITION or RESOLUTION is the unfolding of a sentence, and placing all the parts of it, whether expressed or understood, in their proper order, that the true sense and meaning of it may appear.

I. A SENTENCE is either simple or compound.

1. A simple sentence is that which hath one finite verb in it.

2. A compound sentence is that which hath two or more such verbs in it, joined together by some couples.

These couples are of four sorts. 1. The relative qui. 2. Some comparative words, such as, tantus, quantus; talis, qualis; tam, quam, &c.

3. Indefinite words (see page 85, 86, and 113). 4. Conjunctions.

In a simple sentence there are two things to be considered. 1. Its essential. 2. Its accidental parts.

(1.) The essential parts of a sentence are a nominative and a verb.

(2.) The accidental parts are four kinds. 1. Such as excite attention, as the vocative and exciting particles; as, O, en, ecce, heus, &c. 2. Such as serve to introduce a sentence, or to show its dependence upon what was said before; as, jam, hactenus, quandoquidem, cum, dum, interea, &c. 3. Such as limit the general and indefinite signification either of the nominative or verb, and these are substantive-nouns. 4. Such as qualify and explain them, viz. adjectives, adverbs, and prepositions, with their cases. Sometimes a part of a compound sentence supplies the place of those two last kinds of words.

II. The order of words in a sentence is either natural or artificial.

1. Natural order is when the words of a sentence naturally follow one another in the same order with the conceptions of our minds.

Artificial order is when words are so arranged as to render them most agreeable to the ear, but so as the sense be not thereby obscured.

III. A sentence may be resolved from the artificial into the natural order by the following rules.

1. Take the vocative, exciting, and introductory words where they are found.

2. The nominative.

3. Words limiting or explaining it, i. e. words agreeing with, or governed by it, or by another successively (till you come to the verb) where they are found.

4. The verb.

5. Words limiting or explaining it, &c. where they are found, to the end of the sentence.

6. Supply every where the words that are understood.

7. If the sentence be compound, take the parts of it severally, as they depend upon one another, proceeding with each of them as before.

EXAMPLE. Vale igitur, mi Cicero, tibi que persuade esse te quidem mihi carissimum; sed multo fore cariorem, si talibus monumentis præceptisque lætabere. Cic. Off. lib. 3.

Farewell then my (son) Cicero, and assure yourself that you are indeed very dear unto me; but shall be much dearer, if you shall take delight in such writings and instructions.

This compound sentence is resolved into these five simple sentences.

[1.] Igitur mi (fili) Cicero, (tu) vale, [2.] et (tu) persuade tibi te esse quidem carissimum (filium) mihi; [3.] sed (tu) persuade tibi te fore cariorem (filium) mihi in multo (negotio), [4.] si (tu) lætabere talibus monumentis, [5.] et (si tu) lætabere talibus præceptis.

NOTE 1. That interrogative words stand always first in a sentence, unless a preposition comes before them.

NOTE 2. That negative words stand immediately before the verb.

NOTE 3. That relatives are placed before the word by which they are governed, unless it be a preposition.

NOTE 4. That the subjunctive mood is used in compound sentences.

NOTE 5. That the parts of a compound sentence are separated from one another by these marks called interpunctuations. 1. Those that are smaller, named clauses, by this mark [,], called a comma. 2. Those that are greater, named members, by this mark [:], called colon, or this [;], called a semicolon. 3. When a sentence is thrown in, that has little or no connexion with the rest, it is inclosed within what we call a parenthesis, marked thus ().

But when the sentence, whether simple or compound, is fully ended, it be a plain affirmation or negation, it is closed with this mark [.] called a point. If a question be asked, with this mark [?] called a point of interrogation. If wonder or some other sudden passion be signified, with this mark [!] called a point of admiration.

PART IV.

OF PROSODY.

PROSODY teaches the quantity of syllables.

The quantity of a syllable is the space of time taken up in pronouncing it.

That part of grammar which treats of the quantity and accent of syllables, and the measures of verse is called PROSODY.

Syllables, with respect to their quantity are either long or short.

A long syllable in pronouncing requires double the time of a short; as, tēdēre.

Some syllables are COMMON.

A common syllable is that which, in verse, is sometimes long, and sometimes short; as the second syllable in volucris.

A vowel is said to be long or short by nature, which is always so by custom.

In polysyllables or long words, the last syllable except one is called the penultima, or by contraction, the penult, and the last syllable except two, the antepenultima.

When the quantity of a syllable is not fixed by some particular rule, it is said to be long or short by AUTHORITY, that is, according to the usage of the poets. Thus le in lēgo is said to be short by authority, because it is always made short by the Latin poets.

In most Latin words of one or two syllables, according to our manner of pronouncing, we can hardly distinguish by the ear a long syllable from a short. Thus le in lēgo and lēgi seems to be sounded equally long; but when we pronounce them in composition, the difference is obvious: thus, perlēgo, perlēgi.

The rules of quantity are either general or special. The former apply to all syllables, the latter only to some certain syllables

GENERAL RULES.

A vowel before another vowel is short; as, mēus, alius; so nihil, h in verse being only considered as a breathing. In like manner in English, create, behave.

EXCEP. 1. I is long in fio, fiēbam, &c. unless when followed by r; as, freri, fierim.

EXCEP. 2. E having an i before and after it, in the fifth declension, is long; as, speciēi. So is the first syllable in āer, dīus, ēheu, and the penultima in aulai, terrāi, &c. in Pompēi, Cāi, and such like words; but we sometimes find Pompei in two syllables.

EXCEP. 3. The first syllable in one and Diana is common ; so likewise in the penult in genitives in ius; as, illius, unius, &c. to be read long in prose. Alius in the genitive is always long ; alterius, short.

In Greek words, a vowel before another is sometimes short ; as, Danæ, idæa, Simöis, &c. sometimes long ; as, Lycæon, Cytheræa, Medæa, Darius, Amphion, Ixion, elegia, Antiochia, Alexandria, &c. But chorea, platea, canopeum, and Malea, a proper name, are common.

In English it is also often lengthened ; as in science, idæa.

2. A vowel before two consonants, or before a double consonant, is long (by position, as it is called) ; as, arma, fallo, axis, gaza, majör ; the compounds of jugum excepted ; as, bijugus, quadrijugus, &c.

When the foregoing words end in a short vowel, and the following begins with two consonants or a double one, that vowel is sometimes lengthened by position ; as,

Ferte citi flammas, dara vela, scandite muros. Virg. ,
But this rarely occurs.

A vowel before a mute and a liquid is common ; as the first syllable in agris, and the middle in pharetra, podagra ; but in prose we usually pronounce it short.

To make this rule hold, three things are requisite. The vowel must be naturally short, the mute must go before the liquid, and be in the same syllable with it. Thus, a in patris is made common in verse, because a in pater is naturally short, or always so by custom ; but a in matris is always long, because long by nature or custom in mater. In like manner the penult in salubris, ambulacrum, is always long : because they are derived from salus, salutis, ambulatum. So a in arte, abluo, &c. is long by position, because the mute and the liquid are in different syllables.

L and r only are considered as liquids in Latin words ; m and n do not take place except in Greek words.

3. A contracted syllable is long ; as cögo, for coägo ; alius, for aliius ; tibicen, for tibiicen ; ii for iit ; södes, for ei audes ; nölo, for non volo ; bīgæ, for bijügæ, &c.

4. A diphthong is always long ; as, aurum, Cæsar, Eubæa, &c. Only præ in composition before a vowel, is short ; as, præire.

We often find two vowels in the same syllable short ; as, linquimus, sanguinis, &c. but these commonly are not reckoned diphthongs, perhaps improperly.

In English we pronounce several of the diphthongs short, by sinking the sound of one vowel ; but then there is properly no diphthong.

SPECIAL RULES.

I. Concerning the FIRST and MIDDLE SYLLABLES.

Præterites and Supines of Two Syllables.

5. Preterites of two syllables lengthen the former syllable, as, Vēni, vīdi, vīci:

Except these six, bībi, scīdi, from scindo; fīdi, from findo; tūli, dēdi, stēti.

6. Supines of two syllables lengthen the former syllable; as, Visum, cāsum, mōtum.

Except sātum, from sēro; cītum, from cīeo; lītum, from līno; stūtum, from sīno; stātum, from sisto; ītum, from eo, dātum, from do; rūtum, from the compounds of ruo; qūtum, from queo; rātus, from reor.

Præterites Doubled.

7. Preterites which double the first syllable, have both the first syllables short; as, cēcīdi, tētīgi, pēpūli, pēpēri, dūdici, tūtūdi; except cēcīdi, from cædo; pēpēdi, from pædo; and when two consonants intervene; as, fēfēlli tētēndi, &c.

INCREASE OF NOUNS.

A noun is said to increase, when it has more syllables in any of the oblique cases than in the nominative; as, rex, rēgis. Here re is called the increase or crement, and goes through all the other cases. The last syllable is never esteemed a crement.

Some nouns have a double increase, that is, increase by more syllables than one; as, iter itinēris.

A noun in the plural is said to increase, when in any case it has more syllables than the genitive singular; as, gener, genēri, genērōrum.

Nouns of the first, fourth, and fifth declensions, do not increase in the singular number, unless when one vowel comes before another; as, fructus, fructūi; res, rēi; which fall under Rule 1.

Second Declension.

8. Nouns of the second declension which increase, shorten the penultima; as, gener, genēri; vir, vīri; satur, satūri; except Iber, Ibēri; and its compound, Celūber, Celūbēri.

Third Declension.

9. Nouns of the third declension which increase, make a and o long, e i and u short; as, pietātis, honōris; muliēris, lapīdis. murmūris.

The chief exceptions from this rule are marked under the formation of the genitive in the third declension. But here perhaps it may be proper to be more particular.

A noun in a shortens atis in the genitive; as, dogma, -ātis poema -ātis.

O

O shortens inis, but lengthens enis and onis; as, cardo, -īnis, virgo, -īnis; Anio, -ōnis; Cicero, -ōnis. Gentile or partial nouns vary their quantity. Most of them shorten the genitive; as, Macedo, -ōnis; Saxo, -ōnis: Some are long; as, Suessiōnes. Vettiōnes. Brittones is common.

I C D

I shortens itis; as, Hydromeli, -ītis. Ec lengthens ecis; as, Halec, -ēcis.

A noun in d shortens the crement; as, David, -īdis.

Masculines in al shorten alis; as, Sal, sālis; Hannibal, -ālis but neuters lengthen it; as, animal, -ālis.

Solis, from sol, is long; also Hebrew words in el; as, Michael, -ēlis. Other nouns in l shorten the crement; as, vigil, -īlis; consul, -ūlis.

N

Nouns in on vary the crement. Some lengthen it; as, Helicon, -ōnis; Chiron, -ōnis. Some shorten it; as, Memnon, ōnis; Actæon, -ōnis.

En shortens inis; as, flumen, -īnis; tibicen, -īnis. Other nouns in n lengthen the penult. An; anis; as, Titan, -ānis: En, enis; as, Syren, -ēnis: In, inis; as, delphin, -īnis; Yn, ynis; as, Phorcyn, -ynis.

R

1. Neuters in ar lengthen aris; as, calcar, -āris. Except the following bacchar, -āris; jubar, āris; nectar, -āris: Also the adjective ar, pāris, and its compounds, impar, -āris; dispar, āris,

2. The following nouns in r lengthen the genitive; Nar, Nāris, the name of a river; fur, fūris; ver, vēris; Also Recimer, -ēris; Byzer, -ēris; Ser, Sēris; Iber, -ēris, are proper names.

3. Greek nouns in ter lengthen teris; as, crater, -ēris; character, -ēris. Except æther, -ēris.

4. Or lengthens oris; as, amor, -ōris. Except neuter nouns; as, marmor, -ōris; æquor, -ōris: Greek nouns in tor; as, Hector, -ōris; Rhetor, -ōris: Also arbor, -ōris; and memor, -ōris.

5. Other nouns in r shorten the genitive; ar, aris, masculine; as, Cæsar, -āris; Hamilear, -āris; lar, lāris.

Er, eris, of any gender; as, aer, æris; mulier, -ēris; cadaver, -ēris; iter, (anciently itiner) itinēris; verbēris, from the obsolete verber. Ur, uris; as, vultur, -ūris; murmur, -ūris. Yr, yris; as, martyr, -yris.

AS

1. Nouns in as which have atis lengthen the crement; as, pictas, -ātis; Mæcenās, -ātis. Except anas, -ātis.

2. Other nouns in as shorten the crement; as, Greek nouns in adis, atis, and anis; thus, Pallas, -ādis; artocreas, -eātis; Melas, -ānis, the name of a river. So vas, vādis; mas, māris: But vas, vāsis, is long.

ES

Es shortens the crement; as, miles, ītis; Ceres, -ēris; pes, pēdis.

Except locuples, -ētis; quies, -ētis; mansues, -ētis: hæres, -ēdis; merces, -ēdis.

IS

Nouns in is shorten the crement; as, lapis, -idis; sanguis, -inis; Phyllis, -īdis.

Except glis, gliris; and Latin nouns which have itis; as, lis, -litis; dis, dītis; Quiris, -ītis; Samnis, -ītis: But charis, a Greek noun, has charītis.

The following also lengthen the crement; Crenis, -idis; Psophis, -idis; Nesis, -idis, proper names. And Greek nouns in is, which have also in; as, Salamis (or Salamin), -inis.

OS

Nouns in os lengthen the crement; as, nepos, -ōtis; flos, flōris. Except bos, bōvis; compos, ōtis; impos, -ōtis.

US

Us shortens the crement; as, tempus, -ōris; tripus, -ōdis.

Except nouns which have udis, uris, and utis; as, incus, cūs; iūs, jūris; salus, -ūtis. But Ligus has Ligūris; the obsolete pecus, pecūdis; and intercus, -ūtis. The neuter of the comparative has ōris; as, melius, -ōris.

YS

*Y*s shortens ydis or ydos; as, chlamys, -ydis or ydos; and lengthens ynis; as, Trachys, -ynis.

BS PS MS

Nouns in s with a consonant going before, shorten the penult of the genitive; as, cœlebs, -ībis; inops, -ōpis; hiems, -ēmis.

Except cyclops, ōpis; seps, sēpis; gryps, gryphis; Cecrops, -ōpis; plebs, plēbis; hydrops, -ōpis.

T shortens the crement; as, caput, -ītis.

X

1. Nouns in x, which have the genitive in gis, shorten the crement; cojux, -ūgis; remex, -īgis; Allobrox, -ōgis; Phryx, Phrygis. But lex, lēgis; and rex, rēgis, are long; and likewise frūgis.

2. Ex shortens icis; as, vertex, -īcis; except vibex, īcis.

3. Other nouns in x lengthen the crement; as, pax, pācis; radix, -īcis; vox, vōcis; lux, lūcis; Pollux, -ūcis, &c.

Except fācis, nēcis, vicis, prēcis, calīcis, pīcis, fornīcis, nīvis, Cappadōcis, prēcōcis, dūcis, nūcis, crūcis, trūcis, onycis, Erycis, and many others whose quantity can be only ascertained by authority.

4. Some nouns vary the crement; as, Syphax, -ācis or ācis. Sandyx, -īcis, or īcis.

Increase of the Plural Number.

10. Nouns of the plural number which increase, make a e and o long; but shorten i and u; as, musārum, rērum, dominōrum; regibus, portūbus; except bobus or bubus, contracted for bōvibus.

INCREASE OF VERBS.

A verb is said to increase, when any part has more syllables than the second person singular of the present of the indicative active; as, amas, amāmus, when the second syllable ma is the increase or crement; for the last syllable is never called by that name.

A verb often increases by several syllables; as, amans, amābāminī; in which case it is said to have a first, second, or third increase.

11. In the increase of verbs, a and o are long, i and u short; as, amāre, docēre, amātōte; legīmus, sūmus, volūmus.

Except do and its compounds of the first conjugation, which have the first increase short; as, dāre, dāmus, dābāmus, circumdāre, venundābd, &c.

The poets sometimes shorten dēdērunt and stētērunt, and lengthen rimus and fītis, in the future of the subjunctive; as, Transierītis aquas. Ov. All the other exceptions from this rule are marked in the formation of the verb.

The first or middle syllables of words, which do not come under any of the foregoing rules, are said to be long or short by authority; and their quantity can only be discovered from the usage of the poets, which is the most certain of all rules.

In the first and middle syllables of words, however, the most frequent mistakes in quantity are committed. They therefore merit particular attention.

Remarks on the quantity of some other first and Middle Syllables of Words.

1. Patronymics in ides and ades usually shorten the penult; as, Priamīdes, Atlantiādes, &c. Unless they come from nouns in eus; as, Pelides, Tydīdes, &c.

2. Patronymics and similar words in ais, eis, itis, ois, otis, ine, and one, commonly lengthen the penult; as, Achāis, Ptolemāis, Chrysēis, Ænēis, Memphītis, Latōis, Icarīōtis, Nerine, Arisiōne Except Thebais, Phocais, and Nereis, which are common.

3. Adjectives in acus, icus, idus, and imus, for the most part shorten the penult; as, Ægyptiācus, academīcus, lepidus, legītimus; also superlatives; as, fortissimus, &c. Except opācus, amīcus, aprīcus, pudīcus, medicus, posticus, fidus, infidus, (but perfidus of per and fides, is short) bimus, quadrimus, patrimus, matrimus, opīmus; and two superlatives, imub, primus.

4. Adjectives in alis, anus, arus, ivus, orus, osus, lengthen the penult; as, dotālis, urbānus, avārus, æstivus, decōrus, arvōsus. Except barbārus, opipārus.

5. Verbal adjectives in ilis shorten the penult; as, agīlis, faēlis, &c. But derivatives from nouns usually lengthen it; as, anīlis, civilis, herilis, &c. To these add, exilis, subtilis; and names of months, Aprīlis, quintilis, sextilis. Except humilis, parilis, and also similis. But all adjectives in atilis are short; as, versatilis, volatilis, umbratilis, &c.

6. Adjectives in inus derived from inanimate things, as plants, stones, &c. also from adverbs of time, commonly shorten the penult; as, amaracīnus, crocīnus, cedrīnus, faginū, oleagīnus; adamantīnus, cristallīnus, crasūnus, pristīnus, &c.

Other adjectives in inus are long; as, aginus, binus, Latinus, marinus, supinus, vespertinus, &c.

7. Diminutives in ulus, ola, olum, and ulus, ula, ulum, always shorten the penult; as, urceolus, siliola, musceolum; lectulus, rationcula, corculum, &c.

8. Adverbs in tim lengthen the penult; as, oppidatim, virtutim, tributum. Except affatim, perpetuum, and statim.

9. Desideratives in urio shorten the antepenultima, which, in the second and third person, is the penult; as, esurio, esuris, esurit; but other verbs in urio lengthen that syllable; as, ligurio, liguris; scaturio, scaturis, &c.

II. FINAL SYLLABLES.

12. A in the end of a word declined by cases is short; as, musă, templă, tydeă, lampadă; except the ablative of the first declension; as, musă, Ēnă; and the vocative of Greek nouns in as; as, O Ēnă, O Pallă.

A in the end of a word not declined by cases is long; as, amă, frustră, prætereă, ergă, intră; except ită, quiă, ejă, posteă, pută (adverb), and sometimes, though more rarely, the prepositions contră, ultră, and the compounds of ginta; as, trigintă, &c.

13. E final is short; as, natě, sedřtě, patrě, currě, nempč, antě.

EXCEP. 1. Monosyllables are long; as, mě, tě, sě, except these enclitic conjunctions, quě, vě, řě; and these syllabical adjections, ptě, cě, tě; as, suoptě, hujuscě, tutě.

EXCEP. 2. Nouns of the first and fifth declension are long; as, Calliopě, Anchisě, fidě. So re and die, with their compounds quarě, hodiě, pridiě, postridiě, quotidiě: Also Greek nouns which want the singular, Cetě, Melě, Tempě; and the second person singular of the imperative of the second conjugation; as, docě, maně; but cave, vale, and vide, are sometimes short.

EXCEP. 3. Adverbs derived from adjectives of the first and second declension are long; as, placidě, pulchrě, valdě, contracted for valide; to these add, fermě, ferě, and ohě; also all adverbs of the superlative degree; as, doctissimě, fortissimě; But beně and malě are short.

I

14. I final is long; as dominī, patri, docerī.

EXCEP. 1. Greek words are short; as, Alexī, Amarillī.

EXCEP. 2. The dative of Greek nouns of the third declension, which increase, is common; as, Palladī, Minoidī. Mihi, tibi, sibi, are also com mon; so likewise are ibi, nisi, ubi, quasi, and cui, when a disyllable, which in poetry is seldom the case. Sicubi and necubi are always short.

O

15. O final is compound; as, virgo, amo, quando.

EXCEP. 1. Mynoseyllables are long; as, 6, dō, stō, prō; and the dative and ablative singular of the second declension; as, librō, domidō; also Greek nouns; as, Didō, and Athō the genitive of Athos; and adverbs derived from nouns; as, certō, falsō, paulō. To these add quō, eō, and their compounds, quōvis, quōcunque, adeō, ideō; likewise illō, idcirco, citrō, intrō, retrō, ultrō.

EXCEP. 2. The following words are short; egō, sciō, cedō (a defective verb), homō, citō, illicō, immō, duō, ambō, modō with its compounds, quomodō dummodō, postmodō; but some of these are also found long.

U Y

16. U final is long; Y final is short; vultū, moly.

B D L M R T

17. B, D, L, M, R, and T, in the end of a word, make the foregoing vowel short; as, āb, spūd, semēl, procōr, capūt.

M final anciently made the foregoing vowel short; as, militū octo. Ennius. But by later poets, m in the end of a word is always cut off, when the next word begins with a vowel, thus, milit' octo; except in compound words; as, circūmago, circūmeo.

The following words are long; sāl, sōl, nil, pār, fār, lār, nār, cūr, fūr; also nouns which have eris in the genitive; cratēr, vēr, lībēr; likewise aēr, æthēr; to which add Hebrew names, as, Jōb, Daniēl, Davīd.

C N

18. C and N in the end of a word are long; as, āc, sic, nōn.

The following words are short; nēc, donēc, forsitān, īn, forsān, tamēn, ān, vidēn; likewise nouns in en, which have inis in the genitive; as, carmēn, crimēn; together with several Greek nouns; as, Ilīōn, Pylōn, Alexīn. The pronoun hic and the verb fac are common.

AS ES OS

19. AS, ES, and OS, in the end of a word, are long; as, mās, quiēs, bonūs.

The following words are short; anās, ēs from sum, penēs, ūs having ossis in the genitive, compēs, and impēs; also a great many Greek nouns of all these three terminations, as, Arcā, Arcadās, hercās, Phrygēs, Arcadōs, Tenedōs, Melōs, &c. and Latin nouns in es having the penult of the genitive increasing, short; as, alēs, hebēs, obeēs. But Cerēs, pariēs, abiēs, and pēs with its compounds are long.

IS US YS

20. IS, US, and YS, in the end of a word, are short; as, turris, legis, legimūs, annūs, Capys.

EXCEP. 1. Plural cases in is and us are long; as, pennīs, librīs, nobīs. omnis for omnes, fructūs, manūs; also the genitive singular of the fourth declension; as, portūs.

EXCEP. 2. Nouns in is are long, which have the genitive in itis, itis, or entis; as, lis. Samnis, Salamis, Simois: to these add the adverbs gratis and foris; the noun glis, and vis, whether it be a noun or a verb: also is in the second person singular, when the plural has itis; as, audis, abis, possis; ris in the future of the subjunctive is common.

EXCEP. 3. Monosyllables in us are long; as, grūs, sūs; also nouns which in the genitive have uris, adis, utis, uatis, odis; as, tellūs, incūs, virtūs, amathūs, tripūs. To these add the genitive of the Greek nouns of the third declension: as, Chūs, Sapphūs, Mantūs; also nouns which have u in the vocative; as, Panthūs.

EXCEP. 4. Tethys is sometimes long, and nouns in ys, which have like wise ys in the nominative; as, Phorceys, Trachys.

The last syllable of every verse is common; or, as, some think, necessarily long, on account of the pause or suspension of the voice, which usually follows it in pronunciation.

THE QUANTITY OF DERIVATIVE AND COMPOUND WORDS.

DERIVATIVES.

21. Derivatives follow the quantity of their primitives; as,

Amicus from āmo ,		Exūlo from exul	-ūlis.
Auctōnor auctio	-ōnis.	Pāvidus pāveo.
Auctōro auctor	-ōris.	Quirīto quiris	-ītis.
Audītor auditum.		Radīor radix	-īcis.
Auspīcor auspex	-īcis.	Sospīto sospes	-ītis.
Caupōnor caupo	-ōnis	Nātura nātus.
Colōro color	-ōris.	Māterus māter.
Cornīcor cornix	-īcis.	Lēgebam , &c. lēgo.
Custōdio custos	-ōdis.	Lēgeram , &c. lēgi.
Decōrus decor	-ōris.	Decōro decus	-ōris.

EXCEPTIONS.

1. Long from short.

Dēni from dēcem .	Suspīcio from suspīcor .	Mōbilis from mōveo .
Fōmes fōveo.	Sēdes sēdeo.	Hūmor hūmus
Hūmanus hōmo.	Sēcūs sēcus.	Jūmentum jūvo, &c
Rēgula rēgo.	Pēnuria pēnus.

2. Short from Long.

Nōta from nōtus .	Lūcerno from lūceo .
Vādum vādo.	Dux , dūcis dūco.
Fīdes fīdo.	Stābilis stābam.
Sōpor sōpio.	Dītio dīo, dītis.

COMPOUNDS.

22. Compounds follow the quantity of the simple words which compose them; as, dēdūco of dē and dūco. So prōfēro, antēfēro, consōlor dēnōto, dēpēcūlor, dēprāvo, despēro, despūmo, desquāmo, ēnōdo, ērūdie.

exūdo, incēro, inhumo, investigo, prægřavo, pręnkto, rēlēgo, āppāro, appāreo, concāvus, pręgrāvus, dęsōlo, suffōco, diffīdit from diffīdo, and diffīdit from diffīdo, indīco and indīco, permānet from permāneo, and permānet from permāneo, effūdit in the present, and effūdit in the perfect; so exēdit and exēdit; devēnit and devēnit: devēnimus and devēnimus; effūgit and effūgit, &c.

The change of a vowel or diphthong in the compound does not alter the quantity; as, incido from in and cado; incido from in and cado; suffoco from sub and faux, fauis. Unless the letter following make it fall under some general rule; as, ādmitto, pęrcello, dęoculor, prōhibeo.

EXCEP. 1. Agnitum, cognitum, dejūro, pejūro, innūba, pronūba, maleficus, veredifcus, nihflum, semisōphlūus; from nōtus, jūro, nūbo, dīco, nihil and sōpio; ambitus, a participle from ambio, is long; but the substantives ambitus and ambitio are short; Connubium has the second syllable common.

EXCEP. 2. The preposition pro is short in the following words; prōfundus, prōfugio, prōfugus, prōnepos, prōneptis, prōfestus, prōfari, prōfector, prōfānus, prōfector, prōcella, prōtervus, and prōpāgo, a lineage; pro in prōpāgo, a vine-stock or shoot, is long. Pro in the following words is doubtful; propago (to propagate), propino, profundo, propello, propulso, prōcūro, and Proserpina.

EXCEP. 3. The inseparable prepositions se and di are long; as, sēparo, dīvello; except dīrimo, dīsertus. Re is short; as, rēmīto, rēfēro; except the impersonal verb, refert.

EXCEP. 4. E, i, and o, in the end of the former compounding word are usually shortened; as, nēfas, nēque, patēfacio, &c. omnipotens, agricōla, signīfīco, &c., duōdēcim, hōdie, sacrōsanctus, &c. But from each of these there are many exceptions. This i is long, when it is varied by cases; as, quīdam, quīvis, tantīdem, eīdem, &c. And when the compounding words may be taken separately; as, ludīmagister, lucrīfacio, aliquis, &c. Idem in the masculine is long, in the neuter short; also ubīque, ibīdem. But in ubīvis and ubīcunq̃ue the i is doubtful.

ACCENT.

Accent is the tone of the voice with which a syllable is pronounced.

In every word of two or more syllables, one syllable is sounded higher than the rest, to prevent monotony or a uniformity of sound, which is disagreeable to the ear.

When accent is considered with respect to the sense, or when a particular stress is laid upon any word, on account of meaning, it is called emphasis.

There are three accents, distinguished by their different sounds; acute, grave, circumflex.

1. The acute or sharp accent raises the voice in pronunciation, and is thus marked [´]; as, prófero, prófér.

2. The grave or base accent depresses the voice, or keeps it in its natural tone, and is thus marked [˘]; as, doctè. This accent properly belongs to all syllables which have no other

3. The circumflex accent first raises and then sinks the voice in some degree on the last syllable; and is therefore placed only upon long syllables. When written it has this mark, made up of the two former [^]; as, amāre.

The accents are hardly ever marked in English books, except in dictionaries, grammars, spelling-books, or the like, where the acute accent is only used.

The accents are likewise seldom marked in Latin books, unless for the sake of distinction; as in these adverbs, aliquò, continuò, doctè, unà, &c. to distinguish them from certain cases of adjectives, which are spelled in the same way. So poëtà, glorià, in the ablative; fructùs, tumultùs, in the genitive; nostrùm, vestrùm, the genitive of nos and vos; ergò, on account of; occidit, he slew; Pompilì, for Pompili; amàris, for amaveris, &c.

VERSE.

A verse is a certain number of short and long syllables disposed according to rule.

It is so called, because when the number of syllables requisite is completed, we always turn back to the beginning of a new line. The parts into which we divide a verse, to see if it hath its just number of syllables, are called feet.

A verse is divided into different feet, rather to ascertain its measure than to regulate its pronunciation.

FEET.

Poetic feet are either of two, three, or four syllables. When a single syllable is taken by itself, it is called a cæsura, which is commonly a long syllable.

1. Feet of Two Syllables.

Spondens	consists of two long; as, òmnēs.
Pyrrhichius	two short; as, dēūs.
Iambus	a short and a long; as, ãmōñs.
Trochæus	a long and a short; as, sērvūs.

2. Feet of Three Syllables.

Dactylus	consists of a long and two short; as, scrībērē.
Anapæstus	two short and a long; as, pīñās.
Amphimæcer	a long, a short, and a long; as, chārītās.
Tribachys	three short; as, dōmīnūs.

(The following are not much used.)

Molossus.	dēlēctānt.	Bacchius.	dōlorēs.
Amphibrachys.	hōnōrē.	Antibacchius.	pellūntūr.

3. Feet of Four Syllables.

Antispastus,	Alēxāndēr.	Pæon primus,	tēmpōrībūs.
Ionicus, minor,	prōpērābānt.	Pæon secundus,	pōtēntiā.
Ionicus, major,	cālcārībūs.	Pæon tertius,	ānīmātūs.
Proceleusmaticus,	hōmīnībūs.	Pæon quartus,	cēlērītās.
Dispendeus,	ōrātōrēs.	Epitritus primus,	vōlūptātēs.
Dijambus,	āmsēnītās.	Epitritus secundus,	pænītēntiēs.
Choriambus,	pōntīfīcēs.	Epitritus tertius,	dīscōrdiās.
Ditrocheus,	cāntīlēnā.	Epitritus quartus,	fōrtūnatūs.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF VERBS.

1. HEXAMETER.

The Hexameter or heroic verse, consists of six feet. Of these the fifth is a dactyle, and the sixth a spondee: all the rest may be either dactyles or spondees:

Lūdērē | quæ vël- | lēm cālā- | mō pēr- | miāt ā- | grēsti. Virg.
Infān- | dum, Rē- | gīnā jū- | bēs rēnō- | vārē dō- | lōrem. Id.

A regular Hexameter line cannot have more than seventeen syllables, or fewer than thirteen.

Sometimes a spondee is found in the fifth place, whence the verse is called Spondaic; as,

Cārā Dē- | ūm sōbō- | lēs, māg- | nūm Jōvīs | incrē | mēntum. Virg.

Sometimes there remains a superfluous syllable at the end. But this syllable must either terminate in a vowel, or in the consonant m with a vowel before it; so as to be joined with the following verse, which in the present case must always begin with a vowel; as,

Omnīā | Mārcūrī- | ō sīmī- | līs vō- | cāmquē cō- | lōrēmque
Et flavos crines.— Virg.

2. PENTAMETER.

The Pentameter verse consists of five feet. Of these, the two first are either dactyles or spondees, the third always a spondee, and the fourth and fifth an anapestus; as,

Nātū- | ræ sēquī- | tūr sē- | mīnā quīs- | quē sūo. Propert.
Cārmīnī- | būs vī- | vēs tēm- | pūs īn ōm- | nē mēis. Ovid.

But this verse is more properly divided into two hemisticks or halves: the former of which consists of two feet, either dactyles or spondees and a cæsure; the latter always of two dactyles and another cæsure; thus,

Nātū- | ræ sēquī | tūr | sēmīnā | quīsquē sū- | æ.
Cārmīnī- | būs vī- | vēs | tēmpūs īn | ōmnē nē- | is.

3. ASCLEPIADEAN.

The Asclepiadean verse consists of four feet; to wit, a spondee, twice a choriambus, and a Pyrrhichius; as,

Mācā | nās ātīvīs | ēdītē rē- | gībūs. Hor.

But this verse may be more properly measured thus: In the first place, a spondee; in the second a dactyle; then a cæsure; and after that two dactyles; thus,

Mæcē- | nās ātā- | vis | dēſtā | rēgibus.

4. GLYCONIAN.

The Glyconian verse has three feet; a spondee, a choriambus, and a Pyrrhichius; as,

Nāvis | quæ tibi erē- | dītum,— Hor.

Or it may be divided into a spondee and two dactyles; thus,

Nāvis | quæ tibi | crēdītum,—

5. SAPPHIC.

The Sapphic verse has five feet; viz. a trochee, spondee, dactyle, and two trochees; thus,

Intē- | gēr vī- | tæ, acſē- | riſquē | pūrus. Hor.

6. ADONIAN.

An Adonian verse consists only of a dactyle and a spondee; as, Jūpītēr | ūrgēt. Hor.

7. PHARECRATIAN.

The Pharecratian verse consists of three feet; a spondee, dactyle, and spondee; thus,

Nīgrīs | æquōrē | vēntīs. Hor.

8. PHALEUCEAN.

The Phaleucean verse consists of five feet; viz. a spondee, dactyle, and three trochees; as,

Sūmmām | nē mētū- | as dī- | ēm, nēc | ōptes. Mart.

9. THE GREATER ALCAIC.

The Greater Alcaic (called likewise Dactylic) consists of four feet; a spondee or iambus, iambus and cæsure, then two dactyles; as,

Virtūs | rēpūl- | æ | nēcſſ | sōrdīdæ. Hor.

10. ARCHILOCHIAN.

The Archilochian Iambic verse consists of four feet. In the first and third place, it has either a spondee or iambus; in the second and fourth always an iambus; and in the end, a cæsure; as,

Nēc sū | mīt, aut | pōnīt | ſcū- | res. Hor.

11. THE LESSER ALCAIC.

The lesser Dactylic Alcaic consists of four feet; namely, two dactyles and two trochees; as,

Arbītrī- | ō pōpū- | larīs | auran. Hor.

Of the above kinds of verse, the two first take their names from the number of feet of which they consist. All the rest derive their names from those by whom they were either first invented, or frequently used.

There are several other kinds of verse, which are named from the feet by which they are most commonly measured; such as the Dactylic, Trochaic, Anapaestic, and Iambic. The last of these is most frequently used.

12. IAMBIC.

Of Iambic verse there are two kinds. The one consists of four feet, and is called by a Greek name, Dimeter; the other consists of six feet, and is called, Trimeter. The reason of these names is, that among the Greeks two feet were considered only as one measure in Iambic verse; whereas the Latins measured it by single feet, and therefore called the Dimeter, quaternarius; and the Trimeter, senarius. Originally this kind of verse was purely Iambic, i. e. admitted of no other feet but the iambus; as,

Dimeter, Inâr- | sît as- | tûô- | sîns. Hor.
Trimeter, Sûis | ôt ip- | sâ Rô- | mâ vi- | rîbûs | rûit. Id.

But afterwards, both for the sake of ease and variety, different feet were admitted into the uneven or odd places, that is, in the first, third, and fifth places, instead of an iambus, they used a spondee, a dactyle, or an anapaestus, and sometimes a tribrachys. We also find a tribrachys in the even places, i. e. in the second place, and in the fourth; for the last foot must always be an iambus; thus,

Dimeter, Cânîyî- | ă trăc- | tãvî | dăpes. Hor.
 Vîdă- | ră pröpf- | rântă | dômum. Id.
Trimeter, Quôquô | scëlă- | tî rûî- | tîs aut | cûr dăx- | tăris. Hor.
 Păvîdum- | quē lăpô- | r' aut ăd- | vênâm | lăquēō gruem. Id.
 Alîyî- | bûs ât- | quē cănî- | bûs hômî- | cid' Hēc- | tōrem.

An comic writers we sometimes find an Iambic verse consisting of eight feet, therefore called Tetrameter or Octonarius.

A verse which hath just the number of feet requisite, is called Versus Acatalecticus, an Acatalectic verse; if a syllable be wanting, it is called Catalecticus; if there be a syllable too much, it is called Hypercatalecticus or Hypermeter.

NOTE. It is not of great importance, whether these names, and several others of the same nature which follow, be remembered by the learner or not. They are here made use of and explained, that they may not appear strange, when they occur in other books.

COMBINATION OF VERSES.

The different kinds of verses are variously combined in poems.

A poem which has only one kind of verse, is called by a Greek name, Monocolon; that which has two kinds, Dicolon; and that which has three kinds of verse, Tricolon.

That which consists of two kinds of verse, and always after two lines returns to the first, is called Dicolon Distrophon; as when a single pentameter is alternately placed after a hexameter, which is named Elegiac verse, because it was first applied to mournful subjects; thus,

Flebilis, indignos, Elegiâ, solve capillos,
 Ah! nimis ex vero nunc tibi nomen erit. Ovid.

When a poem consists of two kinds of verse, and after three lines returns to the first, it is called Dicolon Tristrophon; when after four lines, Dicolon Tetrastrophon; as,

Auream quisquis mediocritatem
Diligit, tutus caret obsoleti
Sordibus tecti; caret invidendâ
Sobrius aulâ. Hor.

When a poem consists of three kinds of verse, and after three lines always returns to the first, it is called Tricolon Tristrophon; but if it returns after four lines, it is called Tricolon Tetrastrophon; as when after two greater dactylic alcaic verses are subjoined an archilochian iambic and a lesser dactylic alcaic; which is named the Carmen Horatianum, or Horatian verse, because frequently used by Horace; thus,

Virtus recludens immeritis mori.
Cælum, negatâ tentat iter viâ:
Cætusque vulgares, et udam
Spernit humum fugiente pennâ.

Any of these parts of a poem, in which the different kinds of verse are comprehended, when taken by itself is called a Strophe, Stanza, or Staff.

SCANNING.

The measuring of verse, or the resolving of it into the several feet of which it is composed, is called Scanning; as,

Spond.	Dact.	Spond.	Spond.	Dact.	Spond.
Félix	qui pōtū	it rē-	rūm cog-	nōscērē	causās, &c.
S.	D.	S.	S.	D.	S.
Illū	nōn pōpū-	n̄ fās-	cēs nōn	pūrpūrā	rēgūm.
D.	S.	D.	S.	D.	S.
Flēxīt	ēt infī-	dōs āgī-	tāns dīa-	cōrdīā	frātēs. Virg.

FIGURES IN SCANNING.

The several changes made upon words to adapt them to the verse, are called Figures in Scanning. The chief of these are the Synalapha, Ecthlipsis, Synæresis, Diæresis, Systole and Diastole.

1. Synalapha is the cutting off of a vowel or diphthong, when the next word begins with a vowel; as,

Contiguere omnes, intentique ora tenebant. Virg.

To be scanned thus,

Cōntīcū- | ēr' ōm- | nēs īn- | tēntī- | qu' ōrā tē- | nēbant.

The Synalapha is sometimes neglected; and seldom takes place in the interjections, ō, heu, ah, proh, vae, vah, hei; as,

O pater, ō hominum, Divūmque æterna potestas. Virg.

2. Ecthlipsis is, when m is cut off, with the vowel before it in the end of a word, because the following word begins with a vowel; as,

O curas hominum! O quantum est in rebus inane! Pers.

Thus,

O cū- | rās hōmī- | n' | ō quan | t' ēst īn- | rēbūs īn- | ānē

3. Synæresis is the contraction of two syllables into one, which is likewise called Crasis; as, Phæthon for Phaëthon. So ei in deinde, Pompei; si in proinde; et in aurea: thus,

Auræ percussus virgâ, versumque venenis. Virg.

4. Diæresis, divides one syllable in two; as, Troïas for Trojæ; Perseus for Perseus; milvius for milvus.

5. Systole is when a long syllable is made short; as, the penult in tulſ-runt; thus,

Matri longa decem tultunt fastidia menses. Virg.

6. Diastole is when a syllable usually short is made long; as the last syllable in amôr in the following verse:

Confidant, si tantus amôr, et mœnia condant.

To these may be subjoined the Figures of Diction, as they are called, which are chiefly used by the poets, though some of them likewise frequently occur in prose.

1. When a letter or a syllable is added to the beginning of a word it is called Prothesis; as, gnâvus for navus; tetuli for tuli. When a letter or syllable is interposed in the middle of a word, it is called Epenthesis; as, religio for religio; induperator for imperator. When a letter or syllable is added to the end, it is called Paragoge; as, dicier for dici.

2. If a letter or syllable be taken from the beginning of a word it is called Aphæresis; as, natus for gnatus; tenderant for tetenderant. If from the middle of a word, it is called Syncope; as, dixti for dixisti; defum for deorum. If from the end, Apocope; as, videsn' for videsne; Antonî for Antonii.

3. When a letter or syllable is transposed, it is called Metathesis; as, piastria for pristis; Lybia for Libya. When one letter is put for another, it is called Antithesis; as, faciundum for faciendum; olli for illi; vultis for vultis.

But what particularly deserves attention in scanning verse, especially hexameter, is the Cæsura.

Cæsura is when after a foot is completed, there remains a syllable at the end of a word to begin a new foot: as,

S. D. S.
At rē- | gīnā grā- | vī jā- | dūdūm, &c.

The Cæsura is variously named, according to the different parts of the hexameter verse in which it is found. When it comes after the first foot, or falls on the third half foot, it is called by the Greek name, Triemimēris. When on the fifth half-foot, or the syllable after the second foot, it is called Penthemimēris. When it happens on the first syllable of the fourth foot, or the seventh half-foot, it is called Hepthemimēris. And when on the ninth half-foot, or the first syllable of the fifth foot, it is called Enneemimēris.

All these different species of Cæsura sometimes occur in one verse; as Mlā lā-tūs nlvē-ūm mōl-lī fūl-tūs hyā-cīntho. Virg.

But the most common and beautiful Cæsura is the penthemim; on which some lay a particular accent or stress of the voice in reading an hexameter verse thus composed, whence they call it the Cæsural pause; as,

Tityre, dum rede-O, brevis est via, pasce, capellas. Virg.

When the Cæsura falls on a syllable naturally short, it renders it long, as the last syllable of fultus in the foregoing example.

The chief melody of a hexameter verse in a great measure depends on the proper disposition of the Cæsura. Without this, a line consisting of the number of feet requisite, will be little else than mere prose; as,

Rōmæ mænŭ tærrũt ĩmpĭgĕr Hännĭbāl ħrmia. Ennius.

The ancient Romans, in pronouncing verse, paid a particular attention to its melody. They not only observed the quantity and accent of the several syllables, but also the different stops and pauses which the particular turn of the verse required. In modern times we do not fully perceive the melody of Latin verse, because we have now lost the just pronunciation of that language, the people of every country pronouncing it in a manner similar to their own. In reading Latin verse, therefore, we are directed by the same rules which take place with respect to English verse.

The tone of the voice ought to be chiefly regulated by the sense. All the words should be pronounced fully; and the cadence of the verse ought only to be observed, so far as it corresponds with the natural expression of the words. At the end of each line there should be no fall of the voice, unless the sense requires it; but a small pause, half of that which we usually make at a comma.

Mortem oppete pro patria.
Ne quavis de re doleas.
Ex ingenuis liberos crea.
Sperato tanquam mortalis:
Parcito tanquam immortalis.
Mortuum ne irrideto.
Dilige amicos.
Consule inculpate.

DICTA BLANTIS PRIENENSIS.

IN speculo teipsum contemplare; et si formosus apparebis, age quæ deceant formam; sin deformis, quod in facie minus est vel deest, id morum pensato pulchritudine.
Audito multa;
Loquere parca.
De numine ne male loquaris.

Quid sit autem ausculta.
Prius autem intellige, et deinde ad opus accede.
Ne ob divitias laudaris virum indig-
num.
Persuasione cape, non vi.
Compara in abdolescentia quidem modestiam, in senectute verò pru-dentiam.

DICTA PITTACI MITYLENÆ.

QUÆ fracturus es, ea ne dixeris;
frustratus enim rideberis.
Depositum redde.
Desidiosus ne esto
A familiaribus in minutis rebus læ-sus, feras.
Amico ne maledixeris.
Inimicum ne putes amicum.
Uxori dominare [Christiane].
Quæ feceris parentibus, eadem a liberis expecta.
Inter amicos ne fueris iudex.
Ne contende cum parentibus, etiam si justa dixeris.
Ne geras imperium priusquam va-rere didiceris.

Infortunatum ne irriseris.
Audito libenter.
Ne lingua præcurrat mentem.
Ne festines loqui.
Nosce teipsum.
Legibus pare.
Voluptatem coercere.
Ne quid nimis.
Inimicitiam solve.
Ante omnia venerare Numen.
Parentes revere.
Quæ fieri non possunt, cave concupiscas.
Uxorem ducito ex æqualibus; ne, si ex ditioribus duxeris, dominos tibi pares, non affines.

DICTA CLEOBULI LINDII.

Ne sis unquam elatus.
Domus curam age.
L'ibros evolve.

Lapis auri index, aurum hominum
Quod oderis, alteri ne feceris.
Voto nil pretericias.

Bonis benefacito.
 Liberos tibi charissimos eradi.
 A maledicentia temperato.
 Res amici diligas, ac periunde serves ut tuas.
 Inferiorem ne rejicias.
 Ne teipsum præcipites in discrimen.
 Citius ad infortunatos amicos, quam ad fortunatos proficiacere.

Iustè judicatio.
 Nō cui miniteris; est enim muliebra
 Suspicionem abjicito.
 Parentes patientiā vince.
 Beneficii accepti memento.
 Aliena ne concupiscas.
 Mendax calumnia vitam corrumpit.
 Mendaces odit quique prudens et aspiciens.

DICTA CHILONIS LACEDÆMONII.

NOSCE teipsum.
 Ne cui inideas mortalia.
 Temperantiam exerce.
 Turpia fuge.
 Tempori parce.
 Iustè rem para.

Sapientiā utere.
 Multitudini place.
 Oderis calumnias.
 Ne quid suspiceris.
 Moribus probatis esto.
 Ne fueris onerosus.

DICTA SOLONIS ATHENIENSIS.

DEUM cole.
 Parentes reverere.
 Amicis succurre.
 Veritatem sustineto.
 Ne jurato.

Legibus pareto.
 Cogita quod justum est.
 Iracundiæ moderare.
 Virtutem laudato.
 Malos odio prosequitor.

DICTA THALETIS MILESI.

PRINCIPEM honora.
 Amicos probato.
 Similis tui sis.
 Nemini promittito.
 Quod adest boni consulito.
 A vitiis abstineto.

Gloriam sectare.
 Vitæ curam age.
 Pacem dilige.
 Laudatus esto apud omnes.

DISTICHORUM DE MORIBUS.

LIBER I.

Dei cultus præcipuus.

Si Deus est animus, nobis ut carmina dicunt,
Hic tibi præcipuè sit purâ mente colendus.

Somnolentia vitanda.

Plus vigila semper, nec somno deditus esto;
Nam diuturna quies vitis alimenta ministrat.

Cohibenda lingua.

Virtutem primâ esse putâ compescere linguam;
Proximus ille Deo, qui scit ratione tacere.

Sibi ipsi conveniendum.

Sperne repugnando tibi tu contrarius esse;
Conveniet nulli qui secum dissidet ipse.

Nemo temere culpandus.

Si vitam inspicias hominum, si denique mores,
Cum culpas alios; nemo sine crimine vivit.

Utilitas divitiis anteponenda.

Quæ nocitura tenes, quamvis sint chara, relinque;
Utilitas opibus præponi tempore debet.

Mores pro tempore mutandi.

Et levis* et constans, ut res expostulat, esto;
Temporibus mores sapiens sine crimine mutat.

* al. constans ex levis, repugnan-te metro.

Uxori non semper assentiendum.

Nil temere uxori de servis crede querenti;
Sæpe etenim mulier, quem conjux diligit, odit.

Instandum correctione animi.

Cumque mones aliquem, nec se velit ipse moneri,
Si tibi sit charus, noli desistere cæptis.

Stulti verbis non vincuntur.

Contra verbosos noli contendere verbis;
Sermo datur cunctis, animi sapientia paucis.

Amicus sibi quisque primus.

Dilige sic alios, ut sis tibi charus amicus;
Sic bonus esto bonis, ne te mala damna sequantur.

Rumores spargere vetitum.

Rumores fuge, ne incipias novus auctor haberi;
Nam nulli tacuisse nocet, nocet esse locutum.

Fides aliena non promittenda.

Rem tibi promissam certò promittere noli;
Rara fides idè est, quia multi multa loquuntur.

Judex quisque sit sui.

Cum te aliquis laudat, judex tuus esse memento
Plus aliis de te, quàm tu tibi credere noli.

Beneficiorum ratio.

Officium alterius multis narrare memento,
Atque aliis cum tu benefeceris, ipse sileto.

Senio bene gesta referenda.

Multorum cum facta senex et dicta recenses
Fac tibi succurrent, juvenis quæ faceris ipse.

Suspicionis labe.

Ne cures si quis tacito sermone loquatur;
Conscius ipse sibi de se putat omnia dici

In prosperis de adversis cogitandum.

Cùm fueris felix, quæ sunt adversa caveto;
Non eodem cursu respondent ultima primis.

Mors alterius non speranda.

Cùm dubia et fragilis sit nobis vita tributa,
In morte alterius spem tu tibi ponere noli.

Animus in dono æstimandus.

Exiguum munus cum dat tibi pauper amicus,
Accipito placidè, plenè et laudare memento.

Paupertas toleranda.

Infantem nudum cùm te natura creârit,
Paupertatis onus patienter ferre memento.

Mors non formidanda.

Ne timeas illam, quæ vitæ est ultima finis;
Qui mortem metuit, quod vitit perdit id ipsum.

Amicorum ingratitude fugienda.

Si tibi pro meritis nemo respondet amicus,
Incusare Deum noli, sed te ipse coerce.

Frugalitas.

Ne tibi quid desit quæsis utere parcè;
Utque quod est serves, semper tibi deesse putato.

Promissio iterata molesta.

Quod præstare potes, ne bis promiseris ulli;
Ne sis ventosus, dum vis bonus esse videri.

Ars arte deludenda.

Qui simulat verbis, nec corde est fidus amicus;
Tu quoque fac simile; sic ars deluditur arte.

Blandiloquentia suspecta.

Noli homines blando nimium sermone probare;
Fistula dulce canit, volucrum dum decipit anceps.

Liberi artibus instruendi.

Cùm tibi sint nati, nec opes; tunc artibus illos
Instrue, quò possint inopem defendere vitam.

Res quomodo æstimandæ.

Quod vile est, carum; quod carum est, vile putato
Sic tibi nec cupidus, nec avarus habebis ulli.

Culpata non facienda.

Quæ culpæ soles, ea tu ne feceris ipse;
Turpe est doctore cum culpa redarguit ipsum.

Concedenda petenda.

Quod justum est petito, vel quod videatur honestum;
Nam stultum est petere id quod possit jure negari.

Nota ignotis non commutanda.

Ignotum tibi tu noli præponere notis;
Cognita iudicio constant, incognita casu.

Dies quisque supremus putandus.

Cùm dubia incertis versetur vita periculis,
Pro lucro tibi pone diem quocunque* laboras. * al. quicunque

Obsecundandum amicis.

Vincere cum possis, interdum cede sodali;
Obsequio quoniam dulces retinentur amici.

Amicitia mutua officia.

Ne dubites, cum magna petas, impendere parva;
His etenim rebus conjungit gratia charos.

Amicitia rixas odit.

Litem inferre cave cum quo tibi gratia juncta est,
Ira odium generat, concordia nutrit amorem.

Castigatio sine ira.

Servorum ob culpam cum te dolor urget in iram,
Ipse tibi moderare, tuis tu parcere possis.

Patientia vincendum.

Quem superare potes, interdum vince ferendo:
Maxima enim morum semper patientia virtus.

Quæsitæ sunt servanda.

Conserva potius, quæ sunt jam parta labore;
Cum labor in damno est, crescit mortalis egestas.

Consulendum sibi in primis.

Dapsilis interdum notis, et charus amicis;
Cum fueris felix, semper tibi proximus esto.

LIBER II.

Præfatio.

TELLURIS si fortè velis cognoscere cultus
Virgilium legito. Quòd si mage nôsse laboras
Herbarum vires, Macer has tibi carmine dicet,
Corporis ut cunctos possis depellere morbos.
Si Romana cupis et civica noscere bella,
Lucanum quæras, qui Martis prælia dixit,
Si quis amare velis, vel discere amare legendo.
Nasonem petito. Sin autem cura tibi hæc est
Ut sapiens vivas, audi quæ discere possis.
Per quæ semotum vitiis traducitur ævum.
Ergo ades, et quæ sit sapientia discas legendo

De omnibus bene merendum.

Si potes, ignotis etiam prodesse memento;
Utilius regno est meritis acquirere amicos.

Arcana Dei non scrutanda.

Mitte arcana Dei cælumque inquirere quid sit;
Cum sis mortalis, quæ sunt mortalia cura.

Mortis timor gaudia vitæ pellit.

Linque metum lethi, nam stultum est tempore in omni
(Dum mortem metuisti) amittere gaudia vitæ.

Iracundia cavenda.

Iratus de re incertâ contendere noli:
Impedit ira animum ne possit cernere verum.

Expendendum ubi opus est.

Fac sumptum properè, cum res desiderat ipsa:
Dandum etenim est aliquid, cum tempus postulat aut res

Fortuna modica tutior.

Quod nimium est fugito, parvo gaudere memento:
Tuta mage est puppis modico quæ flumine fertur.

Occulta vitia reticenda.

Quod pudeat socios prudens celare memento:
Ne plures culpent id, quod tibi displicet uni.

Occulta tandem revelantur.

Nolo putes pravos homines peccata lucrari:
Temporibus peccata latent, sed tempore parent.*

* i. e. apparent,
vulgo patent,
contra metri
legem.

Imbecilitas virtute compensatur.

Corporis exigui vires condemnare noli:
Consilio pollet cui vim natura negavit.

Cedendum potiori ad tempus.

Cui sciêris non esse parem te, tempore cede:
Victorem a victo superari sæpe videmus.

Rixandum cum familiaribus non esse.

Adversus notum noli contendere verbis:
Lis minimis verbis interdum maxima crescit.

Fortuna non quærenda sorte.

Quid Deus intendat, noli perquirere sorte:
Quid statuât de te, sine te deliberat ipse.

Luxus odium generat.

Invidiam nimio cultu vitare memento:
Quæ si non lædit, tamen hanc sufferre molestum est.

Animus non deponendus ob iniquum iudicium

Esto animo forti, cum sis damnatus iniquè.
Nemo diu gaudet, qui iudice vincit iniquo.

Reconciliatis lis non refricanda.

Litis præteritæ noli maledicta referre;
Post inimicitias iram meminisse malorum est.

Teipsum neque lauda nec culpa.

Nec te collaudes nec te culpaveris ipse;
Hoc faciunt stulti, quos gloria vexit inanis.

Parsimonia.

Utere quæsitis parcè cum sumptus abundat;
Labitur exiguo, quod partum est tempore longo.

Supercilium nonnunquam deponendum

Insipiens esto, cùm tempus postulat aut res;
Stultitiam simulare loco prudentia summa est.

Neque prodigus neque avarus esto.

Luxuriam fugito, simul et vitare memento
Crimen avaritiæ; nam sunt contraria famæ.

Loquaci parum credendum.

Noli tu quædam referenti credere semper;
Exigua iis tribuenda fides qui multa loquuntur.

Ebrius vinum non accuset

Quæ potu* peccas, ignoscere tu tibi noli;
Nam nullum crimen vini est, sed culpa bibentis.

* al. potus.

Amicis consilia credenda.

Consilium arcanum tacito committe sodali;
Corporis auxilium medico committe fideli.

Successus malorum non te offendant.

Indignos noli successus ferre molestè;
Indulget fortuna malis ut lædere possit.

Futuros casus prævidendos.

Prospice, qui veniunt, hos casus esse ferendos
Nam levius lædit, quicquid prævidimus antè.

Animus in adversis spe fovendus.

Rebus in adversis animum submittere noli;
Spem retine; spes una hominem nec morte relinquit.

Opportunitas cum contingit tenenda.

Rem tibi quam nosis aptam dimittere noli;
Fronte capillatâ, post est occasio calva.

Futura ex præteritis colligenda.

Quod sequitur specta, quodque imminet antè, videto;
Illum imitare deum, qui partem spectat utramque

Vitæ ratio habenda.

Fortius ut valeas, interdum parcior esto;
Pauca voluptati debentur, plura salutis.

Multitudini cedendum.

Judicium populi nunquam contempseris unus;
Ne nulli placeas, dum vis contemnere multos.

Valetudo curanda.

Sit tibi præcipuè, quod primum est, cura salutis;
Tempora ne culpes, cum sis tibi causa doloris.

Somnia non observanda.

Somnia ne cures; nam mens humana quod optat,
Dum vigilans sperat, per somnum cernit id ipsum.

LIBER III.

Præfatio.

Hoc quicumque voles carmen cognoscere, lector,
Quum præcepta ferat quæ sunt gratissima vitæ,
Commoda multa feres. Sin autem spreveris illud,
Non me scriptorem, sed te neglexeris ipse.

Dandam esse operam literis.

INSTRUE præceptis animum, nec discere cesses;
Nam sine doctrinâ vita est quasi mortis imago.

Moribus captanda fama.

Fortunæ donis semper parere memento;
Non opibus bona fama datur, sed moribus ipsis.

Recte agendo aliorum linguas ne timeas.

Cum rectè vivas, ne cures verba malorum;
Arbitrii nostri non est quod quisque loquatur.

Amici crimen celandum.

Productus testis, salvo tamen antè pudore,
Quantumcunque potes, celato crimen amici.

Blandiloquentia suspecta.

Sermones blandos blæsosque cavere memento;
Simplicitas veri sana* est, fraus ficta loquendi.

* Scal. fami, i. e. indiciu, al. ner-
ma.

Ignava vita fugienda.

Segnitiei fugito, quæ vitæ ignavia fertur;
Nam cum animus languet, consumit inertia corpus.

Animus fessus relaxandus.

Interpone tuis interdum gaudia curis;
Ut possis animo quemvis sufferre laborem.

Malo animo neminem reprehendas.

Alterius dictum, aut factum, ne carpseris unquam;
Exemplo simili ne te derideat alter.

Hæreditas augenda.

Quod tibi sors dederit tabulis suprema notato;
Augendo serva; ne sis quem fama loquatur.

Senectus sit munifica.

Cùm tibi divitiæ superant in fine senectæ,
Munificus facito vivas, non parcus amicis.

Verba attendenta, non os loquētis.

Utile consilium dominus ne despice servi,
Nullius sensum, si prodest, tempseris unquam.

Præsenti utendum fortunâ.

Rebus et in censu si non est quod fuit antè,
Fac vivas contentus eo quod tempora præbent.

Uxor spe dotis non quærenda.

Uxorem fuge ne ducas sub nomine dotis;
Nec retinere velis, si cøperit esse molesta.

Alieno sapere exemplo.

Multorum disce exemplo quæ facta sequaris,
Quæ fugias; vita est nobis aliena magistra.

Nihil ultra vires.

Quod potes, id tentes; operis ne pondere pressus
Succumbat labor, et frustra tentata relinquas.

Consentire videtur qui tacet.

Quod nōsti haud rectè factum, nolito silere;
Ne videre malos imitari velle tacendo.

Rigor favore temperandus.

Judicis auxilium sub iniquâ lege rogato;
Ipsæ etiã leges cupiunt ut jure regantur.

Feras quæ tuâ culpâ pateris.

Quod meritò pateris, patienter ferre memento;
Cùmque reus tibi sis, ipsum te iudice damna.

Multa legenda, sed cum judicio.

Multa legas facito; perlectis perlege* multa;
Nam miranda canunt, sed non credenda poetæ.

* al. neglig

Modestè in convivio loquendum.

Inter convivas fac sis sermone modestus;
Ne dicare loquax, dum vis urbanus haberi.

Iracundia uxoris non formidanda.

Conjugis iratæ nolito verba timere;
Nam lacrymis struit insidias, dum sæmina plorat.

Quæsitis utendum, non abutendum.

Utere quæsitis, sed ne videaris abuti;
Qui sua consumunt, cùm deest aliena sequuntur

Mors non formidanda.

Fac tibi proponas mortem non esse timendum ;
Quæ bona si non est, finis tanem illa malorum est.

Uxor proba, si loquax, ferenda.

Uxoris linguam, si frugi est, ferre memento ;
Namque malum est te nolle pati, hanc non posse tacere.

Pietas erga parentes.

Æquâ diligit charos pietate parentes ;
Nec matrem offendas, dum vis bonus esse parenti.

LIBER IV.

Præfatio.

Securam quicumque cupis traducere vitam,
Nec vitiiis hærerè animum, quæ moribus obsunt ;
Hæc præcepta tibi semper relegenda memento ;
Invenies aliquid quo* te nitare magistro. * al. quo vita utare.
al. tu te utare.

Divitiarum contemptus.

DESPICE divitias, si vis anima esse beatus ;
Quas qui suspiciunt, mendicant semper avari.

Vivere secundum naturam optimum.

Commoda naturæ nullo tibi tempore deerunt,
Si contentus eo fueris quod postulat usus.

Res ratione regenda.

Cùm sis incautus, nec rem ratione gubernes,
Noli fortunam, quæ nullat est, dicere cæcam. † al. non est.

Amor pecuniæ ad usum.

Dilige deniarum‡, sed parcè dilige formam, † al. de nari.
Quam nemo sanctus nec honestus captat habere.§ § al. ab ære.

In valetudine ne opibus parcas.

Quum fueris locuples, corpus curare memento ;
Æger dives habet nummos, sed¶ non habet ipsum. ¶ al. se.

Castigatio paterna ferenda.

Verbera cùm tuleris discens aliquando magistri,
Fer patris imperium, cùm verbis exit in iram.

Certa et utilia agenda.

Res age quæ prosunt ; rursus vitare memento
In quibus error inest, nec spes est certa laboris.

Libenter donandum.

Quod donare potes, gratis¶ concede roganti ;
Nam rectè fecisse bonis in parte lucrosum est. ¶ al. ne vende.
 al. lucrorum

Suspicio statim expendenda.

Quod tibi suspectum est, confestim discute quid sit
Namque solent primò quæ sunt neglecta, nocere.

Venus abstinentiâ cohibenda.

Cùm te detineat Veneris damnosa voluptas,
Indulgere gulæ noli, qua ventris amica est.

Homo malus, fera pessima.

Cùm tibi proponas animalia cuncta timere,
Unum hominem tibi præcipio plus esse timendum.

Sapientia fortitudini præferenda.

Cùm tibi prævalidæ fuerint in corpore vires.
Fac sapias; sic tu poteris vir fortis haberi.

Amicus cordis medicus.

Auxilium a notis petito, si fortè laboras;
Nec quisquam melior medicus, quàm fidus amicus.

Sacrificium, spiritus dejectus.

Cùm sis ipse nocens, moritur cur victima pro te?
Stultitia est morte alterius sperare salutem.

Amicus ex moribus diligendus.

Cùm tibi vel socium, vel fidum quæris amicum
Non tibi fortuna est hominis, sed vita petenda.

Avaritia vitanda.

Uttere quæsitis opibus; fuge nomen avari;
Quid tibi divitiæ prosunt, si pauper abundas?

Voluptas inimica famæ.

Si famam servare cupis, dum vivas honestam;
Fac fugias animo, quæ sunt mala gaudia vitæ.

Senem etiam delirum ne irrides.

Cùm supias animo noli irridere senectam;
Nam quicumque senet, sensus puerilis in illo est.

Opes fluxæ, ars perpetua.

Disce aliquid; nam cùm subito fortuna recessit,
Ars ramenet, vitamque hominis non deserit unquam

Mores ex verbis cogniti.

Perspicio tecum tacitus, quid quisque loquatur;
Sermo etenim mores et celat et indicat idem.

Ars usu juvanda.

Excerce studium, quamvis perceperis artem;
U: cura ingenium, sic et manus adjuvat usum.

Vitæ contemptus.

Multum ne cures venturi tempora fati;
Non metuit mortem qui scit contemnere vitam.

Discendum et docendum.

Disce, sed a doctis; indoctos ipse doceto :
Propaganda etenim rerum doctrina bonarum est

Bibendi ratio.

Hoc bibe quod possis, si tu vis vivere sanus .
Morbi causa mali nimia est quandoque* voluptas.* al. quæcunque.

Ne damnes quod probaveris.

Laudaris quodcunque palàm, quodcunque probaris,
Iloc vide ne rursus levitatis crimine damnes.

Circumspectus utrâque fortunâ esto.

Tranquillis rebus quæ sunt adversa timeto †;
Rursus in adversis meliùs sperare memento.

Studio Crescit sapientia.

Discere ne cesses: cura sapientia crescit:
Rara datur longo prudentia pemporis usu.

Parcè laudandum.

Parcè laudato: nam quem tu sæpe probaris,
Una dies, qualis fuit, monstrabit amicus.

Discere non pudeat.

Ne pudeat, quæ nesciêris, te vel doceri :
Scire aliquid laus est, turpe† est nil discere velle.

Rebus utendum ad sobrietatem.

Cum Venere et Baccho lis est, sed juncta voluptas:
Quod blandum est animo complectere, sed fuge lites

Tristibus et tacitis non fidendum.

Demissos animo, ac tacitos vitare memento :
Qua flumen placidum est, forsân letet altiùs unda.

Sors sorti conferenda.

Cùm tibi displiceat rerum fortuna tuarum,
Alterius specta quoq; sis discrimine pejor.

Ultra vires nihil aggrediendum.

Quod potes id tenta; nam litus carpere remis
Tutius est multò, quàm velis¶ tendere in altum.

Cum justo inique non contendum.

Contra hominem justum pravè contendere noli;
Semper enim Deus injustas ulscitur iras.

Fortuna utraque æque feranda

Ereptis opibus noli tu flere querendo:
Sed gaude potius, tibi¶ si contingat habere.

Ab amico quid ferendum.

Est jactura gravis, quæ sunt, amittere damnis :
Sunt quædam, quæ ferre decet patienter amicum.

† al. caveto.† al. culpa.¶ al. qui sua.¶ al. velum.¶ al. si nihil.

Tempori non confidendum.

Tempora longa tibi noli promittere vitæ :
Quocunque ingrederis sequitur mors, corpus ut umbra.

Deus quibus placandus.

Thure* Deum placa: vitulum sine crescat aratro ; * al. tura
Ne credas placare Deum, dum cæde litatur.

A potentioribus læsus dissimula.

Cede locum læsus, fortunæ cede potenti :
Lædere qui potuit, prodesse aliquando valebit

Castiga teipsum.

Cùm quid peccaris, castiga te ipse subinde ;
Vulnera dum sanas, dolor est medicina doloris.

Amicus mutatus non vituperandus.

Damnaris nunquam, post longum tempus, amicum :
Mutavit mores ; sed pignora prima memento.

Beneficiis collatis attende

Gratior officiis, quò sis magè charior, esto :
Ne nomen subeas quod dicitur officiperda.† † al. officiperda.

Suspicionem tolle.

Suspectis cave sis, ne miser omnibus horis :
Nam timidus et suspectis aptissima mors est.

Humanitas erga servos.

Cùm fueris famulos proprios mercatus in usus,
Ut servos dicas, homines tamen esse memento.

Occasionem rei commodæ ne prætermittas.

Quamprimùm rapienda tibi est occasio prima,
Ne rursus quæras, quæ jam neglexeris antè.

Non lætandum repentino obitu.

Morte repentina noli gaudere malorum :
Felices obeunt quorum sine crimine vita est.

Pauper simulatum vitet amicum.

Cùm tibi sit conjux, ne res et fama laboret, Vitandum ducas inimicum nomen amici. † al. non

SIVE,

CARMEN DE MORIBUS AD SUOS DISCIPULOS

QUI mihi discipulus, puer, es, cupis atque doceri,
Huc ades, hæc animo concipe dicta tuo.
Mane citus lectum fuge, mollem discute somnum;
Templa petas supplex et venerare Deum.
Attamen in primis facies sit lota manusque;
Sint nitidæ vestes, comptaque cæsaries.
Desidiam fugiens, cùm te schola nostra vocarit.
Adsis; nulla pigræ sit tibi causa moræ.
Me Præceptorem cùm videris ore saluta,
Et condiscipulos ordine quosque tuos.
Tu quoque fac sedeas, ubi te sedisse jubemus:
Inque loco, nisi sis jussus abire, mane.
Ac magis ut quisque est doctrinæ munere clarus,
Hoc magis is clarâ sede locandus erit.
Scalpellum, calami, atramentum, charta, libelli,
Sint semper studiis arma parata tuis.
Si quid dictabo, scribes: at singula recte:
Nec macula, aut scriptis menda sit ulla tuis.
Sed tua nec laceris dictata aut carmina chartis
Mandes, quæ libris inseruisse decet.
Sæpe recognoscas tibi lecta, animoque revolas:
Si dubites, nunc hos consule, nunc alios.
Qui dubitat, qui sæpe rogat, mea dicta tenebit.
Is qui nil dubitat, nil capit inde boni.
Disce, puer, quæso: noli dediscere quicquam:
Ne mens te insimulet conscia desidîæ.
Sisque animo attentus: quid enim docuisse juvabit,
Si mea non firmo pectore verba premas?
Nil tam difficile est quod non solertia vincat:
Iuvigila, et parta est gloria militiæ.
Nam veluti flores tellus, nec semina profert,
Ni sit continuo victa labore manûs:
Sic puer, ingenium si non exercitet, ipsum
Tempus et amittit, spem simul ingenii.
Est etiam semper lex in sermone tenenda,
Ne nos offendat improba garrulitas.
Incumbers studio, submissâ voce loqueris:
Nobis dum reddis, voce canorus eris.
Et quæcunque mihi reddes, discantur ad unguem:
Singula et abjecto verbula redde libro.

Nec verbum quisquam dicturo suggerat ullum :
Quod puero exitium non mediocre parit.
Si quicquam rogitu sic respondere studebis,
Ut laudem dictis et mereare decus.
Non linguâ celeri nimis, aut laudabere tardâ :
Est virtus medium, quod tenuisse juvat.
Et quoties loqueris, memor esto loquare Latinè :
Et veluti scopulos barbara verba fuge.
Præterea socios, quoties te cunque rogabunt,
Instrue : et ignaros ad mea vota trahe.
Qui docet indoctos, licet indoctissimus esset,
Ipse brevi reliquis doctior esse queat.
Sed tu nec stolidos imitabere Grammaticastros,
Ingens Romani decedus eloquii :
Quorum tam fatuus nemo, aut tam barbarus ore est,
Quem non auctorem barbara turba probet.
Grammaticas rectè si vis cognoscere leges,
Discere si cupias cultiùs ore loqui :
Addiscas veterum clarissima scripta virorum,
Et quos auctores turba Latina docet.
Nunc te Virgilius, nunc ipse Terentius optat
Nunc simul amplecti te Ciceronis opus :
Quos qui non didicit, nil præter somnia vidit,
Certat et in tenebris vivere Cimmeriis.
Sunt quos delectat (studio virtutis honestæ Posthabito) nugis tempora conterere :
Sunt quibus est cordi, manibus, pedibusve sodales,
Aut alio quovis sollicitare modo :
Est alius, qui se dum clarum sanguine jactat,
Insulso reliquis improbat ore genus.
Te tam prava sequi nolim vestigia morum :
Ne tandem factis præmia digna feres.
Nil dabis aut vendes, nil permutabis emesve,
Ex damno alterius commoda nulla feres.
Insuper et nummos, irritamenta malorum,
Mitte aliis : puerum nil nisi pura decent.
Clamor, rixa, joci, mendacia, furta, cachinni,
Sint procul a vobis : Martis et arma procul.
Nil penitus dices, quod turpe, aut non sit honestum.
Est vitæ ac pariter janua lingua necis.
Ingens crede nefas cuiquam maledicta referre,
Jurare aut magni nomina sacra Dei.
Denique servabis res omnes atque libellos,
Et tecum, quoties isque redisque, feres.
Effuge vel causas faciunt quæcunque nocentem,
In quibus et nobis displicuisse potes.

FREDET'S UNIVERSAL HISTORIES.

New, Enlarged and Improved Editions, carefully Revised and Corrected, up to 1867.

Prof. Fredet's Histories have been adopted as Text Books in the Irish University, Dublin.

These two volumes form a COMPLETE COURSE OF HISTORY, or a continuous chain of Historical Events, from the CREATION OF THE WORLD TO THE YEAR, 1867.

The distinguished and wide-spread reputation of the author as an Historian and Professor of History in St. Mary's College for twenty years, the universal favor with which these works have been received, and their immediate introduction into many of the principal Literary Institutions of the United States, and as Text Books in the Irish University, Dublin, preclude the necessity of giving only a few of the numerous complimentary and flattering testimonials that have been so freely extended to them, both in this country and in England where they are extensively used.

The present Editions have been IMPROVED, by the addition of QUESTIONS, at the end of each volume; thus rendering them still better adapted to the requirements of the Class Room.

ANCIENT HISTORY; from the dispersion of the Sons of Noe, to the Battle of Actium, and the change of the Roman Republic into an Empire. By PETER FREDET, D. D., Professor of History in St. Mary's College, Baltimore. 17th edition carefully revised and enlarged.120. half arabesque. 1 50

MODERN HISTORY; from the coming of Christ, and the change of the Roman Republic into an Empire, to the Year of our Lord, 1867. By PETER FREDET, D. D., Professor of History in St. Mary's College, Baltimore. 2nd revised, enlarged and improved edition.120. half arabesque. 1 50

The publishers have the pleasure of announcing that they have just issued new, revised, enlarged, improved and uniform editions of the above works. Each volume contains upwards of 500 pages, and may justly be considered the most authentic histories published.

The London Standard says: "These two excellent manuals of History have a wide and increasing circulation in America, and are everywhere held in the highest esteem. The compiler, Dr. Fredet, has achieved a task of no ordinary difficulty, in compressing so much recondite matter into so small a space; in leaving untold nothing that was of note of the immense and varied annals of the world. No college, school, or library ought to be without these excellent works."

The Dublin Telegraph says: "Fredet's Histories have been adopted, as a class-book, by the Irish Catholic University; and we entertain no doubt, that they will soon supersede, even in other establishments, those miserable compilations which wilful perverters of truth have long palmed upon the public—both Catholic and Protestant—as histories and abridgments of histories."

The Dublin Tablet says: "These two volumes are plain, copious, and useful summaries of history, and the number of editions through which they have passed attest their popularity."

The Philadelphia Instructor says: "We hope these Histories will soon find their way into every literary institution among us, in order that the young may learn the past from pure and uncorrupted sources."

The Buffalo Sentinel says: These beautiful treatises are quite deserving of the patronage which they obtain. They are most commendable for their Christian and unbiassed spirit. And we are not astonished that Dr. Fredet has his name taken up by the Irish University, proud that America has made therein such an inroad upon the abridged histories heretofore existing."

The Metropolitan says: "The style is veritably charming by its simplicity, and by the quiet love of his subject which the reverend author displays. It is the language of a talented and successful teacher, who relates to his class the great events of time, succinctly but graphically, without bombast, yet in a lively and picturesque manner. It is thus that history should be written for youth."

SCHOOL EDITION of LINGARD'S ENGLAND,

A neat volume of nearly 700 pages 12mo., only $1 50.

Abridgement of the History of England. By JOHN LINGARD, D. D. With a Continuation from 1688 to the Reign of Queen Victoria. By JAMES BURKE, Esq. To which are added, Marginal Notes and Questions, adapted to the use of Schools, by M. J. Kerney, A. M. Seventh edition.

The student will find that the ipsissima verba of the great Catholic Historian of England has been religiously preserved in the Abridgement.

Of the Continuation we shall merely say, that it has been written by an author who has been long and favorably known in literature.

The Metropolitan, in noticing this work, says:—"We are glad to see this excellent abridgment adapted to the use of schools. It will do much to remove those many false impressions, which English historians have hitherto made upon the readers of history by their word-painting of imaginary events. In no nation perhaps was history more "a conspiracy against truth," than in that of England, and in none did the mind of American youth need a more particular antidote to its poisoning influence. It was a good thought then to give a sound, reliable first-book to the youthful student, and we are happy to find that Mr. Burke and his able American collaborator, have succeeded in producing a text-book which we can with the utmost confidence commend to the favorable consideration of the instructors of youth."

The Cambridge (Mass.) Chronicle says:—"We have often called the attention of our readers to the great value of Lingard's History. The learning, ability, and general impartiality of the author are well known. An abridgment of the work was very desirable, and it appears to have been very well done by the present editor. No person can said to be thoroughly acquainted with English History who is not familiar with Lingard. The volume is well printed, in a clear type and convenient form, and furnishes a valuable contribution to the historical literature of the country."

The Catholic Instructor says:—"Murphy & Co., of Baltimore, have, with their usual enterprise, got up a school edition of the abridged "History of England," by the renowned Dr. Lingard. This work was greatly needed, and we trust that it will at once be introduced into all our colleges and schools. Histories of England are not so scarce as they are unfair. Most of them abound with false statements and distorted facts. Dr. Lingard is regarded as the most correct, impartial, and truthful historian of England."

The Dublin Review says:—"Mr. Burke's Abridgment is completely successful. We do not hesitate to pronounce the work as a whole, one of the most valuable additions to our scanty school literature which we have met with for many years."

The London edition of Brownson's Review says:—"Mr. Burke appears to have entered on his task with an enthusiasm equal to the ability which he has displayed in executing it. He has formed a Manual of British History, not merely the best for the object aimed at—the instruction of youth—but a volume of safe reference to those of riper years."

The Dublin Freeman's Journal says:—"Mr. Burke has performed his laborious task well, compressing into a comparatively small space, the substance of such a large work in the author's own language, adding a clear and rapid abstract of the national history down to the present year."

The London Lamp says:—"We thank Mr. Burke for the admirable manner in which he has accomplished his very difficult task of abridging the writings of Dr. Lingard, and we congratulate him on his valuable Continuation."

The Dublin Evening Post says:—"This Abridgment has been prepared for the use of schools, and while serving this purpose to perfection, it will do more, and persons who have long passed their school days may readily profit by the condensed information which it contains."

The Hull Advertiser says:—"Having compared the Abridgment with the large work, we can testify that Mr. Burke has performed the task undertaken by him with great skill, and the constant exercise of a sound judgment."

The London Critic says:—"The author has carefully and successfully produced a volume that must be very acceptable to those for whose use it was designed."

The London Rambler says:—"Mr. Burke has done his work well, and the result is very satisfactory."

The Dublin Tablet says:—"A Catholic History of England suitable for schools has long been a desideratum. The present volume supplies that want which has been so much and so constantly lamented."

SESTINI'S MATHEMATICAL WORKS.

Elementary Algebra. By B. SESTINI, S. J., author of Analytical Geometry, &c. &c. Professor of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy in Georgetown College.....12c. half arabesque. 75

The main object of this treatise is to render the science of Algebra intelligible to pupils whose minds are yet unaccustomed to such studies. The beginner will here be furnished with such proofs as are suited to his capacity; examples will afford new light to what might be otherwise obscure with regard to the operations founded on higher principles; he will, for the present, content himself with merely practical rules, exemplified in the same manner. With a mind thus gradually led on to strict mathematical discussion, he may then resume his course with profit, by the aid of a treatise now in preparation, which is intended as a sequel to this, and, by more exact and thorough investigation, complete his study of Algebra.

BRIEF EXTRACTS FROM NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

"This work recommends itself to favor by the admirable order of its parts, and the conciseness and clearness with which its principles are expounded. One needs but open the book to perceive that the author has brought to the execution of his task a ripened judgment and well-tryed experience. He is not a compiler—his work has the rare merit of originality, and every student of Algebra will thank him for having given in a few pages what has usually occupied a large volume, and for having rendered intelligible what has often proved an enigma to many." Metropolitan.

"This book might very properly be called 'Algebra without a master.' One very important improvement that the author has made upon all our text-books, and which deserves to be mentioned, is this, that he keeps monomials and polynomials distinct, and explains and applies to them separately the various rules as laid down in his Algebra. The work only wants to be known, in order to be universally approved." Western Tablet.

"We feel much pleasure in recommending it as containing nearly all necessary to be known on the subject of which it treats. It is eminently adapted for the use of young persons who wish to acquire a knowledge of the difficult science of Algebra." Halifax Catholic.

"To persons commencing the study of Algebra, we cheerfully recommend Mr. Sestini's work, as one well calculated to smooth the difficulties which beginners have to overcome in their first attempts to master that science." Pittsburg Catholic.

"As a rudimental book it will be found eminently useful in schools and colleges." Det. Vindicator.

"The author is well known as a man of great ability, and his work cannot fail to be of good service in schools." Buffalo Sentinel.

A Treatise on Algebra, by B. SESTINI, S. J., author of "Elementary Algebra," "Analytical Geometry," &c.12mo 1 00

"We have had occasion before to speak of the works of Professor Sestini, and the commendation we then bestowed upon them we have no hesitation in repeating now on this new work, which has issued from his indefatigable pen. The best praise, however, in these matters, is experience, and that this is in his favor is evident from the necessity of publishing a second edition of his Elementary Algebra. This shows that he has the proper manner of communicating knowledge on that abstruse study, and should be an 'a priori' recommendation to this larger treatise on the same subject. As far as we are capable of judging, for Algebra is not altogether a favorite with us, and we do not like to meddle with it much, we think this treatise will be very acceptable, not only to the student of mathematics, for whom it was ostensibly written, but to the scientific reader generally. It is as clear and concise as the nature of such works permit, and seems to embrace every thing necessary to a full knowledge of Algebra. But let the author himself speak. 'The treatise is divided into two parts, the first of which contains Algebraical operations, with several questions and doctrines connected with them, so that each section may prove complete in its own subject, and the inconvenience of turning elsewhere to speak of matter left unfinished before, may be avoided. . . . The second contains the most indispensable theories of equations, proportions, and progressions, logarithms and some few principles on the series. The doctrine of equations has been treated more copiously than the others, not so much on account of its importance, as because it is well adapted to give an idea of algebraic analysis, and thus prepare the mind of the student, who would afterwards apply himself to higher studies.'"—Metropolitan.

Elements of Geometry and Trigonometry, by B. SESTINI, S. J., author of "Analytical Geometry," "Elementary Algebra," &c.8vo. 1 50

"We have examined this new work of Professor Sestini with care, and are much gratified to be able to say that we consider it a most valuable addition to the elementary literature of mathematics. The style of the author is clear, his method at once brief and rigorously exact, and his explanations and statements remarkably perspicuous. The adoption of Algebraic notation from the very beginning, is a great economy of space and time, presenting to the eye, immediately, that which in the common method requires a long and tedious periphrasis. Besides, it is an excellent method of training the student for the higher branches of mathematical discussion in which this form of demonstration is essential. We cannot too highly recommend the work, and must say that though there may be no royal road to Geometry, this comes nearer to that easy route than any book we have seen." Baltimore Patriot.

"The author has succeeded in combining two qualities rarely united, great perspicuity and extreme conciseness. It has evidently been the result of great thought and long experience in teaching. The student passes gradually from the simpler to the more complex truths of the science. The work cannot be too warmly commended as an admirable introduction to the science it professes to teach, and we would advise teachers and parents not to select a text-book until they have given this volume a careful and candid examination." Metropolitan.

Wettenhall's Greek Grammar.—Rudiments of the Greek Language, arranged for the Students of Loyola College, Baltimore,—upon the basis of Wettenhall. Sixth edition.....12c., half arabesque. 75

Extract from the Preface—"It is not intended by this publication to present a new Greek Grammar to the classical student; after the elaborate volumes of Matthias, Buttman, Kühner, Gail, Burnouf and other scholars of Germany and France, it would be altogether vain to expect any new discovery in that language. The most that we can do is to avail ourselves of their labours in order to smooth the difficulties, which are usually met in its study. The greatest of these we have learned from a long experience in teaching, is the large size of the grammars, which are put in the student's hands, when he commences. Excellent as these may be for the professor or more advanced scholar, they only tend to deter the beginner from approaching it. We trust that this will be obviated by the present compendium, in which we have endeavoured to comprise within as short a compass as possible, all that is of absolute necessity to the learner. If it induce him to apply with more alacrity to study a language, second to none in the literary beauties and treasures which it contains, our intentions will have been amply fulfilled."

"This is a handy little introduction to the study of Greek. Our school-boy experience remembers well the dismay with which we took up the otherwise excellent grammar of Gloucester, old Ironsides we called it, and it well deserved the name for the batterings it received from our violence. But Ironsides was an epitome, when put in competition with the Greek Rudiments that succeeded it in school, and often when we were allowed to see Wettenhall, we hoped some good angel would put it into the heads of our masters to use his nice little volume in preference to all others. We knew not then how valuable in other respects for its purpose Wettenhall's was, but since we have been better able to understand the aptness of a book for the purpose of education, we are astonished how any one could ever have thought of giving up its comprehensive brevity, where there was very little superfluous, for the larger and more elaborate grammars, which since have frightened so many scholars away from classical studies. The advantage of this edition seems to be in the removal of some few superfluities, which yet remained. We commend it most heartily to those who wish to study that most perfect of all human languages, as the shortest and readiest way to smoothe all their difficulties."—Metropolitan.

"This work is intended for the use of beginners, and appears to comprise within a very small space, all that is absolutely necessary to the learner. We think it is eminently calculated to lighten the labours of the teacher, and smooth the way of the student. We commend it to professors and teachers throughout the Province."—Toronto Citizen.

The Baltimore Patriot says:—"The volume before us is a compact treatise upon the grammar of the Greek language, and supplies the student with all the grammatical knowledge he requires in order to begin the study of the Greek classics. It contains not only the necessary information on the subject of etymology and syntax, but also a sufficient account of the dialects, and a chapter on the digamma. It is emphatically multum in parvo."
